Three Former Council Members Get New Terms

ALVIN RICHARDS, BARRETT, JENKINS GIVEN NEW POSTS

Richards To Serve Four Years as Alderman and Barrett Gets Three-Year Council Term.

COCHRAN PLACED ON SCHOOL BOARD

Philip Breitenbucher, Elected by Council To Fill Unexpired Term, Is Returned to Seat.

Three former members of city council—Alvin Richards, Ellis B. Barrett and W. C. Jenkins—Wednesday were elected to the councilmanic delegation to represent the newly created 13th ward in the general election, and Ivan Cochran, leading furniture dealer, was named to the board of education from the same district.

Philip Breitenbucher, elected by city council to fill the unexpired term of the late Councilman Samuel Wardlaw, was returned to that post in his race against Paul Gentry. He will serve a two-year term.

Mr. Richards will serve the four-year term as alderman, while Mr. Barrett, the highest vote getter in the councilmanic contest, will have a three-year term. Mr. Jenkins obtained the two-year term.

Only 2,652 votes were cast in the election although about 20,000 Atlantans were entitled to cast ballots.

A general manager of waterworks, three aldermen, 11 councilmen and three members of the Atlanta board of education, all nominees of the democratic primary last summer, also were elected without opposition.

All those named will assume their duties beginning the first Monday in January, 1930.

Barrett Vote Leader.

Mr. Barrett, a former chairman of the aviation committee of city council, was the highest single vote getter, obtaining a total of 1,885 on the face of returns tabulated by The Constitution. He recently moved to the 13th ward territory and carried the ninth ward, from which the 13th was carved.

Oliver Dolvin, prominent real estate man, was named as second place by Mr. Jenkins by a vote of 796 for Dolvin as against 947 for Jenkins.

Mr. Richards received 1,315 votes as against 842 for Robert M. Cobb, Jr., serving now as councilman from the ninth ward, and 643 for T. C. Bazemore, leading undertaker.

Mr. Breitenbucher had 1,590 votes as compared to 1,044 for Mr. Gentry.

Votes For Council.

Others in the race for the councilmanic post from the 13th were given the following votes:

J. M. Collier, 380; Parks Rusk, 297; William S. Sanders, 360, and E. Stevens, 518.

Mr. Cochran defeated his opponents, W. G. Moore and Dr. F. P. Whitehead, by a vote of 1,469 as against 491 for Moore and 910 for Whitehead.

Thirteen bears no jinx for Mr. Jenkins, who was born of Friday the 13th, the exact year he withheld. He also was married on Friday the 13th and many of the good things he has enjoyed in his life happened on that date, he declared Wednesday night.

Barrett enrolled 24 of the 29 precincts in his column. He tied with Jenkins in first ward precinct B; lost fourth ward B and 10th ward A to Jenkins and ninth ward B and 11th ward C to Dolvin.

Jenkins carried only two of the 29 precincts, but ran well in all of them.

Richards Thanks Friends.

Mr. Richards, the successful entrant in the race for alderman from the 13th, issued the following statement following his election:

"To my large host of friends who visited the polls to vote for me and who worked so loyally and industriously, I express my thanks and deepest appreciation.

"I shall endeavor to the best of my ability to be worthy of the trust imposed upon me and discharge the duties of the office to the best interests of all Atlanta. I also wish to extend my compliments to my opponents for the clean, fair conduct of the campaign.

"Mr. Barrett declared he is grateful to his friends throughout the city.

"I wish to thank my friends in every part of Atlanta for their loyal and unflinching support of my candidacy," Mr. Barrett said.

"The fact that the people of the ninth ward, from which the new 13th was carved, gave me a majority over all other opponents is gratifying."

Mayor I. N. Ragsdale actively supported Mr. Barrett and the councilman-elect expressed his thanks for

CHINESE SITUATION

State Secretary Sharply Denounces Soviet Response to American Plea for Manchurian Peace.

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Dec. 5.—(Thursday.)—(United News.)—Tsai Yun-Sheng, Manchurian peace delegate, sent to Nikolai-Ussurisk to treat with a soviet representative, returned to Mukden today and said an agreement had been reached.

He denied, however, that he had signed a protocol for settlement of the Chinese Eastern railway, saying he must first consult with his government.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(AP)—The soviet resentment of Secretary Stimson's note looking toward pacification of the Chinese-Russian troubles in Manchuria led him tonight to assert the right of any adherent of the Kellogg anti-war pact to call to the attention of any other adherent its obligations under the treaty.

Declarations that the American government regards the pact as a commitment which has modified the world attitude toward peace and that the United States intends to shape its own policy accordingly also were asserted by the secretary in a formal statement.

With a slight ring of anger, Stimson denounced the Russian and soviet government of unfriendliness on the part of the United States reported to have been made by the Moscow authorities in their reply to the American plea to China and the soviet for peace between them in the Manchurian situation.

Russia has told the chief signatory powers of the Kellogg-Briand pact that she considers their recent notes, recalling her obligations under the pact, as a challenge to her position in Manchuria.

In a sharp memorandum to Paris and Washington the soviet government said that the American note, coming at a time when some of the disputed points had been negotiated between Moscow and Mukden, was not "a friendly act."

Japanese reports from Harbin said that Manchurian officials apparently did not consider as final the agreement announced in Moscow. Further discussions are expected before the Chinese Eastern railway controversy is settled.

The Chinese plenipotentiary to St. Petersburg returned for a conference with Governor Chang Hsueh-Liang.

Nanking's reply to the note of the peace pact powers was received in Washington and London. It briefly affirmed that China had abided by the pact throughout the crisis.

WHOLESALE MUTINIES IN CHINESE ARMY.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 5.—(AP)—A plague of war and violence gripped several sections of China today and threatened to spread, challenging the power of the nationalist government.

Large-scale mutiny of troops, wholesale murder and mutiny by a communist army and armed rebellion were rampant in various parts of the country.

The mutiny of the twenty-fourth division of nationalist troops at Pukow, across the Yangtze river from Nanking, the government's capital, was said by press dispatches to have been joined by 15,000 men of the division. After looting Pukow yesterday, the mutineers seized trains and departed for Pengpu, Anhwei province, receiving accessions on the way.

Recognizing the seriousness of the mutiny, the nationalist government dispatched 10,000 loyal troops in pursuit, but the mutineers burned several railroad bridges behind them. The pursuers, hampered by snow and rain, could not immediately engage the renegades.

The mutiny, it was reported, was brought about by the soldiers' objections to being sent to Kwangtung province, where for days the Kwangsi rebels joined with the rebellious "Ironsides" division have threatened the capture of the important city of Canton.

Months of looting and violence by a bandit horde, known as a communist army, in Fukien and Kwangtung provinces, culminated last Sunday in the slaying of 100 Chinese officials and other leading Chinese at Kanchow, Kiangsi province, said dispatches from that city. A reign of murder and looting by the "reds" lasted two days.

President Hoover, in First Budget Sent Congress, Says National Finances Are Sound.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(AP)—To carry forward the manifold activities of the government, President Hoover in his first annual budget message today asked congress to set aside $3,830,445,231 for the next fiscal year.

At the same time he declared the nation's finances to be in a sound condition and renewed his plea for a speedy reduction in taxes due on 1929 incomes. He based this request on an estimated surplus of over $225,000,000 for the current fiscal year and past experiences, which he said showed each slash in tax levies to have been followed by increased revenues.

The appropriations actually requested, while $145,696,000 less than for this year, were $272,493,469 less than estimated expenditures for the year 1930-31, at the end of which period a surplus of $122,000,000 was anticipated.

$200,000,000 appropriation for the federal farm board, to be submitted later, and a carryover of $72,000,000 from this year's appropriations would make up the difference, the message said.

Mr. Hoover asked for larger sums for many important activities of the government, including the army, the navy, flood control, rivers and harbors, public buildings, forest protection, and Indian affairs.

Considerable space was devoted in the message to the condition of the nation's exchequer, although this was dealt with at some length in the president's annual legislative recommendations submitted to the congress yesterday.

Saying the country was "wisely committed" to a policy which insured the further progressive reduction of the public debt, Mr. Hoover said this debt had been decreased from its peak of $26,500,000,000 in August, 1919, to $16,951,000,000 on July 30, 1929.

In 1931, he added, will be reached for the first time the period when the annual reduction required by law in the debt principal will exceed the annual interest charges.

Coincident with the reading of the budget message in the house, the senate having deferred this formal act to the time being, Secretary Mellon made his annual report to congress bolstering the administration's arguments for a tax cut of $180,000,000 and forecasting a bright business condition for 1931.

One of the largest items in the budget was $380,392,528 for the navy. This is an increase of $16,399,000 over the amount spent this year for this service branch and will be used for battleship alterations, submarine safety and salvage operations, higher navy pay, improvements to air stations, construction of two new dirigibles, ammunition storage facilities, and to carry forward the 15-cruiser building program.

Subject modification as a result of any limitations agreement at the forthcoming London conference affecting cruisers, the funds requested for the 15 cruisers and one aircraft carrier authorized in the last congress would be used to carry forward the

Bank, Rail Executives Threatened

Augusta Men Receive Letters Demanding Money Under Death Threats.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Two Augusta bank presidents and one railroad executive have received letters demanding money under threat of death, they revealed today.

The bankers are Charles H. Phinney, president of both the Georgia Railroad bank and the Georgia Railroad & Banking Company, and Thomas S. Gray, Sr., of Athens.

The railroad executive asked that his name be withheld.

Writers of the letters, which are being investigated, demanded $5,011 from Mr. Phinney and $3,400 from Mr. Gray, promising to return double the amounts if it was furnished and threatening death if the money was refused.

The writers claimed to be Chinese narcotic dealers who need money to carry through deals in the drug. The letters ended with the statement that two bank presidents have been recently killed for refusing to furnish the money demanded.

The notes directed that the money be deposited in spots outside the city. After conferring with officials, the bankers said the demands would not be complied with.

All Atlanta Joins in Giving Cuban Visitors Royal Welcome

Thousands turned out Wednesday afternoon to greet the Cuban good-will visitors, and a few of the outstanding celebrities are shown in the above photograph. At the top, left to right, seated together, are Mrs. J. M. Slaton, wife of the former governor of Georgia and chairman of the women's committee of the tour; Mrs. L. N. Ragsdale, wife of Atlanta's mayor; and Mrs. M. M. Gomez, wife of the mayor of Havana. Just below is a view of the Cuban Cadet corps "presenting arms" on their arrival at Terminal station. Top, right, the car bearing Colonel Morales Coello, personal representative of the president of Cuba, and Colonel D. K. Major, of the United States army. The quartet of young women, who were snapped on the rear platform of the special train which brought them to Atlanta, are Misses Silvia Tolon, Ophelia Silva, M. H. Alvarado and H. Cruz Bolivar. In the bottom picture, on the right, are Mayor M. M. Gomez, of Havana, on the right, and Mayor Ragsdale, of Atlanta.

Sun To Drive Frigid Spell Away Today

Fine, Clear Weather Is Promised Half-Frozen Atlantans.

The rays of Old Sol will beat down upon the house tops of Atlanta today to the tune of "Dixie," when an "ideal" day arrives to supplant the frigid spell that has held sway in this vicinity for nearly a week, according to the words of C. F. von Hermann.

The meteorologist at the local United States bureau issued a forecast of "fine, clear weather with decidedly warmer temperatures." After a day in which nearly 20 of the 24 hours were spent in sub-freezing thermometer levels, today's weather menu promises scarcely a touch of the frosty finger, Mr. von Hermann reported.

The lowest level expected to be touched by the mercury column in the wee hours of the morning will not be more than 2 degrees below the 32-degree mark, at the most, the weather man assured. This will represent a gain of more than 30 points on the thermometer compared with Wednesday's minimum temperature, which was recorded at 18 degrees.

Shifting Atlantans are promised that the marginal gain will be held throughout the day, with the maximum temperature slated to be 50 degrees. The maximum recorded Wednesday was 40 degrees.

Another phase of the "ideal day" promised by the forecaster will be elimination of the biting winds that have held as much terror for the sunny-natured Atlantans as the sub-freezing temperatures. Practically no breezes will vitiate the cozy effect of the sunshine, the weather man predicted.

SEARCH FOR LOST
AIR MAIL FLYER

VALLEY STREAM, N. Y., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh took off tonight shortly before midnight from Curtiss Wright airport for Cleveland, where he will join in the search for his friend, Thomas P. "Nell" Nelson, missing air mail flyer.

'STUTZ' JACKSON IS FOUND GUILTY

Convicted of Harboring Aubrey Smith After Escape—Mrs. Thompson Goes on Trial Today.

M. F. "Stutz" Jackson was convicted Wednesday night by a jury in Fulton superior court on two indictments charging that he harbored escaped convicts. The jury sent the penalty at one from one to three years on each indictment. Sentence will be passed this morning by Judge G. H. Howard.

Jack Livingston, who is already under sentence on similar charges, was one of the principal witnesses at the trial. Jackson was convicted on charges of harboring Aubrey Smith and Monte Wilson following their escape from the state prison farm. Mrs. Bashlie Thompson, under indictment in the same escape case, will be called for trial this morning.

Jackson was represented by Jesse Simmons and V. K. Mendor, attorneys. Solicitor-General John A. Boykin and Assistant Solicitor-General Ed S. Stephens conducted the case for the prosecutors. Judge B. H. Dunaway, superintendent of the state prison farm, and Judge V. H. Stanley, of the state prison commission, were on the jury.

TRUCKMAN GIVES OFFICERS DETAILS OF FIVE SLAYINGS

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 4.—(United News.)—Armando Boltares, 24-year-old San Fernando truck driver, confessed to deputy sheriffs late today that hatred had caused him to beat to death and shoot five members of the family of Luciano Garcia.

Deputies said he told with amazing hardness how he had lured Mrs. Arcelia Alvarez Garcia, her son, Carlos, 18, and her two daughters, Carmelita, 12, and Elisa Alvarez, 6, to Bootleggers canyon on October 9 and beat them with a club.

The husband and stepfather, Luciano Garcia, he followed to a ranch near Azusa five days later, shot down and buried the body, officers said. Boltares admitted.

Six Veterans Are Overcome By Gas Fumes

Members of D. A. V. Chapter Are Now Recovering From Effects.

Overcome by leaking gas in the basement at 21-2 Auburn avenue, where they were discussing plans for their annual Christmas charity dance, six members of Betty Harrison Jones chapter, Disabled World War Veterans, were taken to their homes late Wednesday afternoon for treatment.

H. B. Barfield, senior vice commander of the chapter, also became slightly affected by the fumes.

The men overcome by the fumes were C. D. Purvis, L. C. McEachern, Charles Gentry, W. R. Joyner, Dr. E. C. Epps, chaplain, and C. D. Tiller. Notified of the leakage, employees of the gas company were sent to correct it.

According to Mr. Barfield, about 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon one after another of the men complained of illness. Finally, said Mr. Barfield, all of the men succumbed to the fumes and went to their homes, where they were soon recovering from effects of the gas.

RASKOB ANNOUNCES HANDS OFF POLICY IN PARLEY DISPUTES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(United News.)—Chairman John H. Raskob of the democratic national committee said in an interview here today that the committee will not embroil itself in any candidacies for president or for congress.

This was in answer to inquiries about the possibility of Alfred E. Smith again being a candidate in 1932, and in connection with the campaign for reelection to congress of some democrats who opposed Smith in the last campaign. Among the latter are Senators Simmons, North Carolina, and Heflin, Alabama. The committee will confine itself to perfecting an organization. It will support all regularly nominated democrats.

Raskob said he has not talked to Smith about politics since the last election and did not know whether he intended to be a candidate again.

BUSINESS LEADERS BEGIN TASK TODAY

Hoover-Requested National Surveys To Be Launched at Sessions of U.S. Commerce Chamber

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Leaders of American enterprise, summoned by President Hoover to undertake national business surveys, will assemble tomorrow in Washington to undertake their task.

The United States Chamber of Commerce, under whose auspices they will convene, announced tonight that 400 heads of corporations and of national trade organizations had responded and would attend the series of sessions contemplated.

President Hoover prepared today a brief address to be read in part with the results of recent conferences at the White House, which as a prelude to tomorrow's gathering brought together representative men of the transportation, public service, banking and industrial world.

Secretary Lamont, Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce, and William Butterworth, president of the chamber, likewise are scheduled to address the meeting. Julius Barnes, chairman of the board of directors of the chamber, will be temporary presiding officer.

Next there will be a roll call of the most important of the nation's distinct industries to which 32 representative individuals will respond with 6-minute talks. Each is expected to deal with the outlook for 1930 in that particular line of industrial activity.

Among those who will respond will be R. H. Ashton, president of the American Railway Association; James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation, and representative of the Iron and Steel Institute; Alvin Macauley, of the Packard Motor Car Company, and representing the motor industry; John G. Louder, of St. Louis, president of the American Bankers Association, and Homer L. Ferguson, Newport News shipbuilder, speaking for marine industries.

The complete list of the industries to be thus publicly canvassed was not drawn up tonight.

Program for Cuban Delegation Today

8 A. M.—Start of sightseeing trip to Emory University, Stone Mountain and other places of interest in and around Atlanta.
12:30 to 1:30 P. M.—Luncheon for guests at the Georgia Military Academy to be followed by a review of the cadet corps.
3 to 4:30 P. M.—Reception to visiting Cubans at the executive mansion by Governor and Mrs. Hardman.
7 P. M.—Banquet at the Biltmore hotel given by the committee on reception and entertainment to be followed by a dance at the Piedmont Driving Club.

The Cuban good-will delegation has arrived. There could be no doubt of it after the demonstration which was staged at the Terminal station beginning at 2:40 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, when Atlanta fairly outdid herself in trying to make the visitors from the sunny south forget the chilliness of the air.

The weather was not exactly warm, but it was at least much warmer, as if even the elements were trying to do their best; and there was no trace of frigidity in the cheers of welcome which greeted the leaders of the party as they emerged from the train gate.

The police band struck up and did its best to make itself heard as the hundreds of people gathered around the station platform made themselves hoarse with shout after shout. Old friends greeted old friends and an army of interpreters scattered Spanish to the four winds as instructions were given and translated back and forth.

Parade First Event.

The parade through downtown Atlanta was of course, the first big event of the program of entertainment which has been arranged by local committees but this was preceded by many speeches inside the station, where official representatives of the state and city governments voiced their pleasure at the safe arrival of the party. Then there were responses from prominent Cuban officials and everybody seemed to enjoy the proceedings to the utmost. Perhaps some of the guests did not understand English but Grand Marshal

Suicide Pact Seen in Death Of Carolina Sweethearts

Elsie Poovey, 18-year-old student at Lenoir Rhyne college, and Luther Turner were found clasped in each other's arms in an automobile in the Catawba river, near Hickory, N. C.

Clasped in Each Other's Arms Bodies of Young Lovers Are Found in River.

HICKORY, N. C., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Clasped in each other's arms, as had been foretold by the youth, the bodies of Elsie Poovey, 18, Lenoir Rhyne college co-ed, and her sweetheart, Luther Turner, today were dragged from the bottom of the Catawba river near here. They were found in Turner's automobile, which apparently had been deliberately run off the river bank into deep water. Men who brought the bodies to the surface said they were clinging to one another. Whether it was a suicide pact or murder and suicide none could say, but officials inclined toward the latter theory. A brother of Turner, shortly after the couple disappeared Sunday from Highlands, received a note saying: "You will find our bodies in the Catawba river at the new steel bridge. I cannot live without Elsie and we will die in each other's arms." Relatives and officials, although disinclined to believe that young Turner had carried out his threat, offered rewards totaling $225 for information as to their whereabouts. It was their belief that the young couple had eloped, leaving the note as a "blind" and would turn up safely in a few days. This theory was given strength by the fact that no trace of their automobile had been found. Every clue was followed up, however, and today two men dragging the river near the bridge leading into Alexander county saw oil bubbles. The bodies were brought to the surface an hour later. The bodies were brought to Hickory.

his home here this afternoon when struck by an automobile driven by W. E. Sherman, of Dublin, Ga. The youth, according to his mother, had been visiting at a near-by house and was on his way home when the accident occurred. Sherman told Clayton county officers that the accident was unavoidable. He said the child was walking near the side of the road and darted in front of his machine and that he had no chance to swerve his car. Sherman is being held by officers here, pending an investigation. An examination revealed that the youth suffered a fractured skull. He also was badly crushed about the head and shoulders. The child is survived by his parents and two sisters, Mary Rakestraw and Wilmer Rakestraw. Funeral arrangements will be announced by A. C. Hemperly & Sons.

Defense Lawyer In Parks Case Under Arrest

MACON, Ga., Dec. 4.—(AP)—James W. Schell, youthful Macon lawyer, who yesterday demanded the death penalty for T. S. Martin, whose arrest he had caused on a perjury charge, was himself placed under arrest today by Sheriff Samuel G. Kitchens, of Twiggs county, on a bench warrant signed by Judge Earl Camp. Schell was technically in custody of the sheriff of Bibb county tonight on a promise that he will appear in Jeffersonville tomorrow. According to Sheriff Kitchens, Schell is wanted in Twiggs county on a warrant charging larceny after trust in failing to return a fine bird dog that he had borrowed. He gave bond at the time of the original arrest and the case was called in Twiggs county court a few days ago, but Schell and his bondsmen failed to appear. The bench warrant followed. Martin was still in jail here tonight, but he has urged his attorneys to seek a commitment hearing. The lawyers, however, were inclined to wait until after the grand jury investigates the case on Monday, it was ascertained.

A GIFT SHE'S SURE TO LIKE

Every General Electric Refrigerator is hermetically sealed.

Every day in the year a General Electric Refrigerator plays an important part in making life pleasanter, easier, safer. It guards your food from contamination, it eliminates waste, it adds to the festivity of any party, it makes every-day meals a tempting adventure instead of an uninteresting necessity.

Less work for the housekeeper, too. With its all-steel cabinet, this refrigerator is easy to clean, so completely sanitary that every woman will welcome it with a sigh of relief.

Since usefulness is always the measure of the value of a gift, what can even approach a General Electric Refrigerator? Come in and study its many superiorities. See its quiet, hermetically sealed mechanism, its sturdy, all-steel cabinet. And remember that its efficiency has been proved by this amazing record . . . more than 350,000 in use and not one owner has spent a single dollar for repairs or service.

If you like really good music, tune in on the General Electric Hour broadcast every Saturday evening.

A Further Reduction in LONG DISTANCE TELEPHONE RATES

EFFECTIVE JANUARY 1, 1930

The Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company announces a reduction in various rates for Long Distance telephone service, by the Bell System, effective January 1, 1930. This is the fourth reduction in long distance rates within little more than three years.

As an example of these reductions — the day station-to-station rate from Atlanta to Thomasville, Ga., will be $1.25 instead of $1.35; to Savannah, Ga., $1.30 instead of $1.45; to Brunswick, Ga., $1.40 instead of $1.65; to Darlington, S. C., $1.45 instead of $1.70.

Corresponding reductions will also be made in many person-to-person rates, evening and night rates and report charges.

Further changes will also be made in the toll rate schedule, whereby the charges for overtime minutes on person-to-person messages of over ten chargeable minutes will be reduced to the day station-to-station overtime rate on the time in excess of ten minutes. This change will result in substantial reductions in the charges on person-to-person message of long duration.

These reductions in various long distance rates will result in a saving of more than $5,000,000 a year to telephone users of the United States. It is in keeping with the fundamental policy of the Bell System, which is to provide the best possible telephone service at a cost as low as is consistent with financial safety.

What Does This Affiliation With Macy's Mean?

Every Day—our regular prices are "at least as low as the lowest in Atlanta"—and often lower.

Every Day—we meet the special sale prices of the other stores on the same merchandise.

Every Day—a special sale elsewhere becomes a special sale here.

Every Day—we try to know better what Atlanta wants.

Our own buyers and stylists interpret Atlanta's tastes and desires and then use the tremendous power of Macy's group of stores to get the lowest prices on the kind of things Atlanta wants.

This group of individual stores operating in four cities under the leadership of the great New York store of Macy's—the largest and fastest growing department store in America—not only gets low prices, but brings new styles quickly. It gathers unique and desirable merchandise from all of America and Europe.

The size of our stocks and the extent of the variety of merchandise offered here is only limited by the amount of business Atlanta gives this marvelous merchandising organization with almost unlimited resources to bring to Atlanta everything New York stores can offer just as rapidly as the growth of the Atlanta store justifies such action.

You may deal here assured that what you buy here will be of good quality, in good taste and style—and

A.&P. Sales Volume Reaches Billion on 70th Anniversary

On its seventieth anniversary, the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company has reached an annual sales volume of approximately one billion dollars, says Lawrence M. Hughes, writing in a recent issue of Sales Management.

"Until now the A. & P. figures have not been published," the article says, "although some 15,000 of their familiar red front stores now attract 5,000,000 housewives in 34 states daily—1,500,000,000 visits in the year—the immensity of their business perhaps has not been realized."

"While controlled mainly by the descendants of George Huntington Hartford, who started the chain with one little branch on Vesey street, New York, in 1859, stock has in recent years been issued in increasing amounts to the company's employees so that there are now over 6,000 employee-holders of common stock, in addition to more than 10,000 employee-holders of first preferred stock. This stock has been sold to the employees much below the current market price."

"The least enigmatic phase of the company's activities is the policy on which it has expanded. That policy is, simply, to 'keep everything asked for by the public in sufficient quantities to make it profitable for us to handle it'."

"There is, as an official of the company explains, 'no secret about the success of A. & P. Our stores are depots for the kind of food which a vast number of people have found suitable to their needs. These people have learned that they can get this food in small quantities in the A. & P. stores for only a trifle more than is paid for it by those who buy in huge quantities at the place where it is produced.'"

"Of course, with its tremendous production and buying facilities, A. & P. has many private brands. Some of these brands sell in great volume in greater volume than the most widely promoted nationally advertised brands. But the company carries the products of all manufacturers and pushes these national brands in its advertising."

"George Huntington Hartford started his first tea and coffee store in New York 70 years ago. He took the name, Atlantic & Pacific, to symbolize his ideal to extend the chain across the country. There was talk then of the iron trail which was soon to bridge together the two oceans. It was 10 years before the Union Pacific realized this transportation dream. George Hartford's dream, however, had not yet been realized as to geographical extent—although his successors have seen the development of an institution far greater perhaps than he ever imagined."

"From the start Mr. Hartford entertained the idea of a chain. The Vesey street store was not the limit of his first activity. He regarded it as a branch. He decided to operate several stores simultaneously and to make these stores unique in that they would show but little profit for each dollar passed over the counter. His first efforts were confined chiefly to the sale of tea and coffee. It was some years before he began to expand aggressively. Toward the end of the last century, however, A. & P.

stores were being operated in a number of large cities, specializing in tea, coffee and spices, and serving as bases for wagon routes operating in the surrounding territories. In 1912 the company turned to the development of the cash-and-carry store and began the rapid opening of new stores besides the conversion of its old stores to that type.

"One secret of A. & P.'s success was its ability to control its sources of supply."

"Its first activities were in the tea and coffee field. The company maintains 300 acres in South America for the purchase of coffee, and has representative offices in India, Ceylon and Java to buy tea. Its European agents purchase first and dates in Arabia; olives, olive oil and pimientos in Italy and Spain; sardines in Portugal and Norway; marmalades in Scotland and currants in Greece."

"Within the United States also the A. & P. carries many items direct from the producer to the consumer. Its men in the field arrange with producers of butter and eggs to ship from the middle west directly to its warehouses."

"There is an A. & P. office in California, under the direction of a representative who buys canned fruits from the various canneries; others in Wisconsin, Maryland and New York state buy canned vegetables, and one in Seattle to buy the canned salmon necessary in addition to that canned by A. & P.'s six Alaskan salmon canneries."

"In addition to these, the company operates many factories of its own, including the largest milk-condensing plant in the world, in Wisconsin, and a canner and preserving plant at Brockport, New York."

"It runs 30 bakeries and sold last year 500,000,000 loaves of bread. Its butter volume is 150,000,000 pounds; coffee, 140,000,000 pounds (of which, incidentally, 130,000,000 pounds were its own brands. Eight O'clock, Red Circle and Bokar). More than 10 per cent of the salmon sold in this country, about 24,000,000 cans, are distributed by the A. & P.; tens of thousands of carloads of vegetables pass yearly over its counters."

"In the last three years the company has started meat departments in many of its stores and these departments are being expanded rapidly. "Although there are now 15,000 of the familiar red-front stores, and their number has increased by leaps and bounds, particularly in the last 10 years, the present tendency is to increase the size rather than the number of the stores."

"So great has become the executive responsibility that the system is now operated through six divisions, each under its own president. Fifteen thousand is a very large proportion of nearly 350,000 or more grocery stores in the United States. A. & P.'s volume, however, is relatively much larger. Although the company operates only about one in every 25 stores in the country, it does about one-twelfth of the work of supplying the nation's food at retail. It has been influential, too, in setting an example for independents and other chains in store buying, store promotion and store management."

"The company's own advertising program, chiefly in local newspapers, costs $6,000,000 annually. A. & P.'s initiative has also been a factor in stimulating advertising by independent and chain competitors."

"A. & P.'s advertising campaign has been expanding since 1925 at the rate of about $1,000,000 a year. In 1925 its appropriation was less than $2,000,000. A year later this was increased to $3,000,000. In the three years since 1926 the appropriation has doubled."

LOCAL CREDIT MEN TO PLAN CAMPAIGN FOR $25,000 QUOTA

Preparations which Atlanta credit men have been making for several weeks to take part in the $1,750,000 second credit campaign fund drive of the National Association of Credit Men will come to a head Friday when a group of 50 local credit managers gather for luncheon at the Atlanta Athletic Club for the purpose of opening a drive to raise Atlanta's $25,000 quota. P. M. Millians, Ernest L. Rhodes Company, is campaign chairman.

The speaker at the luncheon will be Dr. Stephen I. Miller, nationally known economist, executive secretary for the National Association of Credit Men. Dr. Miller will come direct from Washington, where he and Lawrence Whitty, president of the association, today will be in conference with President Hoover on the present economic situation of the country.

Coincident with the opening of the campaign is the secretarial conference of the national association to be held Friday and Saturday at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel. Secretaries of credit associations from all over the south will attend this meeting. At a dinner Friday evening at the Atlanta Athletic Club the visiting secretaries will hear Dr. Miller give a message that has not entirely to do with credit protection.

The drama laboratory class of Oglethorpe University will present "Framed," an act from Bayard Veiller's "Within the Law," rebuilt into a one-act play, at the University theater at 6:15 o'clock Friday night. "Framed," which is directed by Earl Blackwell, is the class' second production this season. The first was "Innocent Child."

All of the scenery has been designed by the drama class. Especially has the class been helped by the aid of Sam Miller, an Oglethorpe freshman, who has painted scenery for the Er-langer and Atlanta theaters. The cast for "Framed" includes Betty Crandall, who before coming to Oglethorpe played ingenue roles with the United Company; Miriam Gertman, who recently turned down a movie offer in order to continue school; Jack Barker, of Boston, who at one time played character parts with the Tryout Little theater of Wellesley, Mass.; Paul Goldman, formerly a member of the Mar-tha Lee Dramatic school and the Little Playhouse theater in Cleveland; Natalie de Golan, who is a student both at Oglethorpe and the High Museum of Art; Katherine Maugham, Atwood Whittington, Howard Martin and Robert Jones.

The 24th U. S. Infantry band, composed of negro musicians, will be heard in concert at the Auditorium tonight, and half of the seating space has been reserved for white people. Big Bethel choir will be on the program as an added attraction to aid the Fort Benning musical organization.

BOARD TO RECONDITION 2 GEORGIA HIGHWAYS

McBean Road and Cochran Short Road Will Be Put Into Shape.

The state highway board Wednesday agreed to recondition the McBean road, between Augusta and Waynesboro, and the Cochran short road, connecting Macon, Cochran and Eastman, and took under advisement a petition urging the paving of the Atlanta to Gadsden, Ala., highway from this city to the state line.

The petitions for the projects were presented by delegations. That from Richmond county, which was headed by F. H. Turner, chairman of the committee on roads and avenues of the Richmond county board of commissioners, urged the improvement of the McBean road and the Peach Orchard highway, as well. The Peach Orchard highway, an alternative route from Augusta to Waynesboro, will be paved from county funds, it was said. The Richmond delegation also advocated the paving of the Augusta-Atlanta highway, approximately one-third of which now has hard surface.

In making the request for the early paving of the Atlanta-Gadsden highway a delegation led by Senator Charles W. Peek, of Cedartown, brought out that the road would connect the three units of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, at Gadsden, Rockmart and Cedartown, with Atlanta. Only nine of an approximate 39 miles between Atlanta and the state border are paved, it was said.

Other members of the delegation included Judge John R. Davis, of Cedartown; J. T. E. Etnire, of Rockmart, and J. E. Etnire, of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company mill at Rockmart.

Dr. Lucian Knight To Write History Of Fulton County

A history of Fulton county, tracing its formation, growth and development, and giving biographical sketches of its leading men and women now is under preparation by Dr. Lucian L. Knight, state historian emeritus, it was learned Wednesday.

Dr. Knight was urged to undertake the work, it was said, in anticipation of the forthcoming two-hundredth anniversary of the founding of Georgia. While various histories of Georgia and different sections of the state have been published there is none of Atlanta's own county.

An advisory board, the personnel of which will be announced later, will assist Dr. Knight in preparing the history.

Mellon Places Tax Cut Plan to Congress; Sees Good Business in 1930

Adoption of Flexible Provision for Tax Law, To Give Power To Cut, Also Recommended.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Secretary Mellon placed a tax reduction plan formally before congress today along with a statement that business was good in 1929 and promised to be good in 1930.

Citing a surplus of treasury receipts over expenditures of $184,000,000 for the fiscal year ended last June 30, and estimating $225,000,000 would be available for the 12 months ending next June 30 and $122,000,000 for 1931 he suggested the following rate changes:

A reduction on normal incomes and corporation incomes of 1 per cent, making the levy on individual incomes 1.2 per cent on the first $4,000, 2 per cent on the next $4,000 and 4 per cent on all above that figure, with a drop from 12 to 11 per cent on corporations. Mr. Mellon said the lowering of the tax on corporations would benefit the largest number of persons. These business organizations, he said, were overtaxed in comparison with individuals.

The secretary emphasized his known views in making his recommendations. These included one which he had previously made informally, that congress adopt a flexible provision for the tax law which would enable the government to lower or raise taxes as the condition of the treasury's finances warranted.

Reason for Surpluses. Speaking of the surpluses, the secretary said the excess of receipts was due to a great increase in individual income, which in 1928 showed a gain of $2,000,000,000 in profits from sale of capital assets, due to trading on the stock market. It was difficult to determine, he said, what effect "the precipitous decline of security values" would have on security transactions "which unquestionably yielded a very large income in 1928 and the first eight months of the calendar year 1929."

Most of the secretary's annual report, containing his recommendations, dealt with conditions which governed before the recent stock market plunge, but it contained no note of pessimism for the future. As to last year he said business enjoyed a "highly satisfactory year."

Because the indicated surplus in the fiscal year 1930 might be of the temporary variety he urged congress to make the tax reduction through resolution, so that while it would give the taxpayers the benefit of the proposed year, and could be retained next year if found warranted, it would permit the return of the present rates without any further action, if that was found advisable.

In making his tax reduction recommendation the secretary said that the public debt was being adequately cared for and pointed out that the total had been reduced from $17,604,290,562 to $16,351,197,747 in the fiscal year 1929. He presented estimates showing that in the present fiscal year (1930) the treasury expected to collect $4,249,293,434 and estimated expenditures at $4,023,981,900 while in 1931 it expects to collect $4,225,727,066 and spend $4,102,935,700.

Cut in Corporation Tax. In asking that the corporation tax be reduced 1 per cent the secretary pointed to statistics which he said showed that corporate income had increased 24.46 per cent of their income, whereas 2,059,000 individuals had an average rate of taxation of 0.46 per cent. "The number of individuals contributing directly to the support of the federal government through the federal income tax has been strictly limited," the report said, "and, of those contributing, the vast majority pay but an insignificant amount at a very low rate. Of 2,434,000 individuals returning taxable income 2,059,000 returned but $22,861,000 of income tax while 375,000 individuals returned a net tax of $1,109,000,000. The average rate of tax on the net incomes of the 2,059,000 individuals was 0.42 per cent, whereas the million of individuals who owned stock in corporations were that year paying through corporations 12 per cent of the profits of the business enterprise in which they were shareholders." The figures were from a study of the 1927 returns.

In 1927, the secretary continued, corporations paid $5,786,000,000 in dividends so that for every dollar in dividends they declared, they paid 46 cents in taxes.

Mr. Mellon declared the federal reserve board had endeavored to guard against undue extension of credit through speculative channels and to conserve the country's resources for the purpose of meeting the future requirements of industry and trade. He called attention to the extension of group banking and urged that congress study the situation. "It was hoped, however," he said, "that any further extension of group and branch banking 'will proceed gradually and that hasty legislation, either to liberalize or to restrict limitations, now in effect, will be avoided.'"

Out of $707 banks in the federal reserve system 554 were operating 2,291 branches, he said.

LAKE JUNALUSKA PROPERTY PLACED IN CHURCH HANDS

LAKE JUNALUSKA, N. C., Dec. 4.—(AP)—The Lake Junaluska southern assembly property last night was formally transferred from Southern Assembly, Inc., a private corporation, to the board of trustees representing the Methodist Episcopal church, south.

The board comprising two trustees from each of the 13 annual conferences of the church, after the transfer had been made, organized, E. A. Cole, of Charlotte, was elected president, and the following vice presidents were named: Dr. E. P. Anderson, Springfield, Tenn.; John T. Fisher, Memphis, Tenn.; and Dr. E. L. Wood, Winchester, Va. The Rev. Ralph E. Nolner was elected secretary-treasurer. As its executive committee, the board of trustees named Mr. Cole, Dr. W. P. Few, president of Duke University, Durham; Dr. J. A. Baylor, of Knoxville; Dr. C. Stimson, of Owensboro, Ky.; and Dr. A. W. Pyle, of Greensboro.

The property for which the church representatives received the deed Tuesday night has a total value of $1,000,000. In addition to the lake and the 600 acres of land, there is the property a hotel, office building, and a golf course, roads, etc., on the ground.

SOUTH GEORGIA NEGRO METHODISTS OPEN CONFERENCE

McRAE, Ga., Dec. 4.—(Special.)—Negro Methodist church delegates of South Georgia opened their annual conference here today, with Bishop R. A. Carter, of Atlanta, presiding. Nearly 200 ministers and lay delegates were in attendance.

Organization of committees for courses of studies, reports by various district presiding elders, and the annual sermon, preached by the Rev. C. W. Lawson featured today's program. Holy communion services also were held.

Visitors introduced today included Dr. J. A. Martin, editor of Sunday school literature, Nashville, Tenn., and Mrs. R. A. Carter, who gave brief addresses.

Pastors making their reports today were: Rev. S. L. M. Pettigrew, Albany; C. V. Lawson, Thomasville; J. H. Jefferson, Camilla; J. H. Standifer, Newton; G. W. Washington, Newton; M. W. Williams, Leary; W. J. Seabrook, Blakely; N. K. Kimball and H. K. Sanders, Thomasville, and F. C. Cray, of Quitman.

Election of delegates to the general conference, which will meet at Louisville, Ky., in May 1930, is expected to take place tomorrow or Friday.

NEW REFORESTRY STATION IN GEORGIA IS ASKED IN BILL WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Establishment of a reforestation station to cost $100,000, and a fish cultural station to cost $75,000, in the first congressional district of Georgia would be provided under bills introduced today by Representative Edwards, of Georgia.

The reforestation station provided for in the bill would be located in the slash line and naval stores belt of Georgia, and would be used for experimental purposes, B. M. Lufburrow, state forester, said Wednesday.

Congressman Edwards in introducing the bill acted in co-operation with his office, he said. The location at which the station would be established has not yet been decided.

Peter S. Twitty, state commissioner of game and fisheries, was out of the city Wednesday and could not be reached for a statement.

MACON FIREMAN DIES AFTER FALL FROM LADDER

MACON, Ga., Dec. 4.—(AP)—A. Mack Wyche, 37, veteran fireman, died at a hospital at 8:25 o'clock tonight from injuries he received in a fall as a ladder collapsed at his home Tuesday.

Mr. Wyche had been a member of the fire department 27 years. He went through the hazards of many of Macon's biggest fires during that period without injury. He was retired about six months ago.

Tuesday he climbed a ladder at his home on Virginia avenue, to direct repairs on a roof. The ladder collapsed as he was near the top and he fell with such force as to cause a fracture of the skull, a broken collar bone, broken shoulder and other injuries.

LORDS DISAPPROVE LABOR PARTY STAND ON SOVIET QUESTION

LONDON, Nov. 4.—(AP)—The house of lords today registered strong disapproval of the labor government's efforts to resume diplomatic relations with the soviet union. The house voted 43 to 21 in support of a motion introduced by Lord Birkenhead "that diplomatic recognition of the soviet government is not desirable."

It was the second defeat for the government in the house of lords within three days, but, as in the first instance, the vote of the upper chamber was not expected to alter materially the government program.

American Superpower Gives Largest Dividend To Common Stockholders NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Directors of American Superpower Corporation today declared a cash dividend of $1 on the common stock for the entire year 1929. This is the first payment on the present stock, created by the five-for-one splitup in June, and the largest cash disbursement to be made by the company to its common stockholders. Payments on the common have heretofore been largely in stock. Last year 30 cents in cash was paid, and 1-25 share of common and 1-5 share of $6 preferred.

106 NEW INSPECTORS FOR CUSTOMS SERVICE

President Hoover Proposes Increase of $479,300 To Provide for Expansion.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Details of the reorganization of the customs bureau proposed to congress in President Hoover's budget message were made public today by Customs Commissioner Eble and calls for 106 additional inspectors, 25 of whom will be assigned to the port of New York.

President Hoover asked congress for an increase of $479,300 for the bureau to be used in creating new positions and expanding the service. Of this amount, $52,360 will go for increased salaries in the customs headquarters, permitting an entire revision of the administrative methods of the organization. The remainder of the money will be used to add 228 inspectors, customs guards, entry clerks and other employees to the service.

The reorganization of the headquarters staff will include an addition of two deputy commissioners which will enable Commissioner Eble to form an organization with the deputy commissioner at the head of each division who will deal with the problems of that section. Under the present small force, all questions are referred to Commissioner Eble.

The plan of reorganization provides for increasing number of customs guards, inspectors and minor employees in each of the 48 customs districts and will give additional funds for use along the Canadian border. At present the total number of employees of the bureau is 9,847 and the administrative staff consists of 88 employees.

The small administrative organization has directed the collecting of approximately $600,000,000 a year in customs duties and last year the total reached $606,000,000, an increase of $37,000,000 over the preceding year. Under the revised plan the headquarters staff will consist of 112 persons.

11 SEAMEN DROWNED IN PAGO PAGO WRECK

Rescue Vessel Fights for Lives of Survivors on Bleak Island.

PAGO PAGO, American Samoa, Dec. 4.—(AP)—With 11 men known to have drowned in the wreck Saturday of the freighter Norwich City off Gardner island in the Phoenix group, 700 miles north of here, word was awaited late today of the success or failure of efforts to rescue 21 of their companions.

Thirty-five men were aboard the Norwich City when she piled up on a coral reef, there to be beaten to pieces by the heavy surf. A radio message from the steamer Irongate told of the rescue of three members of the wrecked freighter's crew, and it was presumed here that they had been among the 24 who reached the shore of the bleak and uninhabited island.

The Irongate reported a rocket line had been landed on the island, and that despite the high seas, efforts would be made to get the other survivors on board the steamer today. The wreck of the Norwich City left the men on the island without food or water, they informed the rescue ship.

The rescue vessel, the Irongate, was expected to arrive today at Pago Pago.

The Irongate reported a rocket line had been landed on the island, and that despite the high seas, efforts would be made to get the other survivors on board the steamer today. The wreck of the Norwich City left the men on the island without food or water, they informed the rescue ship.

STUDENT LOAN FUND LEADERS ORGANIZE

Kendall Weisiger Is Named President of New Organization.

Organization into a conference group of a number of agencies interested in lending money to college students in Georgia was launched Wednesday afternoon at a luncheon given at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

Kendall Weisiger, chairman of the Rotary Club's educational fund and an expert in the administration of loan funds, was elected president, and Mrs. W. F. Askew, secretary of the college placement office, as secretary. A name will be selected and plans worked out for the functioning of the organization by committees to be appointed later.

It is not intended that funds left in trust or otherwise provided shall be administered by the new organization, or that there will be any central administration office. The men and women who direct the various student loan funds will join only for mutual assistance and counsel as to the best methods of selecting student beneficiaries, systems of advancing funds, and other details. It was pointed out that funds by which boys and girls may be assisted through college, on an agreement to repay all money lent them, are steadily growing, but the demand is far ahead of the sums necessary. The 20 or more who attended the luncheon were guests of Cator Woolford, who has for years taken deep interest in educational work. There were representatives of several leading colleges and officials of several organizations which handle student loans. Among those who spoke on various angles of the subject were Mrs. J. K. Otley, Kendall Weisiger, Thomas C. Law, Dean J. F. Sellers, of Oglethorpe; Dean Comer Woodward, of Emory; Dr. T. W. Reed, of the University of Georgia, and David Woodward.

Two Small Coffins Put On Doorsteps Terrorize Negroes

Two small coffins, perfect reproductions in miniature of authentic articles, today lie upon the desk of Chief of Detectives A. Lamar Poole, while men under his command are seeking those who are responsible for placing them upon the doorstep of two negro homes early Wednesday morning, to the subsequent terror of the occupants of the houses.

Horace Dobbs, of 188 North Mayson avenue, and Will Banks, of 209 North Mayson avenue, are the two negroes who received the sinister warnings placed upon their doorsteps early Wednesday morning or late Tuesday night. The coffins were lined with silk and satin shrouds and accompanied each were cards bearing the inscription, "Move or These Await You—K. K. K."

The coffins are about two feet long and half a foot wide. They are reproduced in every detail of a larger one, even to the nickel-plated handles. The gruesome warnings were propped against the negroes' front doors and were found when they started to work Wednesday morning.

$1,795,000 IN GEORGIA FEDERAL MONEY ASKED

Many Improvements in State Proposed in Bills Before Congress.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Bills to expend $1,795,000 have been introduced or reintroduced in congress by Representative Edwards, of Georgia.

One bill would commit the federal government to a policy of aiding drainage projects and authorize an appropriation of $1,000,000 to begin work on an experimental basis in the Georgia first congressional district and elsewhere.

Another bill would authorize refund of $100,000 of cotton tax money, alleged to be illegally in the treasury, to the several states from which it was collected, with the states directed to distribute it to the persons by whom it was paid. Claims are to be filed within a year after passage of the bill and money unclaimed would be turned over to surviving Confederate veterans and their widows.

Another measure of Representative Edwards would authorize $50,000 for establishment of an experimental station and a national park at "Old Stockade," near Millen, Ga., and another would expend $25,000 for a memorial to mark the field near Waynesboro, Ga., where the Battle of Brier Creek in the American Revolution was fought.

Construction of postoffices in six Georgia cities—Metter, Sylvania, Clayton, Reidsville, Glenville, and Waynesboro—at a cost of $100,000 each, is proposed in another bill. Another bill of the congressman would expend $20,000 for a memorial at or near Ebenezer church, Effingham county, Georgia, to mark the spot where the settlers settled their colony in 1734.

State Lawyers To Hold Annual Meeting in May

MACON, Ga., Dec. 4.—(AP)—The annual convention of the Georgia Bar Association will be held at the new Clowder hotel, St. Simons Island three days beginning next May 29, it was announced here today by John B. Harris, chairman of the executive committee.

Though the lawyers met last year in Atlanta, they met for many years previous to 1929 at Tybee, near Savannah. Mr. Harris said the details for the 1930 meeting are being arranged, but that the program will not be announced formally until the spring meeting of the executive committee in Atlanta.

The chairman said, however, that entertainment including dancing and boating will be featured. There will be a formal dinner at which the annual address will be made, but the speaker has not been selected. The dinner will be held at the Oglethorpe hotel in Brunswick in order to vary the activities. Special invitation from the Brunswick hotel was extended to the association.

Co-operating with the executive committee of the association in arranging the program is a special committee appointed by the Brunswick Bar Association. The committee is under the chairmanship of Millard Reese, former president of the association.

More than 500 lawyers will be in attendance, Mr. Harris said. The executive committee chairman is a member of the Macon law firm of Harris, Harris and Popper.

Other members of the executive committee are Joseph E. Pottle, of Milledgeville, president; Logan Blackley, Atlanta, treasurer, and H. F. Lawson, Hawkinsville, secretary. All ex-officio members of the committee are David E. Atkinson, Savannah; Alex W. Smith, Atlanta, and W. W. Mundy, Cedartown.

ADVERTISING CLUB TO STAGE FOLLIES AT DINNER TONIGHT

Problems of the advertising profession will be turned into fun tonight at the presentation of the Advertising Club's Follies of 1929, beginning with dinner at 6:30 o'clock at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

From the number of reservations that have already been made a large attendance is expected, and it is necessary for those desiring places to notify Mrs. Virginia H. Goudey, who may be reached at Walnut 9161. In addition to members of the club, anyone interested in advertising is welcome.

A number of features are on the program, including several one-act plays and skits. Among those taking part are Joel Chandler Harris, Jr., Frances Hargis, Doris Camp, Howard Haire, Wylie West, Adelle Anderson, John Outler, H. Van Devender, Claire Lang and Julian De Ories.

Leonora Anderson, who was program chairman for November, will be in charge of the entertainment, and it takes the place of the regular weekly luncheon that is held by the organization.

SHEPPARD SEEKS EARLY HEARINGS ON "BUYER" BILL

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(AP)—The ultra-dry proposal to make the buyer of liquor as guilty as a bootlegger moved forward today.

Senator Sheppard, democrat, Texas, author of the eighteen amendment, said he would ask Chairman Norris to hold hearings of the senate judiciary committee as soon as the pending Vane case is disposed of by the senate on his bill to include buyers under the penalty provisions of the Volstead act.

Meantime Clarence True Wilson reported in his secretary's report to the annual meeting of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, that the Sheppard bill should be enacted.

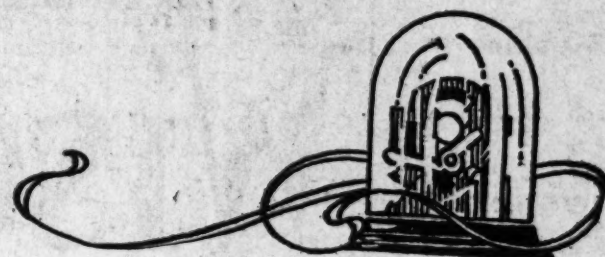

Deets Pickett, another Methodist board spokesman, said in his report as research secretary that the Jones-Stalker "five and ten" law already has proved a success.

Oglethorpe Chimes Will Play Carols On Christmas Eve

Christmas carols will be played on the chimes at Oglethorpe University on Christmas Eve night from 7 until 10 o'clock. Also each afternoon at 4 o'clock during Christmas week songs of Yuletide will be played.

The selections will include: Holy, Holy; Little Town of Bethlehem, and Holy Night. The Atlanta public is invited.

This will be the first time that carols have been played on college chimes in Atlanta. These bells, presented to Oglethorpe by Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Leach, of Boston and Mrs. J. M. Hays, of Atlanta, are one of the newest features of the University.

ATLANTA Did Not Have to Be "TICKER TAMED" to Decide to go to Work!

In other cities--following the stock market crash--folks worried. Will business men get back to work? they queried. . . Atlanta has never rolled down its sleeves, never has stopped working!

Hotel clerks here--unlike New York--never got into the habit of asking guests, when they registered: "Do you wish a room for sleeping or for JUMPING purposes?"

Working invariably produces better results than worrying. The accompanying map--picturing business conditions throughout the country--is sufficient evidence of this fact. Atlanta, you will observe, is one of the comparatively few sections where business is "GOOD."

What, Then, Is the Best Way to Sell Your Goods to This Responsive Market?

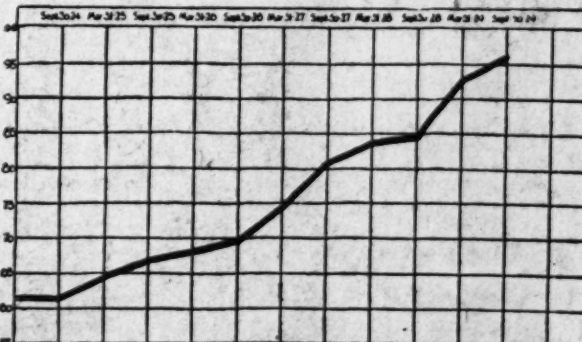

Newspaper advertising is admittedly most economical, most effective. But which Atlanta newspaper—or must you advertise in all three to properly cover the market?

are only 35,880 residence telephones in the city. There are only 55,586 water meters. There are approximately 51,000 white families.

The circulation growth of The Atlanta Constitution, during recent years, has been such that you can now cover the Atlanta market by using this paper alone! Consider the evidence.

Doesn't The Constitution's circulation loom large? Isn't it fair to say that Atlanta can be effectively and economically covered by advertising in The Constitution alone?

The Constitution now has a total daily circulation lead over the second paper of 14,000. In the city proper, this lead is approximately 5,000.

The city circulation of the daily Constitution is 47,929. How much coverage does this assure? Well, there

The Constitution, too, has been at work, building up the largest daily circulation of any paper in the Southeast—providing an advertising medium without parallel.

Senate Committee Votes That Vare Was Elected To Senatorship in 1926

Vote Follows Party Lines
After Day of Hearings on Bitterly Contested Election.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(AP)—

The bitterly contested campaign for the senatorship from Pennsylvania in 1926 lived again today in the senate as William S. Vare, worn by illness, defended his right to a seat after hearing himself and the politics of his state denounced by Senator Norris, of Nebraska.

The Nebraskaan had used the strongest language at his command in demanding adoption of his resolution to deny the oath of office to the senator-elect.

Using a cane and accompanied by his physician, Vare slowly entered the chamber as the republican independent from the northwest contended the primary and election of three years ago "wreaked with dishonesty and corruption."

The 62-year-old Pennsylvanian replied by reading a prepared statement, which defended expenditure of $785,000 for his ticket in the primary as necessary.

Looking down from the gallery was the white-haired William B. Wilson, democratic opponent of Vare in the 1926 election, who has waged a long fight for Vare's seat. Across the chamber in the members' gallery sat Mrs. Vare and their daughter, Mrs. William Kipp. Near them was Mrs. Gifford Finch, whose husband, as governor of Pennsylvania, was defeated for the republican senatorial nomination by Vare.

As the day ended, the senate elections committee decided by a strictly party division, seven to four, that Vare had been elected in 1926.

The committee was unanimous in declaring that Wilson had not been elected. The democratic minority, however, will submit a supplementary report declaring Wilson was not elected but that Vare's election was void because of fraud.

Tomorrow the senate is expected to reach a vote on both the Norris resolution, which would exclude Vare on account of his expenditures in the primary campaign, and on the Wilson-Vare election contest.

MAYOR APPROVES $34,000 PAYMENT IN CITY HALL DELAY

Mayor I. N. Ragsdale Wednesday approved payment of about $34,000 to the National Construction Company as damages for delay in construction of Atlanta's new $1,000,000 city hall and at the same time vetoed a proposal of furniture and fixture manufacturers to begin work on furnishings for the new city hall which would have been purchased on an installment arrangement.

In sanctioning the payment to the construction company, Mr. Ragsdale declared that the city will save money by agreeing to the decision of an arbitration board that the city approved the measure for that reason.

He frowned on the plan of the manufacturers, declaring that installment purchases are attacks on legal business and that it probably would involve the city and those making the proposal in countless entanglements. He believes the old furniture should be used.

GOODRUM ESTATE PAYS INHERITANCE TAX OF $116,645

The state of Georgia Wednesday received a check for $116,645 from the estate of the late J. J. Goodrum, of Atlanta, in payment of Georgia's share of inheritance taxes.

It was the second largest inheritance tax ever paid in the state. The other was of $228,000, paid on the estate of the late A. C. Rhodes. The receipt of the check Wednesday brought inheritance tax returns for the year to $863,000, more than $100,000 in excess of the revenues last year.

Mr. Goodrum was an official of the Trust Company of Georgia. An appraisal showed a gross estate of $2,765,335.45, and a net estate of $2,123,067.11.

MRS. ELINOR HALL TO OPEN PAINTING EXHIBITION TODAY

Mrs. G. Elinor Hall, of Washington, D. C., will open an exhibition of her European paintings to the public this morning at the Biltmore hotel.
The paintings were made by Mrs.
Hall while traveling in Europe when stationed with her husband at various United States embassies. Among the subjects on display are "Ionian Days," "Sunrise at Venice," "Arches of Hadrian at Athens," "Monastery at Corfu," "Venetian Twilight" and "St.
Sophia." A few American subjects are included in the collection.

A number of her paintings will decorate the foyer of the Georgian ballroom tonight for the banquet to be given in connection with the Cuban society will tour.

The paintings will be on display daily until Saturday night.

HUNTING VICTIM BADLY WOUNDED; TAKEN TO GRADY

Walter Gresham, 14, of Lithia Springs, was critically wounded at Grady hospital today, after being accidentally shot by his 16-year-old brother, William, while hunting near their home Wednesday afternoon.

Accompanied by a cousin, Frank Wade, the two brothers were walking along a path and Walter turned around to speak to William. The latter, who believed that the shell in his gun was a dead one, accidentally thumbed the trigger, and a load of bird shot took effect in his brother's chest and the right side of his head.

DEATH OF VAUGHN ADJUDGED SUICIDE
BY CORONER'S JURY

A verdict of death by suicide was returned by a coroner's jury Wednesday at an inquest held over the body of C. R. Vaughn, 35, of Congress, who died early Tuesday night from a bullet wound in his right temple. The inquest was held at the funeral parlors of Harry G. Pool.

Vaughn was found dead upon the doorsteps of his brother-in-law's home,
H. A. Hollingsworth, of 225 Stovall street. He was visiting his kinsmen and retired to the front porch after the evening meal, seemingly in excellent spirits. When next seen he was found with a .38 calibre pistol bullet through his brain.

DR. ARTHUR MOORE TO SPEAK TONIGHT AT LOYALTY MEET

Dr. Arthur J. Moore, pastor of the First Methodist church of Birmingham, will speak at a loyalty meeting of the South Atlantic district, to be held at Park Street church at 7:30 o'clock tonight and his subject has been announced as "The Program of Christ Through the Church."

Dr. John S. Jenkins is presiding elder of the South Atlantic district, and will have charge of the program.
He will be assisted by John W. Hardwick, lay leader. Special music will be given by the Park Street church choir.

SACRED HARP SINGERS

Group Will Meet Sunday at South Moreland Church.

The Sacred Harp Singers, will meet Sunday at South Moreland Avenue Primitive Baptist church. It was announced Wednesday by C. J. Griggs, chairman. The meeting is to be called at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

70 MEMBERS ADDED TO JUNIOR CHAMBER

Enthusiasm and determination to carry the drive for new members to a successful conclusion marked the first report luncheon of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at the Chamber building Wednesday afternoon, when more than 70 new names were added to the roll.

Major Ed Robertson's division was leading by a scant margin in the contest of the blues, whites and reds as the campaign reached the halfway mark and all indications pointed to a stiff fight for final honors.

As a special added inducement, two tickets to the Tech-Georgia game and railroad transportation to and from Athens were offered Wednesday to the man bringing in the largest number of new members by noon today. Other prizes are also being offered and the competition is exceedingly keen.

Colvin B. Brown, manager of the organization department of the United States Chamber of Commerce, will be the principal speaker at today's luncheon at 12:25 o'clock in the Chamber building, and several entertainment features also are on the program.

GEORGIA FORESTRY BOARD TO SPEND $83,555 NEXT YEAR

The state board of forestry Wednesday approved a budget for 1930 which contemplates the expenditure of $83,555. The state contributes $25,000 toward forestry work and $58,555 is supplied by the federal government.

In addition to this amount, State
Forester B. M. Lufburrow said, $111,- 000 would be spent under state direction by timber protective organizations.

The board accepted an invitation from Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, to attend a meeting at Warm Springs today, and voted an expression of appreciation to Governor Roosevelt for his activities toward organizing a timber protective unit in Meriwether county.

EMORY UNIVERSITY FRENCH CLUB HOLDS MEETING TODAY

The French Club of Emory University will hold its last fall "Journées afternoon in room 103 of the Theology building upon the Emory campus.

Madame J. R. Benign, a French woman of Canada, who has traveled extensively in America and Europe, will present French readings upon social problems. Charles Lorrains is expected to be present this afternoon and make announcements concerning the approaching visit of Monsieur Rageot from France.

Memorial Service Held for One of Founders of Organization.

A memorial service for Dr. Joseph Jacobs was observed at the Burns cottage at 6:30 o'clock Wednesday night by members of the Burns Club. Dr. Jacobs was one of the founders of this organization and past president.

Rev. Russell J. K. Smith, chaplain, and W. F. Melton, president, were principal speakers upon the program and many invited guests were present in addition to the regular members of the club. Others who paid tribute to Dr. Jacobs were Sam Small, John M. Glenn, Walter McElreath, Joseph W. Humphries, Dr. David Marx, Walter C. Stewart, H. H. Cabaniss and Dromis H. Bell.

2-Year-Old Girl Saved From Fire Death by Sister

Betty Jo Camp, two-and-one-half-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. D. Camp, of 257 Venable street, narrowly escaped death by fire early Wednesday night at the residence, when her 9-year-old sister, Doris, threw a wet towel over her body when the child's clothing became ignited from a burning candle.

Alone in the residence, the two girls were playing with a companion, David Edge, 4, also of Venable street. In handling the burning candles Betty Jo's clothing became ignited. Realizing her sister's peril, Doris dampened a towel, threw the child to the floor and finally put out the flames. The child was taken to Grady hospital, where she received treatment for burns about her body, left arm and face. The child is expected to recover.

Atlanta Seen as Hub of Fox Theater Chain in Southeast

R. T. Newton, District Manager of the Fox theaters.

Appointment of R. T. Newton, formerly managing director of the Fox theater, as divisional manager of Fox theaters, is considered an indication that the $3,000,000 movie palace, opening in Atlanta on Christmas day, probably will become the hub of a chain of Fox theaters in this section, it was announced Wednesday, by N. E. Pekar, director of public relations.

Mr. Newton, who is a native of Augusta, Ga., entered theater work in 1917 with the S. A. Lynch Enterprises. When the Lynch chain was sold to Public, Mr. Newton joined the Universal Film Company as assistant general manager of a chain of 300 theaters, having direct supervision of Universal theaters in Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri. Later he was given charge of 25 theaters in and about Boston.

When William Fox became owner of 400 theaters in the west coast division, Mr. Newton was made manager of the five Fox theaters in Pasadena, and continued in this capacity until March, 1928, when he came to Atlanta to become manager of the new Fox.

Al Goodwin succeeds Mr. Newton as resident manager of the theater. Neither Mr. Goodwin nor Mr. Newton were given any official explanation of the change in their capacities, but the move is indicative of a plan of the Fox organization to make Atlanta the distributing center in the southeast, with, eventually, subsidiary theaters in various other southern cities.

Drama Workshop Presents Three Pleasing Plays

An even level of good amateur presentation was maintained by the Drama Workshop, under auspices of Miss Nan Bagby Stephens, in three one-act plays given Wednesday night at Eggleston Hall.

The first play, "The Rummage Sale," by Elizabeth Manuela de Orives, daughter of the dean of St. Philip's cathedral, was altogether delightful in the spontaneity of the plot and acting. Much subtlety was displayed in the manner in which bits of sentiment, connected with old cast-offs at the rummage sale, were brought to the audience's attention.

"Steve," by Miss Mary Martin Ramage, was the second play, and depicted the sordid lives of mill-workers. Human interest was delicately delineated here, with just a suggestion of pathos.

Perhaps the most pretensions of the three plays was the final one, "First at Bethel," which depicted the trials of an old war-veteran, at the hands of his domineering daughter-in-law. Katherine Crawley gave a fine performance as Mrs. Chittwell, and Mack Skinner was excellent as old, henpecked Major Rigby.

The Drama Workshop, which was organized last year for the purpose of writing and producing plays of its own, is sponsored by the members of St. Mary's Guild of St. Philip's cathedral.

4 NEW DIRECTORS PLACED ON BOARD OF MOTOR CLUB

Four new members were elected to the directorate of the Atlanta Motor Club at a meeting of the board of directors held Wednesday.

The four named for a term of two years were Clark Howell, Jr., of The Constitution; Harlee Branch, of the Journal; Russell R. Whitman, of the Georgian-American; and Clarence Knowles, of the Knowles-Nash Motor Company.

The directors now listed include these four and the following: H. H. Alexander, W. R. Bean, William Candler, Charles A. Cook, J. R. Fairman, Bolling H. Jones, F. E. Maffett, B. C. Miner, Robert P. McLeary, Fred W. Patterson, R. N. Reed, Frank T. Reynolds, Carlton Y. Smith, Jere A. Wells, W. Tom Winn and Goodloe Yancy.

At the same meeting an appropriation for the Christmas tree which is to be given the Georgia Children's Home Society on December 24 was increased to an amount sufficient to provide each of the inmates of the home with a useful gift, in addition to a toy, candy and other small articles. The tree will be placed in the building owned by the Motor Club, directly behind the office at 336 West Peachtree street.

It was announced at the meeting that Charlie Cook, secretary of the club, will leave today to check up on motor routes between Atlanta and Athens.

WOMAN OVERCOME BY CARBON FUMES TREATED AT GRADY

Mrs. C. L. Evenson, 27, of 1594 Jonesboro road, was taken to Grady hospital for treatment early Wednesday afternoon, after she was overcome by carbon-monoxide fumes from a charcoal bucket heater she was using in the kitchen of the residence while washing some clothing. Physicians at the hospital do not regard her condition as serious.

A Bank that Values the Small Account...

SUCCESSFUL customers make successful banks. As the smaller depositors forge ahead and succeed in business, they grow into larger depositors; and their bank, growing with them, becomes a larger bank.

For more than sixty years The First National Bank has been growing with its patrons. It has seen many of the largest accounts on its books today grow from the smallest beginnings—it knows that among its multitude of smaller depositors now are other thousands that will be large tomorrow.

That's why The First National Bank values the small depositor... and that's why the small depositor values the service of The First National Bank. Here every banking facility is made equally available to all alike—here every account, large or small, is welcomed in the same sincere spirit of service and appreciation, and shares the same measure of interested, responsive co-operation.

'NO DEATH' DEFENSE IN 'TORTURE MURDER'

Attorneys To Claim "Victim" Seen Alive Since
"Murder."

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Ark., Dec. 4.—Ben B. Williamson, attorney for five men charged with mutilating and burning to death Connie Franklin, near here last March, announced tonight the defense would present several witnesses at the trial on December 10 to prove that Franklin has been seen alive since the night of the alleged torture murder.

Williamson said he had "ample witnesses" to prove Franklin was seen alive after the date of the alleged murder. The witnesses, it was learned, will be persons living in this section and also near Morrilton, Arkansas.

Simultaneously with Williamson's announcement, Deputy Sheriff C. L. Massey, at Morrilton, revealed that he had statements of several persons living in that section that they had seen Franklin alive as recently as October 26 last.

On that night, Massey told the Associated Press, Elmer Wingo and members of his family, for whom Franklin was said to have worked in 1927, said Franklin stayed all night with them. Massey also quoted R. P. Philpot, a farmer in the same section, as saying Franklin was there about the same time. Franklin at one time went with a daughter of Philpot, who is now married, Massey said.

ADAMS REQUESTS DIRIGIBLE HANGAR AT CAMP KEARNEY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(AP)—The selection of Camp Kearney, near San Diego, Cal., for the west coast

naval airship base to house one of the navy's huge dirigibles being built at Akron, Ohio, was recommended to congress today by Secretary Adams.

His recommendation contained in a letter of less than 100 words overrode the choice of Sunnyvale, Cal., made by a majority of the west coast naval air base board in a voluminous report of 100 pages. He concurred with Rear Admiral J. W. Reaves, of the naval general board, who filed a minority report.

FREED OF CHARGE OF WITHHOLDING COUNTY FUNDS

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 4.—(AP)—On the date set for his trial today, Sheriff J. T. Plunkett, of Richmond county, was freed of charges of illegally withholding county funds.

Motion for dismissal of the charges was made by the county commission, which brought them, and was granted by Judge A. L. Franklin in Richmond superior court. The commission Tuesday adopted a resolution to ask dismissal of the charges.

WOMEN GARMENT WORKERS' STRIKE VOTED AT MEET

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Strike of approximately 45,000 members of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union in New York city was authorized by unanimous vote of 200 delegates of the union in convention here today.

Votes on proposed strikes in Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, Cleveland, Baltimore and Toledo, Ohio, also were to be taken at the session. If they are approved approximately 100,000 members of the union may be affected.

Resolutions favoring the strikes were approved by a strike committee yesterday.

New Costumes for House Wear

Frances Tarpley, Lucile Christopher and Martha Hillhouse display the new Don-All costumes for house wear, which are being featured at the Davison-Paxon Company.

Among new creations being shown by the Davison-Paxon Company is an attractive assortment of Don-All costumes, which are intended for "around the house." The costumes are now being featured in many of the big New York department stores and are available at Davison's in a number of patterns, tailored and trimmed to suit a wide variety of individual tastes.

The costumes are described by officials of the store as three-piece pajamas, having blouse, trousers and coat. "They are designed to retain all costume features that emphasize charm," the description says, "and are designed along the most graceful lines. Soft, printed, washable materials are used—dainty chintzes, modern patterns, and agreeably feminine colors. We believe these informal costumes will be attractive to a great many women who want to be unrestricted in their movements by clothing, and who, at the same time, want to be attractively and smartly dressed at home."

American 'Cop' Fascinating, ENGLISH 'BOBBIES' ARMED ONLY WITH TRUNCHEONS London Newspaperman Finds

BY ALFRED P. PERRY.

The American cop always fascinates me. He is an old friend of boyhood's dreams come back to life. To see him in the flesh is like meeting Charlie Chaplin on the street or taking tea with Mary Pickford.

He is the hero of a hundred desperate shadow battles, the comic victim of the wildest farces. At any moment I expect him to scramble up the side of a skyscraper amid a hail of bullets from incredibly ferocious villains on the roof, or to see him sprawl upon the sidewalk, neatly tripped by some moon-faced comedian as he dashes madly in the wrong direction. And when I spot him stationed at a street corner eyeing the passers-by, his nightstick dangling from one finger, I wait instinctively for him to spring forward and club a suspect, who will turn out, of course, to be the new chief of police in his best Sunday clothes.

True, Atlanta's guardians look peaceful enough and swing their clubs with only mild suggestiveness. But I know that in their hip pockets they have loaded guns all ready for the fray, and most other cops whom I have seen in the United States have been hung with shooting irons like old-time cowboys on a spree.

Hence these hectic movie-bred imaginations. For is not any wild adventure possible to one who has a great six-shooter swinging by his side and a row of gleaming cartridges stuck in his belt? Any self-respecting boy who has contributed his precious dimes to Hollywood's prosperity knows it must be so.

"Bobbies" Are Unarmed.
Such interest may seem childish to Americans and unworthy of one grown to man's estate. The Londoner can only plead the novelty of what he sees as his excuse. For the famous "bobbies" of his own home town carry nothing more deadly than a wooden truncheon. And not one citizen in a thousand sees even that. For the British policeman is not allowed to draw his weapon unless he is about to use it on an offender's head. Most other European police are more formally armed. Some even carry shining swords as well as the pistols strapped in polished holsters to their belts. But they look so neat and stiff in their tight-buttoned uniforms that it seems impossible they could unbend so far as to draw their weapons in a public place. And anyway these little automatons are more toys compared with the formidable "guys" of the American cops.

It may seem strange that the British policeman should be sent out to enforce the law armed only with a weapon which any schoolboy could fashion for himself. But the reason is simple. It does not pay the criminal to shoot. He is not tempted by fear to "make sure" by firing first, for he knows that the officer who catches him is unarmed. And above all he knows that if he kills a constable he stands a chance of rather more than ten to one of ending on the gallows before he is much older. For Scotland Yard is terribly efficient and British juries are notoriously hardhearted where murder is concerned. So the safer-crook caught in the act usually "goes quietly" in the hope that his sentence will be less severe if he refrains from violence. Once in a long while there is serious trouble, usually with foreign crooks unused to British etiquette, on those rare occasions a few letters may be written to the newspapers urging that the "bobbies" should be armed like foreign constables.

Police Chief Opponents.
But the chief opponents of such proposals are the police themselves, who argue that armed officers will be the cause of more and more unpleasantness all round and no less crime. If crooks are known to be "killers," special plainclothesmen are assigned to track them down. But to give the ordinary constable a pistol would tempt every burglar to carry one himself and use it quickly when disturbed by a nervous "bobby" whose trigger finger he might suspect of being unsteady.

Given British conditions, their contentions seem to be supported by the facts. And with the ordinary citizen the "bobby" rarely has to resort to anything stronger than moral suasion to preserve the peace. A few words usually suffice to nip a street row in the bud. Two men square up to each other and a little crowd gathers around to watch the fun. Then up strolls six feet of blue-clad dignity and the spectators draw apart to let the law into the ring.

"Ere, wot's all this about?" demands Robert severely.

"He called me a b—!" growls one gladiator sullenly.

"An' he called me a blinkin' thief!" retorts the other fiercely. "I'll knock 'is bloomin' block off, I will!"

"No, you wot?" replies the law firmly. "Now then, you two, 'op it! See?"

The show is off. Slowly and sullenly the would-be warriors pick up their coats and proceed to "op it" in opposite directions, muttering mutual promises of black eyes and thick ears to come. The spectators drift upon their several ways, regretful for the free display which they have missed; and Robert stalks back to his beat across the street, musing once more upon the sparkling eyes and no less sparkling beer of that little cock in Number Twenty-one.

As more persons submitted perfect sets of answers than there were prizes in prize group No. 1 and No. 2, all of the prizes in these prize groups, as provided in "The Official Rules," are reserved for such persons as sent a perfect set of answers. Rule 9 of "The Official Rules" is as follows:

"In case of ties, as many prizes will be reserved as there are people tied before any prizes are awarded for a less correct solution, that is, if two or more people should tie in submitting the correct or nearest correct answers to the 20 cartoons, the first two or more prizes will be reserved for them, and the prizes will be awarded in the order of the correctness of the answers of such contestants to a second series of 30 or more cartoons. If necessary to eliminate further ties, as many as the third and fourth series of 30 or more cartoons will be presented, after which should any ties exist for any award, each tying contestant will be given a duplicate prize."

In prize group No. 3 there were six who sent in perfect sets of answers, and therefore under the rules the first six prizes are reserved for the six tying contestants, as provided in rule 9. A tie-breaking set has been sent to these six.

In prize group No. 3 there were ten prizes. Of the five names below it will be noted that the two first tied by missing one cartoon each; the three last named tied by missing two cartoons each. Under the rules, since the last three tied, each must receive an equal prize, which adds one to the prize list on account of meeting the tying rules.

H. Konigsmark, P. O. Box 1748, Atlanta, Ga., and Mrs. Alice Johnson, 1064 Glenwood Ave., Atlanta, Ga., had all the answers correct except one, the two tying receiving equal prizes of $5.00 each, 7th and 8th prize.

Mrs. E. H. Duffey, 1179 Ewing Place, Atlanta, Ga., E. R. Parker, 639 Forsyth St., Americus, Ga., and Dr. W. H. McKerrall, Ward Hotel, Griffin, Ga., submitted the next nearest correct answers, all three tying, with all of the answers correct except two, entitling them to an equal prize of $5.00 each.

Under the rules all those not submitting a perfect set of answers, and whose names do not appear below are eliminated from further participation in this contest.

A tie-breaking set of 40 cartoons with answer blanks, and complete instructions were mailed all of the above tying contestants Wednesday, December 4th.

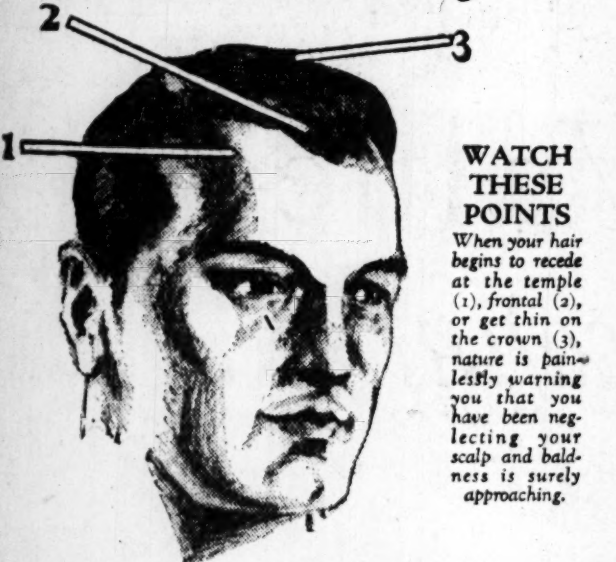

All answers to the second tie-breaking set of cartoons must be delivered to the office of The Atlanta Constitution or in the mail by midnight Monday, December 16, 1929.

This published notice, in addition to the letter and tie-breaking cartoons mailed tying contestants, is deemed of sufficient notice to such contestants. Of the tying contestants who may fail to see this published announcement, or to receive the tie-breaking cartoons sent by mail, and fail to give due notice of such in person or by mail by Monday, December 16, 1929, such notice thereafter cannot be recognized. Solutions will not be accepted if mailed from points outside the territory specified in the rules of the contest, or held beyond the time limit.

The Atlanta Constitution will not be responsible for letters or answers lost or unduly delayed in the mails, either from The Atlanta Constitution to the contestant or from the contestant to The Atlanta Constitution.

pasteurization

YOUR naked eye cannot tell you if your baby's milk is pure. The germs of milk-borne diseases can only be seen with a microscope.

Expert dairymen watch and test and direct the selection and distribution of Foremost milk day in, day out, from dawn to dawn.

As a double safeguard, Foremost milk is pasteurized. First, it is heated to 145° Fahrenheit and kept there for half an hour. Then it is quickly cooled to 50 degrees. This destroys all harmful bacteria.

When you pour out creamy Foremost milk and taste its delicious flavor, then you will know pure milk. Sold by grocers and druggists—look for the word Foremost on the bottle top.

Atlantans Are Thrilled By View From the Clouds

By Madame Pompon.

SOMEONE must have been sighing with ennui. People do such things, even in the best regulated homes. Somebody must have been giving some subtle evidence of being tired of the same old thing all of the time. Or someone may have said "Dear me, don't you wish we could fly?" In whatever way it happened, or whoever first suggested it, the fact remains that the William Perrin Nicolson family—all three generations of them—suddenly decided they would fly. Having reached this momentous decision, they motored in great haste out to Candler field, located a plane that would accommodate the party, and decided to die all together, if death was in store for them. Soon they were soaring over the city of Atlanta and looking down, perhaps, with commiserative pity on the miserable ants—their friends—who were crawling along the streets so far below them.

All of this happened a day or two ago. "It was," said Mrs. Nicolson, Sr., "the most delightful feeling imaginable. No, we weren't frightened. We had positively decided to do it. Nothing like making up your minds, you know."

The party circled the city of Atlanta back and forth and around for 30 minutes or more and then landed safe and sound full of the delightful satisfaction that is the result of having had an entirely new emotion. The party was composed of Mrs. William Perrin Nicolson, Sr., Miss Carolyn Nicolson, Dr. and Mrs. William Perrin Nicolson, Perrin Nicolson, Jr., the young grandson whom, I am sure, enjoyed it most of all.

"I don't blame Mrs. Nicolson," a clever woman was saying. "I have always believed that sooner or later I would be flying myself. I so often dream I am flying—after a 1 or 2 o'clock in the morning ham sandwich—I suddenly decide to fly—still in my arms and I mean—stretch out my arms and up and away I go. My favorite flying place is around and around the Candler building. Once I am on the top I spread out my arms and sail down to the ground again. It is an enchanting feeling, so airy."

MOST of my dreams have a remarkable way of coming true," she continued. "Even before their great demonstration I always knew I was going to fly some time or other. I used to think my dreams were good omens, that they meant I would be an angel by and by. I took my dreams as foretelling my spiritual future, not my mundane existence."

"There is one thing that troubles me," the lady was growing more reminiscent. "I have another constantly recurring dream, one that always terrifies me. It seemed to be the inevitable happen from a midnight shrimp salad." In these dreams I find myself walking down Peachtree, just opposite the Piedmont hotel, in full daylight, the street as crowded as usual, barefooted with nothing on but my pink tedi. The mental anguish I suffer in these dreams is too terrible for words. I realize, even in my dreams, that I am disgraced for life. When I see some one I know coming in the distance I slip into a handy staircase to hide from them, or into the flower shop there, and creep behind the big ferns to hide. But there were always people in that shop also. There is never any escape in my dreams. I realize all the while that I have to get home, somehow. But how I ask myself in my dreams, can I ever get home with practically nothing on? Just at this juncture I always wake up."

AND you say your dreams usually come true? someone asked her. "Almost invariably," she replied. "I seem to dream true. All of these years while the women's dresses have been getting shorter and thinner, when they have been wearing less and less of everything all the time, I have been saying to myself, 'It won't be long now. I'll soon be walking down Peachtree in my tedi. My dream is coming true. But then everybody will be wearing them at the same time so perhaps I won't be feeling so badly about it. You just can't imagine how relieved I have been since the fashion in dresses has been changing, since they have been growing longer and fuller. I am actually beginning to feel a little easier on the subject. A little less frightened that my heartrending dream will become a reality."

With so many lovely Cuban ladies in town, and so many dignitaries of renown accompanying them, and all from the most enchanting island in the world, just what are we going to talk to them about? It would be nice to pass a few civilities, especially since the Spanish are the most beautifully courteous race of people in the world and with the greatest gift for paying compliments. Everybody likes a compliment. It's decidedly agreeable to hear a lot of new ones said in an entirely new way. There are Senor and Senora Penino, who attend our grand opera year in and year out, and who always have had such absolutely delightful remarks to make about everything and everybody. It was no wonder they grew to be immensely liked here. It was always easy talking with them because they both knew English. Conversation was as light and fluffy as if we had all been brought up together.

ATLANTA people on their trips to Florida began running across to Havana more and more often just because the Peninos were there to welcome them so charmingly. On one occasion Senora Penino gave a sumptuous luncheon in honor of Mrs. James T. Williams, of Atlanta, who was visiting Havana. The party was held at the famous Yacht club. There was the opalescent sea as usual. There were the 12 or 14 animated and most agreeable Spanish beauties invited to meet her. Later there was the marvelous tropical sunset.

"But," someone asked Mrs. Williams, "what did all of you talk about?"

"Well," replied Mrs. Williams, "I talked with Senora Penino. As for the other ladies, well, we just looked at each other and smiled and smiled."

Perhaps, and we certainly hope so, the Cuban good-will tours will be repeated so often that we will soon all be studying Spanish. We should have been doing it long ago. Nobody with a sane mind could fail to wish to enjoy all the good times and all the graceful ideas that such near neighbors have to offer us.

Block Print Exhibit Is Being Shown At High Museum

An exhibit of 20 block prints by Charles R. Gardner, of Philadelphia, Pa., outstanding American artist, will go on view today at the High Museum of Art, 1262 Peachtree street, N. E. The prints, which are done in black and white and also in color, will be shown at the museum throughout the month. The handling of these studies, the power and wizardry with which the artist has handled his darks, producing perfectly with the soft shade of black the effect of trees, house, or lawn, will make them of wide interest to the Atlanta public.

An exhibit of 20 water-color paintings by Leon Foster Jones, of New York city, and Port Jefferson, L. I., distinguished American painter, is also on view at the museum. These paintings, many of which would make suitable Christmas gifts, are on sale at reasonable prices. The museum, of which L. P. Skidmore is director, is open from 10 until 12 o'clock and from 3 to 4 o'clock throughout the week and from 3 to 5 o'clock on Sundays. Benjamin Shute and Robert Rogers, of the Chicago Institute, are instructors in charge. The museum is open to the public.

Habersham D.A.R. Board Indorses Mrs. Bun Wylie and Mrs. Dykes

The executive board of the Joseph Habersham chapter, D. A. R., indorses Mrs. Bun Wylie for state regent, and Mrs. W. F. Dykes for corresponding secretary of the Georgia society, Daughters of the American Revolution, the election to take place at the annual state convention to be held in April in Newnan. Both Mrs. Wylie and Mrs. Dykes are prominent Atlanta women and have creditable records in their service toward the development of the state and patriotic program sponsored by the D. A. R.

Mrs. Wylie is a member of the Atlanta chapter of the organization, having served this chapter in an official capacity for a number of years. She is prominently identified with the state work and is now serving as second vice regent of the Georgia D. A. R.

Mrs. Dykes is a prominent member of the Joseph Habersham chapter, having been the first member to be enrolled on the membership list following the chapter's organization. She served as regent of the chapter during the World War, at which time she and members of the chapter were serving in their patriotic service, lending their full co-operation for the welfare of America's soldiers and those of the allies. For seven years Mrs. Dykes acted as treasurer of the Habersham chapter, having filled this office so satisfactory that members of the chapter were enthusiastic in her re-elections. As chairman of the Lucy Cook Peel memorial for the state D. A. R., Mrs. Dykes has made splendid progress toward the creation of this memorial honoring the memory of the late Mrs. William Lawson Peel, who was an outstanding figure in D. A. R. circles.

She is chairman of marionettes for the local league and one of its most popular and energetic members. Photograph by Thurston Hatcher.

Mrs. Wylie Ballard leaves next Monday for Chicago, Ill., to attend the Junior League theater conference scheduled for December 10, 11 and 12, having been appointed by Mrs. John Knox, president of Atlanta Junior League, as the local league's representative. It is the first convention of its kind and sister leagues all over the country have exhibited intense interest in it, and about 150 delegates will be present in Chicago for the event. Numerous meetings and social affairs have been planned, and the delegates will be guests of various members of the Chicago league.

For Tuesday, December 10, the program includes registration at the league clubroom at the Drake, luncheon with Chicago league as hostess; "The Patchwork Girl of Oz," presented at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, and a banquet in the evening at the Drake with Sarane Otis, Helena Adamowska and Barrett H. Clark as the speakers. Wednesday's program includes group meetings for discussion; luncheon at the Fortnightly; a talk by Robert Edmund Jones at the Selwyn theater in the afternoon; small dinners for the delegates, and marionette and puppet shows in the evening at the Woman's Athletic Club given by St. Louis and Omaha delegates. Thursday there will be group meetings at the Casino, and luncheon there.

Misses Mary and Elizabeth Dodd Make Bow at Reception, Dance

Misses Mary Dodd and Elizabeth Dodd, two of Atlanta's most attractive debutantes of this season, were formally presented to Atlanta society last evening at an elaborate dinner-dance given by their father, Judge Harry Dodd, at Brookhaven, the Capital City Country Club, assembled several hundred members of the unmarried society set of Atlanta.

The club was beautifully decorated for the occasion with quantities of palms and ferns grouped on either side of the fireplace and at intervals around the walls. In large vases and urns were bouquets of flowers in the pastel shades, consisting mostly of roses and chrysanthemums. In the ballroom on each side of the room were beautifully appointed tables seating groups of six and eight. In the center of these were a large red Christmas

TELL FOLKS how easy it is to LOSE FAT

Everybody knows how excess fat has disappeared in late years. Men and women in every circle prove that figures need not stay abnormal. Youth and beauty, health and vitality can come back. All must realize that, in late years, some new factor is employed. Fewer people now rely on abnormal exercise or diet. Modern science has proved that most fat people suffer from an under-active gland. Physicians now, in treating obesity, seek to correct that deficiency.

The chief factors are embodied in Marmola prescription tablets, prepared by a famous laboratory. People have used them for 22 years—millions of boxes of them. Now in every circle there are slender people who can tell you what they do.

The method is scientific and well known. Every box of Marmola contains the formula, also the reasons for the good results. No starvation, though moderation helps. The purpose is to help out an under-active gland, which should turn food into fuel and energy.

Go test this well-tried method. In a little while results will tell you what Marmola means to you. If you see the excess fat go and new vitality return, go on until the change is completed. Then, in fairness to your friends, tell them, as users have done for so long. Start today.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 a box. Any druggist who is out will gladly order for you.

Why this sanitary pad stays soft for hours

How comfortable is your sanitary protection after one . . . two . . . or three hours of wear? Read how Kotex' softness lasts

It is really amazing how Kotex stays soft, even when you have to wear it for hours.

Other forms of sanitary protection may seem comfortable when first adjusted. But you know how quickly that surface-softness disappears . . . how soon the pad begins to pack . . . then how often chafing occurs.

All so unnecessary! . . . now that Kotex is sold everywhere, and at such a low price.

Cellucotton explains softness
Kotex is made of Cellucotton absorbent wadding . . . the lightest, most absorbent substance which can be used. It absorbs 16 times its own weight in moisture—5 times more than cotton or any cotton material!

The Cellucotton is laid in many layers, each tissue-thin. This permits circulation of air, and keeps the pad soft and delicate. The pads are rounded and tapered, so they really fit, and are never conspicuous. Kotex deodorizes, too.

Hospitals use Kotex material
A striking testimony to the superiority of the Kotex material, is the fact that 85% of the leading hospitals use it in preference to any other absorbent. They use it for absorbent purposes, including the most important surgical dressings. Please read about other Kotex features at the right. You'll see how no detail of comfort has been overlooked. Buy Kotex anywhere, without embarrassment or explanation.

KOTEX IS SOFT...

- 1—Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, lasting softness.
- 2—Safe, secure . . . keeps your mind at ease.
- 3—Fastidious . . . the sign of true daintiness.
- 4—In hospitals . . . Kotex is the identical material used by surgeons in 85% of the country's leading hospitals.
- 5—Deodorizes, safely, thoroughly by a patented process.

Kotex—45c for 12—at any drug, dry goods or department store.

SAVANNAH CITY EMPLOYEES SEEK SALARY INCREASES

SAVANNAH, Ga., Dec. 4.—(P)—City council tonight at its meeting was engaged with petitions from city employees asking for increase in pay. All of the petitions were referred to the finance committee. Employees in the city marshal's office and the department of public works were seeking a raise in wages. The police department filed an application for a raise in pay a few weeks ago.

To counterbalance, theoretically, a larger sum sought to be paid out on the pay roll, a petition was received from tenants in the city market asking that rentals be decreased by the city. Even the local newspapers had a petition asking for a reduction in newspaper license fees, it being shown in the petition that Atlanta newspapers paid one-fourth of the license fee demanded of Savannah newspapers, while Jacksonville paid only one-fifth. All petitions went to the finance committee.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

A Scheming Pair.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

To realize that of which you dream, You frequently must plot and scheme. —Reddy Fox.

"We won't go home until we get one of those turkeys," declared Mrs. Reddy.

Reddy Fox chuckled. "That suits me," said he. "I'll take time to get one, but we'll get one sooner or later. There is nothing like being right on the job all the time. Turkeys roam around in the fields a good deal. Who knows but that we may be able to get one in daylight?"

"I don't care when we get one, whether it is in daylight or at night, as long as we get it," replied Mrs. Reddy. "My mouth has been watering ever since I laid eyes on those turkeys. I suppose we might hide behind this old barn until daylight. Perhaps they will come down and we can get one and run away."

"It won't do any harm to try," replied Reddy. "There's a dog up at that house."

"How do you know?" asked Mrs. Reddy.

"I smelled his tracks last night," replied Reddy.

"I hope he isn't a hound," said Mrs. Reddy.

"I'm sorry to tell you that he is," replied Reddy. "That means that we have got to be extra careful."

"Perhaps," replied Mrs. Reddy. "On the other hand, perhaps it is a good thing."

"I don't see how you make that out," said Reddy.

"Listen, Reddy," replied Mrs. Reddy. "There are two of us, aren't there?"

Reddy nodded. "Of course," said he.

"Well, why shouldn't one of us lead the dog away while the other one gets a turkey?" said Mrs. Reddy.

Reddy looked at Mrs. Reddy admiringly. "My dear," said he, "that is an excellent idea. No one will ever think of two foxes being around at the same time. We'll let that dog

To End a Cough
In a Hurry, Mix
This at Home

To end a stubborn cough quickly, it is important to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes, get rid of the germs and also to aid the system inwardly to help throw off the trouble.

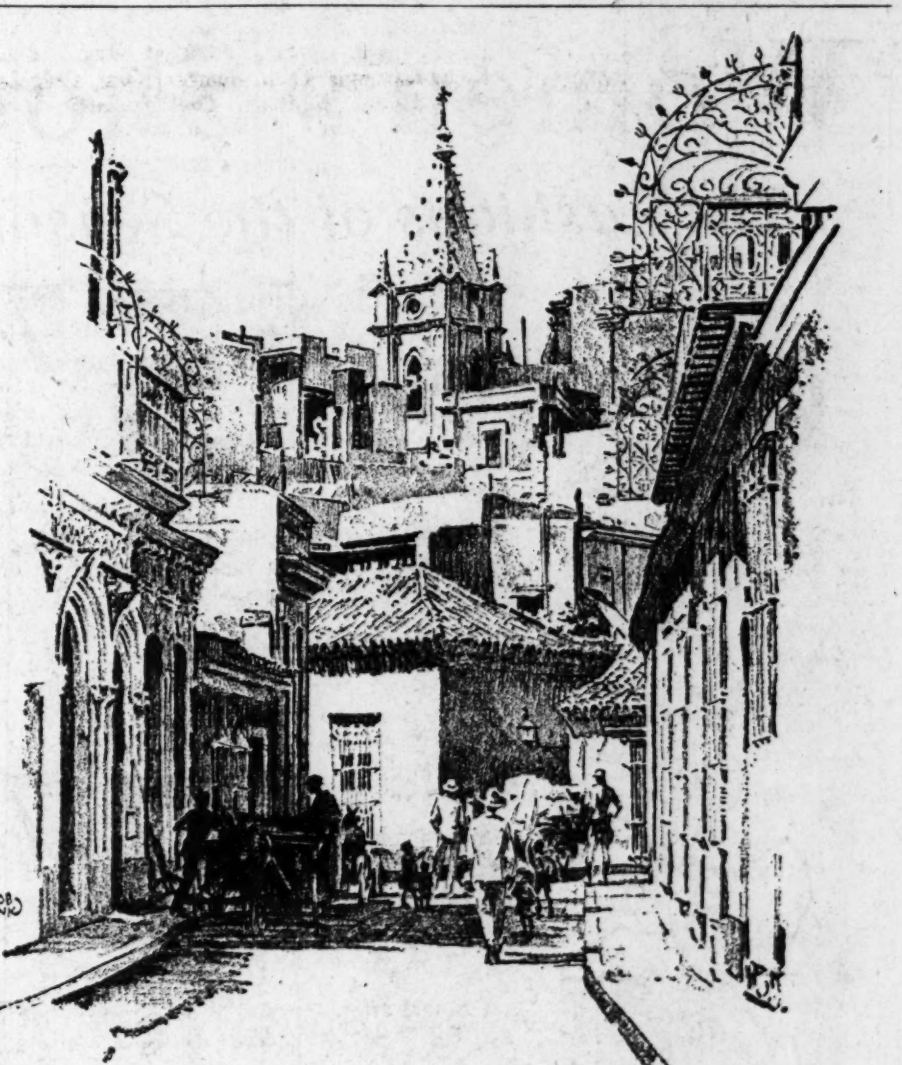

For these purposes, here is a home-made medicine, far better than anything you could buy at 3 times the cost. From any drugstore, get  $\frac{1}{2}$  ounce of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to fill up the pint. This takes but a moment, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This explains why it brings such quick relief, even in the obstinate bronchial coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

CUBA is the Ideal Vacationland

This year, enjoy a different vacation! Havana is so near at hand—so easily reached—that no American need suppress his longing for foreign travel. Here is a city that's foreign in every respect: foreign as no other city is—for here is the dash and verve of Paris—sports and pastimes of the Riviera—liberties of Monte Carlo—languorous peacefulness of the tropics—with the ancient cathedrals, slumbering plazas, grey-walled fortresses and gorgeous castles of Old Spain as a background! Vacation in Havana offers greater diversity of interests and benefits than travel in any other country. Lovers of the fine arts find much to study and admire in its architecture, music, its customs and its color. Hundreds of miles of motor highways disclose an awe-inspiring panorama of unrivaled scenery—palm covered mountains—groves of strange tropical fruits—sugar and coffee plantations and tobacco fields—quaint, primitive villages—ancient colonial towns that proudly bear the scars of Spanish rule and pirate raids. (You can bring your car at surprisingly little expense.) Needless to say, Cuba offers tourist accommodations deluxe and facilities for every summer sport and pastime that's known to the sophisticate, for Havana is the winter sports and social rendezvous of two continents. Social interest of the world centers in the brilliant afternoon and night life of the new Havana. Those who seek longer life and better health find the elusive ultra-violet ray at its strongest and greatest effectiveness in the perpetual sunshine of Cuba, for Cuba is nearer the equator than any point in North America. Its air is clear and filtered and cloudlessness prevails throughout the winter months. Travel to Havana has been simplified for American tourists. No passports are required. Let your winter vacation tour include "The Smartest City in America."

Boys' High Busy Preparing for Game With Madison Here Friday

Winner To Play For G. I. A. A. Title

Doyal Drives Men Through Long Scrimmage in Preparation for Hard Game.

By Roy White.

A long scrimmage was held by Boys' High football players Wednesday afternoon in preparation for its game Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Spiller field with Madison Aggies. It will be the semi-final game in the northern division of the G. I. A. A. and at the same time in Athens, Ga., Lanier High, of Macon, and G. M. C. of Milledgeville, will be playing a semi-final game in the southern division. The winners will meet, probably next Friday or Saturday, for the G. I. A. A. championship.

Coach Doyal is taking no chances with his athletes this week in preparing for Madison. A victory means a chance for the state title and one or two injured players will not help the cause. The team was in good shape after Wednesday's scrimmage and only a light workout will be held this afternoon at the final preparation.

Boys' High has enjoyed one of its best seasons, despite the four tie games on its record. The tie games were with G. M. A., Lanier, Savannah High and Sidney Lanier, of Montgomery. The Hurricanes hold victories over Decatur, University School, Rome High, Knoxville and Tech High, its ancient rival.

Coach Doyal has had plenty of good material all season and very few injuries have hampered the work at Boys' High. The line is the heaviest in southern prep circles. It weighs considerably more than the average college line. The backfield with two exceptions is light, but plenty fast and shifty.

In its first two games the Hurricanes played well but then for several games, the line and backfield failed to work together. The backs were off in the G. M. A. game but came back strong in the Knoxville and Rome High games. The line played its part in the Savannah and Tech High games and the backfield was outstanding in the tie game with Lanier at Macon.

WORK TOGETHER.
In only the Tech High game did the backs and line play well together.

DIEGEL, HAGEN WIN MATCHES IN P. G. A. MEET

Both Favorites Take Second Round Foes by Easy Margins.

By Russell J. Newland, Associated Press Staff Writer.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Paced by two favorites—brilliant Leo Diegel, defending champion, and Walter Hagen, five times holder of the title—winners for the 1929 Professional Golfers' Association championship stroked their way today through a gruelling second round of 36-hole match play that saw the field narrowed down to eight.

Diegel swept through his match in easy fashion with Herman Barron, Port Chester, N. Y., 10-9. Hagen's win was not decisive, but he eliminated Charles Guent, Los Angeles, 5 and 4.

The Agua Caliente professional won the first hole from Barron, who never pressed from that time on. At the ninth he was 3 up and had increased the lead to 8 at the 11th. The match ended on the 27th with Diegel posting figures of 37-33—70 for the morning round with a 34 on the third nine. Barron shot 40-38—78 and took 36 on the third nine.

TWO UNDER PAR.

Hagen was 35-34—69, 2 under par; for the first 18 and went out in the afternoon in 37. He was 3 up at the 27th. Guest had a 37-37—74 and 35 for his third nine.

Two former national open champions, Gene Sarazen and Johnny Farrell, advanced to the third round. Sarazen defeated Fred Morrison, of Los Angeles, 3 and 2. Farrell, who was 2 and 1, defeated Henry Cuic, Bridgeport, Conn., 2 and 1.

In the most bitter struggle of the day, Al Espinosa, Chicago, nosed out another veteran campaigner, William Mehlhorn, New York, on the 40th hole. They were even at the 9th; Mehlhorn looked better on the 15th and they were all square at the 25th. Espinosa had two rounds of 35-37—72, and 33-35—68. Mehlhorn posted 35-36—71 and 36-35—71. They halved the next three extra holes in 4, 3, 4, and Espinosa won the match on the next green with a par 5.

WATROUS WINS.

At Watrous, Detroit, removed Larry Nebelholz, Houston, Texas, from the picture with an overwhelming 9-7 defeat, while Tony Manero, New York, recent through the match today with a 6-5 win over Eddie Schultz, Troy, N. Y.

Craig Wood, young Bloomfield, N. J., star, entered the third round with a 3-2 win from Neil Christian, Portland, Ore.

Tomorrow's matches will pit Diegel against Sarazen in the outstanding match. Hagen will meet Manero in the other lower bracket match. Diegel and Hagen are the favorites and if they come through as expected, will face each other in the semi-finals classic Friday.

In the upper bracket matches tomorrow, Watrous takes on Espinosa and Farrell meets Wood.

The Dixie football teams found them hanging up four victories and one tie in 13 games. Which was about twice as well as they did this fall in 15 games, when two were won and one tied.

Not only that, but the eastern and middle western opponents ran up quite a few more points this season, scoring 291 last fall. The Devils will be included on more conference schedules.

Georgia teams, as usual, are heading the list of tough ones next fall. Georgia meets Yale and New York University, going east for both of them. Tech will play Pennsylvania and Carnegie Tech, traveling up north for each one. Vanderbilt has already scheduled Minnesota for the opening game of the season. And right now the Commodores look pretty good for that game. They start earlier.

WILL GET BETTER.

There will be others. The south keeps plugging away and, if you ask, getting better each year despite the contrary evidence of the 1929 record. Southern football has progressed tremendously in the past ten years. And will continue to do so.

Here are the records for 1929 and 1928 if one cares to go for comparison:

Vanderbilt 6; Minnesota 15.
Duke 7; Pittsburgh 52.
Duke 13; Navy 45.

More Football.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Two more football games remain in this area before the 1929 season is officially closed.
Fans, looking to basketball, had almost forgotten the contests scheduled for Oklahoma Saturday. The Haskell Indians will play Tulsa University in Tulsa and Davis-Ellins of West Virginia will meet Oklahoma City University here.

AN ALUMNUS SPEAKS.
It is not the intention of this column to intone a series of Jeremiahs of sports. On the contrary, its object is to work for a sane sense of proportion in regard to sports—it is this possible. Through the discernment and the interest of Major William H. Burr, of the United States army, I am able to reproduce two documents that might cause some serious consideration of the report of the Carnegie Foundation on intercollegiate football.

Major Burr sends me a clipping from The Kansas City Star concerning a football rally of the Jayhawk club, of Kansas City, on the eve of the game with the University of Missouri. The Jayhawk club, as I get it, is made up of the alumni and boosters of the University of Kansas. Here is an excerpt from the reports of the meeting:

"J. C. Nichols, of the class of '02, after a criticism of the cheer leaders and the students in their support of the team in the K. U. Aggie game, went into the recent reports of the Carnegie Foundation.

"What do we alumni of Kansas City care for the foundation reports?" he asked. "We are behind K. U. first, last and always. And if there are any good boys looking for an education and a chance to star for the Crimson and Blue, but lack the necessary funds to carry them through, just let them come to the Jayhawk club."

"Why, when I was in K. U. there were three boarding tables for baseball players at the Beta house, and we were proud of it. What we want to do is to build up K. U. to a point where the enrollment reaches 10,000 students or more. We've got a good football team and we're behind it. Win or lose, don't lose heart, but give the team the same old 'Rock Chalk'."

Not only does this sound like the quiescence of Babbitt, but it is submitted as evidence that the time and money spent by the Carnegie Foundation on its investigation of intercollegiate football was not wasted. Only an alumnus could make that sort of speech and voice that point of view. An undergraduate would be too clear of vision and have too keen a perspective to be that way.

NO, NOT JUST THAT.

I do not mean that this Babbitt of the University of Kansas is an exception, and do not mean to intimate that the center of Babbittism is in the vicinity of Kansas City. This line Main Street runs through every college town in the United States and its Babbitts are quite as blatant and naive throughout the country. It just happened that the Babbitt of Kansas City collected a maximum of the spotlight around him for the time and was given the opportunity to make a spectacular clown of himself.

He made the point of view of the average alumnus quite clear. The old grads of the University of Kansas are ready to receive with open arms prospective football players and even baseball players, whether they have funds or not. They are willing to see them through college in comfort and security, provided they are able to make good their claims of first-rate athletic ability. The alumni of the University of Kansas are not alone in this sort of philanthropy.

The Babbitt of the University of Kansas intimates that the development of a successful football team (style of the strength and color of Notre Dame) might bring to Kansas University an enrollment of 10,000 or more. Therefore, the alumni of Babbitts are justified in helping out good boys who can play football and give the University of Kansas that sort of team.

This is a frank recognition of what seems to be a fact, that the only advertisement that a university can get and the only prestige that it can build, in the reign of this distorted point of view, is through its football team, and this sounds almost true.

AN UNDERGRADUATE WRITES.

By a strange coincidence, on the reverse side of this clipping was the account of the suicide of Edwin C. Garrett, a 20-year-old student of the University of Missouri. He killed himself by driving a pair of shears into his heart. This case, too, has considerable bearing on the report of the Carnegie Foundation. I am reprinting two of the letters written by this lonely boy before he took his life. The first is to his brother. It reads:

"Dear Tom: I received your letter today. But, Tom, listen, come please. I am stranded here. I have no overcoat and no money, and Mrs. Wright is about to run me out. I have worn the same suit that I brought with me. That's the only thing that I brought. Please come, Tom, please. Everybody hates me here. I have received no letter from papa. I wrote him several days ago. Please come, Tom. The weather is turning cold. I wish that you were with me. Your brother, EDWIN.

"Dear Helen: I am sorry I came up here. I am just a worthless no-account fool. I am up here without any clothes, out of money, failing and about to be dropped. The landlady will put me out pretty soon. I have more enemies than I have friends. I have only two pairs of trousers here, and my sweater. I will be put out in the street freezing to death. Won't Fred or Tom come after me? I want papa and mamma come after me before I die. Please get Fred or Tom to come after me. Helen, please help me out. I am just an absolute failure. I was too ignorant for college work. Papa's friends no longer care for me. I have very little money and no friends. I will have to leave Columbia. Oh, please get Tom or Fred to come after me."

These letters were written at about the same time that the Babbitt of the University of Kansas was telling the world that the alumni always would be ready to help deserving boys through K. U. when they lacked funds, provided that they could play football or baseball. If the unfortunate young Garrett only had been an athlete! But, evidently, he was not, or he would not have been given to understand that he was absolutely without friends.

The matter of food and lodging would have been of no concern to him. The athletes would feed and comfortably housed, and they do not lack for companionship.

The matter of a slight deficiency in the studies would not annoy Garrett had he been a good backfield man. They would have supplied him with a tutor. He was not so hopelessly deficient at that, for the report says that "his grades, while below the required standards of the college were not exceptionally low." He probably rated about as high as alumni certainly would have taken up his case and undoubtedly would have solved all this problems for him.

But young Garrett is dead, and the blatant voice of the Babbitt alumni rings raucously through the land. Are the alumni their younger brothers' keepers? Apparently only when the younger brothers, the undergraduates, are in line to win their block letters for football or baseball. If they merely are students and bread is lacking, then let them eat cake.

BIRDS FEW AT TRIALS

Both dogs ran a splendid race although Mack showed a disposition to wander. This propensity proved his downfall for, given a second series chance with a bye dog in the running today, he left the course in and was counted out. Storie had his birds well located and was steady when Harris fired over him.

Manitoba Nan, pointer bitch owned by T. C. Bailey and handled by Bob Bevan, also found a covey. The birds flushed but Nan made up for this by snailing a single about two minutes later and secured another covey. Shots, Homeward Frank, handled by Charles Babcock, was also on point when the covey flushed, may have deserved equal credit for the find.

SEARCHING RACE.

Rex Tarleton, owned by T. C. Bailey and run by Bevan, put up a searching race, besting Junedale Allie, a bitch of no mean reputation and ability. He gets another chance in the second series.

Air Pilot, owned by Henry Whitaker, covered lots of ground under the direction of Parrior and outscored his competitor, Shores Carolina Jack. Among the dogs that will take to the place are the following: Chief Pohio Touchstone, Service, Rex, Swiftsure, Prairie Jim, John Willing, Jr., Ferris Lady Binkins, Mack Pritchett, Blackwells Cavalier, Miss Mayfair, Junedale Allie, Shores Carolina Jack, Homeward Frank, Wilders Julia, entered by Gus Ryan, of Atlanta, and winner in the members all-star stake; Mary Blue, Riga Frank, Mad Anthony, Stony Grove Bessie, Slipway and Nephews Carolina Bill. At the conclusion of the second series.

Before his departure, he announced that a hook-up will be arranged with some major league club. Although it will probably be Brooklyn, no definite announcement can be made until the National league club meets next Tuesday, December 10.

Negotiations were virtually closed today for the club to train in Brunswick, Ga., next spring.

Toporec Fined and Reinstated.

By Brian Bell.

Associated Press Staff Editor.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Although the National Association of Professional Baseball Players met in annual convention today, the bulk of the day's baseball news came from outside the convention hall.

Charles H. Knapp, Baltimore lawyer, was elected president of the International league by unanimous vote of the eight clubs, in the late afternoon while the morning brought to George Toporec, suspended Rochester Red Wings, the glad tidings that he would not have to remain out of baseball for a year but could run out to play second base for the Red Wings as soon as the new fine of $500.

The election of Knapp broke a deadlock of long standing in the International league. Since the death of John Conway Toole the league has been unable to agree upon a successor and the affairs of the league have been in the hands of Knapp, assisted by an advisory committee of club presidents. Knapp had not been a candidate.

COMMITTEE ABOLISHED.

Under the terms of today's election, which is for a term of one year, the advisory committee will be abolished and the president will have full authority. The Baltimore attorney, who became president of the Baltimore club as executor of the estate of the late Jack Dunn, was loath to accept the position of responsibility but finally agreed to serve for one year.

The International league decided also to continue playing 168 games a season instead of reducing the number of games to 154. The schedule will be prepared at a meeting in February.

SENTENCE MODIFIED.

President M. H. Sexton, of the National association, after a rehearing, modified the sentence he imposed after a previous hearing at which the players were not represented. Then Toporec, who had been fined $200 last autumn, was suspended for one year and Southworth fined $500. Under the reduction announced today, Toporec will be reinstated upon the payment of an additional fine of $500 while Southworth's fine was reduced to $200.

The players accepted the baseball decree philosophically, although Toporec thought it was "still pretty steep." President Sexton explained that in his last review of the case he had become convinced that no actual attack was perpetrated against Umpire Larry Goetz and that there was no intent to assault him. The finding also gave Toporec a good baseball character in previous years in the majors and minors.

FORMAL OPENING.

The opening of the convention today was formal, being restricted to reading of routine reports and appointment of committees. Another session will be held tomorrow.

Joe Tinker, famous Cub shortstop of other days, will return to baseball during the 1930 season and although he no longer can start the "Tinker to Evers to Chance" double plays of 20 years ago, he will be close to the game he loves. Tinker will become assistant to "Derby Day Bill" Clymer, manager of the Buffalo club of the International league.

Jim Hamilton, new president and manager of the Mobile club of the Southern association, today went into the market and returned with two pitchers. He bought the release of Harold Roberts from Jersey City of the International league and that of Alex Lindstrom from Toledo.

GRIFFIN SOLD.

One of the trades developed during the day was between Toronto and Beaumont when Toronto sent Pitcher Abe Martin to the Texas league club in exchange for Outfielder Petrie. Milwaukee sold Irvy Griffin, first baseman, to Atlanta, and Louisville sold Dick Loftus, outfielder, to Reading.

Gear Re-elected.

Western President.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Dale D. Gear, Topeka, was re-elected president of the Western league at its annual meeting today. The Westerners decided to open the 1930 season April 22 and close September 21, with the question of splitting the season to be decided at the schedule meeting in February.

James Hamilton, new president and manager of the Mobile club of the Southern association, today went into the market and returned with two pitchers. He bought the release of Harold Roberts from Jersey City of the International league and that of Alex Lindstrom from Toledo.

Chicks Purchase Dallas Shortstop.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 4.—(AP)—A telegram today from "Doc" Prothro, manager of the Memphis club of the Southern association, announced the purchase of Shortstop Flaskamper from Dallas of the Texas league club. The deal was completed at the gathering of baseball men in Chattanooga incidental to the annual meeting of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues.

DALLAS, Texas, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Ray Flaskamper, whose sale to Memphis of the Southern association was announced today, batted .274 and fielded .939 at shortstop for the Dallas Steers, Texas league champions, during the 1929 campaign. He played a number of games at second base late in the season.

Foots Clement To Lead Tide

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Charles (Foots) Clement, giant tackle, was named captain of the 1930 University of Alabama football team at a team banquet here tonight. Fred Sington, all-star guard and tackle, was chosen as alternate captain. Clement hails from Rover, Ark. Sington is from Birmingham.

Dunn To Lead V. M. I. Cadets

LEXINGTON, Va., Dec. 4.—(AP) Monogram men of Virginia Military institute's state championship football team today unanimously elected as captain their pile-driving fullback, Roy Franklin Dunn, of Rocky Mount, N. C.

Dunn completed his second year on the flying squadron this season, starting as a line plunger on attack and as a savage tackler on defense. He led the V. M. I. scores with seven touchdowns and one extra point for a total of 45 points. Dunn also played guard on the Cadet basketball team last year and was a utility outfielder in baseball.

The V. M. I. schedule for next season, as announced by Athletic Director Blandy Clarkson, lists nine games instead of 10, with the early September game with Hampden-Sydney missing.

The Flying Squadron will play five Southern conference games instead of six. St. John's college of Annapolis, Md., having replaced Florida. The schedule follows: September 27, Richmond at Lexington; October 4, St. John's at Lexington; October 11, the Citadel at Charleston, S. C.; October 18, Virginia at Lexington (home coming game); October 23, Maryland at Richmond; November 1, Davidson at Lexington; November 8, Clemson at Norfolk; November 15, Kentucky at Lexington, Ky.; November 27, V. P. I. at Roanoke.

Grid Star Named For West Point

ST. LOUIS, December 4.—(AP)—The appointment of Harvey Jablonsky, captain and star guard of the 1929 Washington University football team, to West Point was announced here today. If Jablonsky passes the necessary examinations to enter West Point, he will be a candidate for the Army football team next fall.

DePauw Signed.

Boston University has scheduled a game with DePauw University of Indiana in December next year.

By Walter Trumbull.

In picking an All-American squad it is just about as easy to select 90 star players as 33. The game of football has spread to such an extent, and the coaching is so uniformly good, that there is no corner of the land which is without its stars.

In the old days, there were a few big universities which drew the best football material and had the best instruction. There was a difference in the football of the east, the middle west, and the Pacific coast. Now each coach pretty well knows the methods of all the rest and football styles are the same throughout the country. The only difference is the preference of individual coaches for a certain type of game and the adaptability of his material to his theories.

MORE AND MORE

Each season produces more good football teams and more great players. Each season the strongest teams find it harder to play through their schedules without a defeat. Of the hundreds of college aggregations playing the game, few more than a dozen finished without the loss of a game. Of about half a dozen finished without at least one tie, the records, Southern Methodist did not lose a game, but was tied four times. It is only reasonable to suppose that these undefeated teams have on them players above the average. It would, in fact, be perfectly possible to pick from the unbeaten teams an All-American eleven which probably could hold its own with any team which could be assembled. You need at least 22 men to play a football game nowadays, regardless of the fact that the Army went through against Notre Dame without a substitution.

The country is as full of stars as is the sky of a summer night. Nor do I deny that many of them are fully as good as those I have named. Pittsburgh has Tully; Notre Dame has Downey and Elder; Western Maryland has Havens; Purdue has Harnett; Texas Christian has Leland; St. Mary's has Stennett; Pennsylvania has Magat, Gentle and Utz; Colgate has Dowler and Cox; Detroit has Brazil; Marquette has Radick; Carnegie has Dresher and Armstrong; Nebraska has Richards and Slom; Yale has Vincent; Princeton has Harvard; Harvard has Wood, Mays and Donnell; Army has Perry, Carlmark and Turrell; Navy has Bowstrom.

Plague and Famine

When the Four Horsemen of Notre Dame, the originals, were spreading plague, famine, pestilence and defeat among the football teams of the country, back in 1924, one of Notre Dame's best years, none were more active than Elmer Layden and Don Miller.

They are pictured above as they appear now on a visit to Atlanta for the final game of the year. Layden had an undefeated season as coach at Duquesne and Miller, assistant at Tech last year, was successful as backfield coach at Ohio State.

Harvard Signs Virginia, Texas

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 4.—(AP) The Universities of Texas and Virginia have places in the 1931 Harvard football schedule made public today. Two dates remain to be filled, one, November 14, is expected to be taken by Holy Cross for the usual pre-Yale game.

Best on Defense.

Charlie Crowley, of Columbia, is rated one of the best defensive coaches in football.

Illinois has Kaval; Texas has Shelby; Oregon has Colbert; Washington has Hufford; Washington State has Schwartz; Oklahoma has Churchill; Duquesne has Donnell; Columbia has Hewitt; Davis-Ellkins has Rengle; Florida has Cawthorne; Colorado has Clark; Georgia Tech has Thomason; Southern California has Barrag; Stanford has Helwick; Princeton and Fleishacker; California has Rigels; Norton and Lom.

Famous Coaches Georgia's Guests

ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 4.—Dr. S. V. Sanford stated at a meeting of the Georgia students tonight that the university would have as their guests at the Tech game coaches Chick Mehan, of New York University; "Biff" Jones, of the Army; Bob Zuppke, Illinois; and Bill Roper, of Princeton.

These famous coaches will speak to the Georgia students at the big mass meeting Friday night if they arrive in town in time.

The University of Chattanooga game will also be guests of Georgia.

and depart for Athens, arriving there shortly before noon.

GEORGIA FAVORED.

While there seems to be a revival of the old vim and vigor at the mark Georgia as a two-touchdown favorite. This seems to be a Georgia year. The team has a powerful line, a fast and shifty one in the backfield and a diversified attack that is timed and ready.

Everything else being equal, as they hardly are, Georgia would hold an edge because of its reserves. The Georgia backfield reserves are about as powerful as the regulars. They showed that in the Alabama game. The line has enough to permit substitution with little or no lessening of the defensive or offensive strength. Harry Mehre will likely start his substitute back in at least two positions. He followed that system in getting off to a flying start against the Crimson Tide.

Bulldogs Hold Last Scrimmage.

By K. Anderson.

ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 4.—In preparation for the Tech game, Head Coach Harry Mehre sent his men on the square in action with the Bulldogs in a scrimmage today. After the day's work was over the Bulldog mentor said that there will be no more roughing in the Bulldogs until Saturday at 2 p. m. The freshmen scored three times on the varsity during the scrimmage this afternoon. Buster Mott, playing the role of Stumpy Thomason, ran through the entire Bulldog team for 90 yards and the first marker early in the scrimmage. The other two scores came as the result of longward passes. Buster Mott and Keyes both gave the varsity trouble with their numerous gains through the line, and around the end.

The big Bulldog team was not functioning in its usual manner during the last two days and as the result the varsity has been able to score almost at will.

In the last scrimmage of the year the Georgia coaches sent every man on the square in action with the exception of Rothstein and Davidson. Both of these men were in the scrimmage Tuesday. Captain Joe Roland's work in the line was the feature of the varsity defense. Seldom during the scrimmage were the first year men able to make any ground through territory occupied by Georgia's two guards, Leathers and Maddox, and the Bulldog captain.

On the offense the Georgia line was working with a smoothness and precision that has seldom been attained in practice in the Bulldog camp. Every team that the coaches sent in appeared able to open up holes for Georgia's army of backs, who scored several markers before darkness came.

The last scrimmage of the season left the Bulldogs in excellent condition. John Davidson has a twisted knee, but will be ready for the game on Saturday. Every one else on the squad is free from injuries.

Three freshmen have been injured during the scrimmages this week. Gaston, freshman halfback, suffered a sprained ankle in today's scrimmage. W. W. Sullivan, who is the field general for the Bulldogs, and Dick Maxwell, freshman end, were kept out of today's scrimmage because

28 Bullpups Get Numerals

ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 4.—Twenty-eight members of the University of Georgia freshman football team will receive numerals for meritorious work during the 1929 football season. The Bullpups won three out of the five games on their schedule. They were defeated by Mercer, 15-0, and Alabama, 45-0, and won from Florida, 13-12; from Auburn, 25-0, and from Tech Freshmen, 32-0.

Coach Gene Smith was in charge of the team, assisted by Frank Dudley and "Red" Eubanks.

The following men will receive numerals: Quarterbacks, Sullivan and Brown; halfbacks, Keck, Gaston, Mott and Young; fullbacks, Eberhardt, Gilmore and D. T. Clarke; centers, Collins, McWhorter and Snelling; guards, Patterson, Thorn, Hazlehurst, Culbreath and Thurman; tackles, Swygert, Hamrick Davis, Mitchell and Wyatt; ends, Crenshaw, Reynolds, Miller, Maxwell, L. Clarke and T. Clarke. Manager, Sam Brof-nax.

Oregon Works Out At Jacksonville

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 4.—(AP) Coach John J. McEwan, of the University of Oregon football squad, sent his Webfoots through a brief workout in Fairfield stadium here this afternoon to unlimb muscles for a secret session tomorrow before training for Miami. The team from the Pacific coast engages the University of Florida in a game Saturday in one of the south's biggest intercollegiate contests of the season.

While expecting plenty of competition from the Gators, Coach McEwan is satisfied with the way his players are standing the long journey from Eugene, Ore. Several stops along the way have been made, but the team is going state and the Webfoots will be able to throw a team in perfect condition in the field against the Gators. The workout today was open to the public and a large delegation of Florida fans was on hand to see the big jerseyed Oregonians take setting up exercises and the tossing of the ball. Coach McEwan announced that he had left seven players behind, five of them regulars. He said he did not believe his team would suffer from the warm weather in California in summer temperatures.

The team will work out at Jacksonville Beach where they could be more or less to themselves. A secret practice session tomorrow afternoon will be held at Jacksonville. The team will be in Jacksonville for a banquet arranged by a Jacksonville civic organization tomorrow night. The team will be in Jacksonville for a banquet arranged by a Jacksonville civic organization tomorrow night.

Of injuries, Maxwell has a twisted knee, while Sullivan is suffering from a wrenched ankle. The team will go through a light workout tomorrow and Friday.

Two Pep Meets Held.

ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 4.—Two huge "Reck Tech" mass meetings were held here in Athens tonight. One by the Georgia students in the University of Georgia chapel, the other one was held at the Georgia State Teachers' College. This is the first time within the memory of the present student body that the young women from the State Teachers' College have organized to tell for Georgia against Tech. Charlie Davis, senior class leader at Georgia, accepted an invitation, went out tonight and led the yell. The young women will bring the Georgia students at the Georgia state game and will join the Georgia yell.

Over at the university chapel the students put on a rousing mass meeting for Georgia against Tech. Charlie Davis, senior class leader at Georgia, accepted an invitation, went out tonight and led the yell. The young women will bring the Georgia students at the Georgia state game and will join the Georgia yell.

CORNELL PROBE GIVES GIL DOBIE OFFICIAL OKAY

Gloomy Scot To Be Retained as Coach of Ithacans.

By Alan Gould.

Associated Press Sports Writer.
NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(AP)—The shake-up in eastern football coaching ranks, although covering a wide range since the close of the college season, will not strike among the picturesque hills above Lake Cayuga, where Gil Dobie, of Cornell, holds forth with Scotch determination.

It can be said authoritatively now that Dobie, whose scalp was so cheerfully sought last spring by alumni anxious to take the warpath, will remain in charge of football at Cornell at least until his present contract expires in 1933.

So far as alumni criticism is concerned, it has dissolved into a report by the committee of seventeen, made up of faculty and Cornell Alumni News. It treats the football situation somewhat mildly, voicing criticism of conditions under Dobie which have undergone change, meanwhile, in connection with the rise of Cornell football fortunes in the season just completed.

CHANGES.

Perhaps the most significant feature, so far as Dobie is concerned, is a distinct change from the veteran coach's one-time pessimism to a degree of optimism almost startling by contrast. The popular appellation of "Gloomy" has been dropped, and the man who prefaced the games with Dartmouth and Pennsylvania by asserting confidence in "a fighting Cornell team."

Cornell lost both of these games but the red forces were far from being routed. They beat Princeton and Columbia. Improvement in the gridiron material of Cornell is the warranted prospect of an even better showing in the big games next year.

"Cornell does not and never has possessed sufficient football atmosphere naturally to attract capable football material," notes the alumni report, adding: "The general attitude of Mr. Dobie or at least the popular impression of him with his all-pervading pessimism has not only contributed to a betterment of the situation but has tended to aggravate it."

SHOWS PROGRESS.

The alumni committee concedes that "under Gil Dobie the Cornell football team has won a larger percentage of its games than under any other coach in the history of the school." It also finds a "lack of confidence in the team and a disaffection that has become widespread, thereby causing the committee to doubt if Dobie will be able to reach maximum effectiveness at Cornell."

The committee feels that while the coach has been ill-advised in his public relations, "he has been a man of his methods." The committee does not say that while regarding Dobie as a strict taskmaster, no substantiation was found of the many specific, bitter charges against him regarding his treatment of the players. On the contrary the committee after a "particularly close study" of the situation with men "who have been associated with Mr. Dobie since his advent at Cornell," finds a "practically unanimous sentiment on the part of the men who have played under Mr. Dobie of him as a man and of his methods."

CLEAN CORNELL.

The famous Carnegie report gave Cornell a "clean bill" so far as recruiting and subsidizing of athletes was concerned, and the alumni report cites that "it has been one of the finest traditions of Cornell that there should be no proselytizing of athletic material or other unethical overtures made to athletic prospects." Nevertheless, the committee recommends that there should be a whole-hearted co-operation on the part of the alumni with the committee on relations with preparatory schools and that a wholesome interest in Cornell be stimulated, with a view to attracting to the university students who will be a credit to the institution.

Tech Pugilists Start Tuesday

Georgia Tech's latest athletic venture of boxing school is a boxing school will get under way on December 10, according to word received from Mike Chambers, trainer at the Flats, who is coaching the pugilists.

The attempt will be the first at Tech to try this field, though several other teams in the south have formed teams for the past few years and have enjoyed real successes. The sport has long been a favorite throughout the north and east. Most of the larger schools and universities in these sections put out teams which hold dual meets and participate in tournaments.

With the addition of Tech to the list of boxing schools it is expected that a Southern conference boxing tournament will be put on the conference schedule.

Chambers expects to hold his workouts at the Atlanta Athletic Club in connection with the amateur team sponsored by the club. A number of men interested in the sport have already conferred with Chambers, and many more are expected to report when the squad assembles next Tuesday.

Army-Notre Dame Game Is Popular

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Dec. 4.—(AP) The Army and Navy are not likely to resume football relations and the annual Army-Notre Dame classic is destined to replace it as one of the nation's traditional gridiron battles, Captain Lawrence "Biff" Jones, retiring Army coach, believes. Coach Jones, here for the Notre Dame football victory banquet tonight, said the Army-Notre Dame game was amazing in its popularity. Coach Jones said he did not intend to retire permanently. He will spend next year at an army commission school as a student, he said, and will be back coaching in 1931. He did not say whether he would return to West Point.

SPORTLIGHT Grantland Rice

The big splash of the winter golf season should bring a pretty well known name back to the headlines, now that football is slipping away from most of the space it has occupied since early October. The name happens to be Horton Smith, of Joplin and Springfield, Mo. Smith kept the headlines fairly busy last winter when he won more big money tournaments than any winter golfer had ever bagged before, taking as many as four in a row.

This season he opened his campaign by winning his first 72-hole start and finishing second in the next. That isn't slipping to any great extent. If it is about 3,000,000 golfers would like to start slipping without wasting any more time.

Smith is a golfer who should keep on traveling like the wind. His playing form is as near perfection as the game shows, barring nobody. He is tall, willowy, strongly built. He has a flexible body, flexible arms and flexible wrists. He is a golfer of courage and determination. No player takes better care of himself. He can hit the ball a long way with little effort. He has a fine, long game and a sound, consistent short game around the greens.

He was overjoyed when he arrived at Winged Foot last June from two much tournament and exhibition play, stretching from December into summer. He has had a better chance to rest up a trifle and if he doesn't over-play himself again, will be one of the major golf factors for 1930.

Bobby Jones can't keep winning forever with a working career to look after. Walter Hagen is nearing forty. There is no one in sight with a better chance to step into the gap sure to come and lead the parade as they have done for the greater part of the last ten years.

Coaches and Material.

Last fall Knute Rockne lost four games. Bill Alexander, of Georgia Tech, won every game. This fall Rockne of Notre Dame has had a remarkable season, while Georgia Tech has lost five games.

Yet, as Fielding H. Yost remarked recently, "Rockne was as good a coach last year as he has been this—Alexander is as good a coach this year as he was last year." This is true, showing again the importance of material.

Too much blame for losing and too much praise for winning has been placed upon the coach. It all gets down, in the main, to man power on the field—to speed, stamina, natural football ability—and to reserves.

There is no question that certain teams have a big advantage in getting their material over other teams. Proselytizing may be common among them all, but it is much more pronounced in some cases than in others. There is no question but that scholastic regulations are far stricter in certain universities than they are in others. Here again certain coaches are greatly favored, or heavily handicapped. It is no trouble at all to name twenty or fifty coaches who can win with good material—and also lose with poor material. None of them can win with poor material. If they could Rockne would not have lost four games last fall and Alexander would not have lost five games this fall.

And don't forget that hard schedules make a vital difference—especially where there is a continuity of hard or battering games. There is no basis of comparison between a team with a fairly easy schedule and one with a fairly hard schedule. For the pressure of modern football is as heavy mentally as it is physically, and it is through loss of nerve reserve that the main depletion sets in.

Stuffy Reminiscences.

Just about twenty years ago a young fellow by the name of Stuffy McInnis looked as if he might be a ball player around first base for the Athletics. There haven't been many better in the history of baseball. I ran across Stuffy again at the Harvard-Yale game and he looked as if he could step out and play first base for any team tomorrow. They traded Stuffy around at the finish, but they couldn't trade him out of that 300 circle. He had a 300 eye, no matter what the league or what the pitching.

Stuffy was always something more than a star ball player. No man ever moved from one city to another and left a wider circle of friends. Not to like Stuffy was to go on record as a loquacious grouch. When Stuffy saw young first basemen around after his job as he hit the last of the stretch, he was the first to work with them and show them all he knew.

Stuffy started reminiscing about the old days and he still says he would just about as soon have Chief Bender pitch a million-dollar game for him as any one he ever saw—taking the eminent Chipewake at his best. So would a number of others.

3 Colgate Stars In Charity Game O'Brien, Football Official, To Quit

HAMILTON, N. Y., Dec. 4.—(AP) Three stars of the Colgate football team, unbeaten in its last eight starts and scoring leader of the east, today accepted invitations to play with the east against the west in the annual charity game at San Francisco on New Year's Day.

They are Captain Johnny Cox, center; Jules Yabluk, quarterback, and Tommy (Spook) Dowler, halfback. Dowler was one of the leading scorers of the east with a record of having registered a touchdown in the first five minutes of every game of a nine-game schedule.

More "Horsemen."

Followers of the Notre Dame team are comparing this year's quartet of ball carriers, Carideo, Elder, Brill and Mullins, with the Four Horsemen—Stuhldreher, Miller, Layden and Crowley.

VARIED ATTACK OF GREEN WAVE SWEEP SEASON

Greenies Had Offense for Every Occasion and Finished Undefeated.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 4.—(Special.)—The Green Wave of Tulane University, champions of the Southern conference for 1929, was acclaimed as one of the most versatile scoring machines in the history of Dixie football.

Winning nine straight games without a defeat or tie, the team of Coach Bernie Bierman employed every known method of football to crush the opponents. A running and passing attack stopped Texas A. & M., a nussing attack beat Georgia Tech, straight running played Mississippi, while Bumbach and end runs demolished Auburn, a plunging game decided the Georgia contest, line sweeps beat Sewanee and overhead flings crushed the Louisiana State.

PLENTY IN RESERVE.
In every game, with the exception of the Texas Aggie affair, the "ave" always impressed the spectator as having plenty left in reserve to shoot at the opposition if the situation demanded.

This versatility may be accounted for in the analysis. Tulane boasted a great line, with every man in the forward wall a star. Holland and Dyl-rmple formed a great pair of flank-men, both fine in blocking out their opponents and in catching passes.

Bumbach, Armstrong, Banker, Glover, Hugg, Whitley, Massey and Haik all were capable passers and all good pass receivers. This gave the "ave" a half-dozen passers of the caliber and eight pass receivers, counting the star end men.

Then, for running attack, Banker, Armstrong, Seewus, Pizano, Glover and Whitley were all star ball-carriers, while Bumbach had the ability to catch the opposition napping with short line jabs himself.

HARD CHARGERS.

All of these men ran with great speed and blocked well for the other. Banker, Hugg, Whitley, Massey and Haik all could hit the center of a line with telling effect and run the tackles well.

Punting brought out another show of versatility. Banker, Pizano and Massey all kicked. One would average well alongside the other. Seewus, Pizano and Mangum specialized in the kicking-off.

On the defense, the Greenies were an alert team. While woefully weak in the first game of the season against the Texas Aggies on pass defense, Bierman showed his pass defense entirely. Where he had until then used his backs to knock the ball down, he changed to a pass interception defense, using his fast backs to telling advantage. The fact that only one touchdown pass was completed against the Greenies in the last seven games of the season while they were intercepting four for touchdowns and many others for long gains shows the effectiveness of their pass defense.

WAVE'S RECORD.

The Wave scored 279 points in nine games against 45 for the opposition. The season's record which left them with an undisputed title.
Tulane 40; Louisiana Normal 6.
Tulane 13; Texas A. & M. 15.

BY PAUL HERVEY FOX

INSTALLMENT XXVIII.
NO TIME TO BE LOST.

It had seemed to her the only possible solution of a situation that had been tinged with unhappiness. She had calculated her words in the hope of arousing his suspicion, bringing him up here on the run. Once he arrived, the smoke would be blown away and Suzanne's grief at an end. But had Tom taken the bait? The way the connection had been clicked off led her to believe that the poison had had effect instantly. On the other hand, it might have been the fault of some central. He might not even have heard her words or taken the meaning she had given them by her very tone.

If the message had carried, however, the domestic crisis in the lives of the Davises would soon be over. Then Bruce would also be free. Kathleen's eyes danced. It had been rather a cruel trick he had played! She could forgive Suzanne for using the weapon of jealousy far more readily. But Bruce did not deserve to be let off so easily. Kathleen bit her lip and took counsel with herself.

When Captain Jones had at last shut off his engine and glided gently into the cove, Kathleen saw that the young man of whom she had been thinking was there to put him. The captain warded off collision with a boat hook.

"Pears to me I'm gettin' to be a regular visitor," he said, looking at Kathleen's face. He bent toward her, holding out a hand of assistance. She was on the point of accepting the hand of the launch broke into life again and the boat backed out, churning the water.

Bruce stood squarely in the path, seeming to block the way. Kathleen noticed that he was scowling, but it was as if from nervousness.

Once again she asked herself why she found him so appealing. She had known many good looking boys, but none that touched her in quite the way Bruce did. He seemed so spoiled, she thought, and yet she did not mind. She could not analyze her feelings, nor did she care to. But she felt strangely happy. He was hers. She knew that intuitively. But first she must punish him! It wasn't fair that he should get off scot-free after playing that heartless trick!

She gave him a cool look. "Has anything happened?" she asked.

"No. But I've been waiting for you ever since you left. I spoke with a kind of helplessness now, concealing nothing. 'I kept thinking you weren't coming back.'"

"Really? Why should I go away without saying anything?"

"No reason. But I thought about it just the same."

"O!" She started to climb the path. "Don't go—don't go up to the house yet."

"Why not?"

"Because I want to talk to you."

"There's nothing to say—nothing we need to say."

"I mean—about yesterday."

"I knew you meant that. I'm willing to forget the whole thing. You were probably upset by the storm."

"I was upset."

"You must have been. You wouldn't have—have done what you did if you had been in your right senses."

His eyes grew dark. "I'd do just as I did before—if it happened all over again!" he said, thickly.

"O!" In that case I can't even make any excuses for you. Please let me go. You're in my way."

"Why are you being so rough on me?" he burst out. "Don't you know what I'm trying to tell you? That I'm mad about you, crazy about you? Why, I love you, Kathleen!"

She would not let him see her eyes. Yet it was strange how steady her voice was!

"Do you think that's a compliment? O, how I pity poor Suzanne!"

"Listen, I never loved her. I—well, I can't tell you, but it's really all right."

"Stop!" she cried. "O, stop!" She had not suspected her dramatic talent here. "You tell me you love me—and you're willing to desert a woman who has given up her home for you, her whole life! You must be able to think I'd ever listen to you!"

He confronted her wretchedly. "Kathleen, you've got to give me a chance! No one will ever feel about you the way I do!"

"Really? I shall have to remember that when I reach China."

"China?" he repeated, bewildered.

"I expect to go there again in the near future."

He looked at her blankly. Kathleen brushed past him and pushed her way up on the path.

It had been a warm day, but now the heat was going out of the sky. Bruce threw himself down in the pine woods, thinking hard.

Confound Suzanne Davies—it was all her fault! If he had ever suspected for one moment she could be as pig-headed as to sit here forever he would never have done Tom the favor of running off with her. Perhaps it had been a woman trick, but she was paying him back with interest!

It had ruined him with Kathleen—and about Kathleen he couldn't even be articulate. She was all that mattered. He felt he didn't have her he would die. He felt poetic and sad; he felt like an invalid for whom there is no hope of recovery.

He couldn't tell Kathleen the truth. For one thing, she would probably despise him for having done what he had. A woman wouldn't understand those things. . . . Besides, it would be pretty traitorous to Tom. If Suzanne ever found out she would never really trust Tom again. She might even stop loving him. That was the way things happened. That was what people called disillusionment.

But he caught on at one hope. If he could ever get Suzanne to go back to Tom, just as the original plan had been, in time Kathleen might look more tolerantly on the adventure of the island. He would follow her to China, of course. A thought came into his mind, stabbed him. Perhaps she was going to China to marry some one! Perhaps that was the only reason!

There was no time to be lost. He'd make one final effort to bring Suzanne to her senses. If that failed he'd wire Tom to come up and admit defeat. And Tom was just obstinate enough to refuse if he were asked. What a couple! They deserved each other.

But how was he ever going to make Suzanne go up? If she had lasted this long, was there anything left he could do? She made him think of the proverbial stone waiting in patience through the years until the water had worn it away. He saw her in a wig and a wheel chair, begging Tom to take her back at last, while he leaned on his crutches.

He put these pictures out of his thoughts, rapped his tired head with his knuckles. He must get rid of Suzanne somehow, some way! Until he did, Kathleen wouldn't even look at him.

THE SON OF TARZAN No. 10

At the thought of his son, Tarzan came abruptly back to the present. He shrugged his giant shoulders as he answered the ape. "No, Akut, it cannot be!" he said. "You could not be happy here—I am not!" he said. "You could not be happy here—I am not!" he said. "You could not be happy here—I am not!" he said.

And then, briefly and for the first time, Tarzan of the Apes told his son of his early life—of his birth in the jungle, of the death of his parents, and of how Kala, the great she-ape, had suckled and raised him from infancy almost to manhood.

Then he spoke of the fear and suffering, of all the things that seem most horrible to the creature of civilization, in the hope that the knowledge of them might sweep from the lad's mind any inherent desire for the jungle. Yet these were the very things that made the jungle memories, so precious to Tarzan, and all unknowingly as he talked his every sentence glowed with the sparks that fired the boy's hungry desire for adventure.

Associated Press Staff Writer.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—
American industry in all its immense ramifications took stock today of the prospects for business in 1930—and found them encouraging.Leaders of its scores of industrial associations and corporations gathered to hear President Hoover outline briefly the reasons for their assembly, and to give one by one the views they held as to the outlook in their particular field.The president told them that the recent crack in the stock market had been followed first by a recovery of confidence in money markets, and second by a movement of leading employers to maintain wages and activity."The third line of action has been to undertake through voluntary organization of industry the continuity and expansion of the construction and maintenance work of the country," Mr. Hoover continued. "The extension and organization of this work are the purpose of this meeting."He remarked that in preliminary meetings representatives of the country's leading business enterprises has "shown a unanimity I have seldom seen in our country" in the endeavor "to assure employment and to remove the fear of unemployment."Work—Good Work.
"The very fact that you gentlemen come together for these board purposes represents an advance in the whole conception of the relationship of business to public welfare," he said.
"You represent the business of the United States, undertaking through your own voluntary action to contribute something very definite to the advancement of stability and progress in our economic life."Beyond this, a great responsibility for stability and prosperity rests with the whole people. I have no desire to preach. I may, however, mention one good old word—work."After applauding the meeting heard it, quick succession from Secretary Lamont, and his assistant secretary of commerce, Julius Klein, and elected Julius H. Barnes its permanent chairman.Lamont said the chief contribution business organizations could make to
maintenance of their normal buying of materials and equipment. He pointed out that federal, state and county capital expenditures next year and that year would involve the expenditure of "well above $2,500,000,000 and furnish employment to more than 600,000 men."Any interruption to business prosperity, he predicted, would be of short volume. Klein spoke of the increased organization of American business and asserted that its possibilities of effective co-operation constituted a guarantee against recessions of importance.Chairman Barnes then summoned a number of his more important representatives to answer an informal roll call as to what their program of activity for the coming year might show.Billion Expedition.
R. H. Ashton, chairman of the Association of Railway Executives, estimated that the trunk line carriers had appropriated $1,050,000,000 for capital expenditures next year and that $400,000,000 of this would be spent in the first six months of 1930 as compared with $350,000,000 in the same period of 1929.Expenditures for railroad supplies for the period he estimated at $1,300,- 000,000, while the railroad wage bill would be $2,000,000,000.Matthew S. Sloan, president of the National Electric Light Association, said public utilities were "in a healthy condition and there is no reason ap-Good-Will Dinner wholesale shake-up in the diplomatic corps in Latin America was announced today by President Hoover in the submission to the senate of the nominations of new ministers to Bolivia, Panama, Costa Rica, Paraguay, Nicaragua, Honduras and the Dominican Republic.All the new appointees are career or service men; all speak the language of the countries to which accredited, and all were chosen in line with the policy of the president announced in his annual message to congress "to establish more firmly our understanding and relationships with the Latin American countries."General changes in the diplomatic corps south of the Rio Grande were determined upon by Mr. Hoover as a result of observations made and reports received during his good-will tour of Central and South America while president-elect. Some previously had been announced and others will be determined upon later.Those nominated for new posts today were:

Julius G. Lay, of Washington, D.
C., to Honduras; Matthew E. Hanna, of Ohio, to Nicaragua; Post Wheeler, of Washington state, to Paraguay; Roy T. Davis, of Missouri, to Panama; Charles B. Curtis, of New York, to the Dominican Republic; Evan E.
Young, of South Dakota, to Bolivia; and H. F. Arthur Schoenfeld, of Washington, D. C., to Costa Rica.Lay, now counselor of the American embassy in Chile, succeeds George T. Sumnerlin, of Rayville, La., recently nominated minister to Venezuela.Wheeler, a diplomat of wide experience, who has been on extended leave of absence, succeeds in Panama George L. Creek, of Lawrence, Kansas, who was appointed in 1925, and now retires from the service.Hanna, of Londonderry, Ohio, now counselor of legation, in Nicaragua, succeeds a minister to that country
Charles C. Eberhart, of Salina, Kansas, who also retires.Young, whose home is in Plankin-ton, S. D., is transferred from Santo Domingo to La Paz, succeeding David E. Kaufman, of Pennsylvania, who has returned to private business at his own request.Curtis, of New York City, counselor of the American embassy at Ha-nana, goes to Santo Domingo.
Davis, who goes to Panama City, is minister to Costa Rica. He will be succeeded at San Jose by Schoenfeld, a former aide to Ambassador Morrow at Mexico City, and now secretary general of the Paraguay-Bolivia commission of inquiry and conciliation.John Glover South, Frankfort, Ky., banker, appointed by President Har-

GAS RATE HEARINGFulton county will be represented by Charles B. Shelton, county attorney, at hearings before the Georgia public commission on natural gas rates, the county commission decided Thursday at a special meeting.After authorizing creation of a new garage at Bellwood convict camp, the commission recessed until December 18, when special matters, including 1930 salaries, will be taken up. The commission recently decided not to cut salaries of employees in the former fee office, and it is expected that salaries of other employees will be allowed to remain as at present.23,765 KILLED

WOMAN WHO AIDED BANDIT CONVICTEDBashilee Thompson Is Given One to Four Years for Helping Aubrey
Smith Escape.Fixing her punishment at from one to four years imprisonment, a jury in Judge G. H. Howard's division of Fulton superior court Thursday night returned an open verdict of guilty against Bashilee Thompson, on charges of aiding in the escape of Aubrey Smith, notorious bandit, from the state prison farm.Judge Howard, who was not present when the verdict was brought in,
is expected to pass sentence on the woman this morning.The state contended that the Thompson woman, knowing Smith to be an escaped convict, carried him from Atlanta to Florida in an automobile. She was arrested at Miami several months ago.The Thompson verdict was returned after short deliberation. The woman admitted an acquaintance with Smith but denied she knew he was a bandit and escaped convict.M. F. (Stutz) Jackson Wednesday was convicted of harboring Smith after he arrived in Atlanta. He was sentenced to serve from two to six years.GRAND JURY HEARS RITCHIE AND CIVIC LEADERS IN PROBESecrecy Veils Inquiry Into Alleged Graft, Use of School Grounds by Rum Runners.Guarded under the grand jury's policy of secrecy, witnesses were questioned for several hours Thursday by the county inquisitorial body in its investigation of reports of graft in the city hall and of use of school grounds for whisky transfer points.Following the special session of the grand jury, Thomas J. Lyon, foreman, referred all inquiries of newspapermen to Solicitor-General John
A. Boykin, who, however, would not comment on the case.Among the witnesses who testified Thursday before the grand jury were R. R. Ritchie, assistant superintendent of schools in charge of business affairs, and Mrs. J. E. Andrews.
Ritchie recently told a special school board committee that grounds of Tech High and Forrest Avenue schools have been used as transfer points for liquor runners but that the school authorities had succeeded in having the practice stopped. Mrs. Andrews has been seeking an audit of the city warden's office.Hancock Also Summoned.
Others who were summoned before the grand jury were W. L. Hancock, of the Atlanta board of education;
Thomas G. Lewis, an attorney; W. E.
Dunn, Jr., a businessman, and Army Sergeants H. Short and H. E. Miller, who are connected with high school
R. O. T. C. units.Lewis was said to have given the grand jury information regarding a city school site sale.The grand jury will meet again today, but will consider routine business only, it was said. Although it is expected that another special session will be held in the near future to go further into the graft and liquor transfer point charges, no announcement was made of a definite date for the session.Started By Huie.
Investigation of charges of alleged "palm greasing" at the city hall began after Alderman Ben T. Huie, of the third ward, had said on the floor of council that he had been informed by a confidential source that to secure certain council action, Alderman Huie later told council that he had made that statement only to defend his colleagues.At the time Ritchie confirmed reports of use of public school grounds for whisky transfer points, he declined to give the school committee further information because he said it might embarrass certain people.P. O. Receipts Likely To Set
New RecordTotal for 11 Months of 1929
Smashes All Records.Hailed as indication of ever-increasing business prosperity in this section, Atlanta postoffice receipts for the first 11 months of the current year reached a new peak of $4,212,801.22, a figure more than $160,000 in excess of receipts for any previous similar period, according to figures made public Thursday by Postmaster E. K. Large.With the busiest month of the postoffice year to be added, a new all-time record for total yearly receipts is practically assured beyond all question.Receipts for the first 11 months of 1927 when the present yearly record of $4,510,429.85 was established, totalled only $4,050,929.38, while for the same period of 1928 the figures were $4,051,753.35.This gain of more than $160,000 was aided materially by the receipts for last month which are the largest November receipts on record. Mr. Large's figures show a total of $393,370.77 for last month. Likewise registered a gain of nearly $30,000 over November of last year.A check of previous records reveals that this was the seventh monthly all-time record established this year and the third successive month to go above all previous figures for those particular periods. Receipts for January, April, May, July, September, October and November of this year have all set new marks, while June showed an increase over the same month last year but fell a little short of the highest June receipts on record. Only February, March and August of this year have failed to show a gain over the same months of last year.Body of Lost Mail Pilot Found

Shape Plans for Firm Which Will Build on Site of Depot.Following swiftly on the announcement ten days ago that the United States Warehouse Company would build a 22-story office building, warehouse and cold storage plant on the Union depot property J. G. Robertson, director of the bureau of marketing extension of the warehouse company, arrived in Atlanta Thursday to begin the work of organizing marketing among the producers of the commodities in which the new company will deal.He spent Thursday in the inspection of office space in several Atlanta buildings preparatory to the opening of active business offices.The office which he will open in Atlanta will be devoted to the promotion and organization of the business in which the United States Warehouse Company will engage. It will also serve as headquarters for the Dixie Terminal—the name which has been selected for the new buildings—until the completion of permanent headquarters."Yesterday, I was from Kansas City. Today I am a Georgian," Mr.
Robertson stated. "I am here to open the headquarters of the United States Warehouse Company, and to organize the channels through which it will do business. I propose, in my capacity as director of the bureau of marketing extension, to work for the best interest not only of the growers and producers but of distributors.""A large part of my time will be devoted to acquainting shippers in every section of the country with the possibilities of Atlanta as a market.
In this the warehouse company will seek the co-operation of the state bureau of markets and others who are interested."Special emphasis will be placed by the company upon the possibilities of Atlanta as a market for peanuts and peaches. Mr. Robertson expressed optimism over the future of the city as the southeastern marketing center of the peanut industry.Heretofore southeastern shippers have been forced to send peanuts to Chicago, frequently offering them on a market glutted with oriental and southwestern products."Within the last week the Central of Georgia and the Southern railways have granted the tariffs from the southeast with storage and transit privileges in Atlanta.""We believe that this will do much to encourage the industry in the southeast. When adequate facilities are available in Atlanta it will enable the producers, through the aid of the warehousemen, to feed their products into the market at times when they will be able to command a better price. The United States Warehouse Company expects to devote a large portion of its energies to this commodity."MARINES RESTORE ORDER IN HAITIMartial Law Quickly

Starting in Customs House; Two Americans
Hurt.PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti, Dec. 5.
(AP)—Colonel Richard Cuts, brigade commander of United States marine corps forces here, issued a proclamation last night declaring martial law in Port-au-Prince and Cape Haitien.
A strike in the customs office, which threatened serious complications, was the cause.The strike broke out at 9:30 a. m. yesterday after the dismissal of a Haitian customs employee for fraudulent entries.Collector D. P. Johnson and another American were struck by clubs while trying to calm the disorder in the customs house. Some of the clerks smashed their typewriters and forced an entrance into government buildings to oblige other employees to join them.This demonstration was broken up, but the clerks returned again and had to be checked once more.Twenty-eight leaders and members of the crowd, who defied the guards, were arrested.Captain George O'Shea, son of the fire department chief of Brooklyn, was attacked while making an arrest single-handed; his clothing was badly torn before a patrol of guards came to rescue him. They were stoned by the crowd.With the exception of two customs officers, who were slightly injured, no Americans were hurt. The military authorities acted swiftly.The news of the proclamation and the sight of patrols of marines in the streets had an immediate effect on the population here. Stores were opened and business, which had stopped for a short time, was renewed. The American colony was calm and felt no apprehension for its safety.All points outside the capital were quiet this morning except Days, where the situation was reported to be tense. Reinforcements were sent there, and later reports said the situation had quieted. The capital itself was quiet, but an undercurrent of unrest was noticeable.REPRESENTATIVE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The house set a new record today by passing within three hours and twenty minutes the $160,000,000 tax reduction resolution, which will knock one per cent off income taxes of individuals and corporations to be paid next year.Only 17 members voted against the reduction proposed by Secretary Mellon, who was referred to during the debate as "Santa Claus." It was supported by 282 votes. There was no record vote, only a standing ballot.Under the resolution, present normal tax rates will be reduced from 1 1/2, 3 and 5 to 1, 2 and 4 per cent, and the corporation rate in corporation taxes and $70,000,000 individual taxes, according to treasury estimates.The resolution was sent to the senate, where it will be taken up in a few days. The finance committee is expected to meet tomorrow to consider the resolution, the usual formality.
There appears no doubt the measure will be passed by the senate and signed by the president before Christmas.The 17 members who voted against the proposal followed the lead of a regular administration republican, Representative Ramseyer, Iowa, a member of the ways and means committee, who contended the money should be applied instead to the public debt. In proposing the reduction, the treasury, he said, had reversed its policy of seeking to pay off the debt as fast as possible.He also contended the reduction would not aid the average taxpayer as the tax already has been passed to the consumer by the corporations whose taxes will be cut, an argument advanced also by Representative Rankin, democrat, Mississippi, who went even further than Ramseyer.Rankin said in the administration proposal an attempt to create a weapon against the debenture farm relief plan which the senate added to the tariff bill, claiming the administration would use the argument that because of the tax reduction there would be no funds to meet a debenture plan, which is estimated to cost

GEORGIA METHODISTS TO ATTEND CONCLAVE

Bishop Beauchamp To Head Raleigh Meeting Delegation.

Headed by Bishop W. B. Beauchamp, missionary leaders from the two Georgia conferences of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, will attend the fourth annual meeting of the missionary council at Raleigh, N. C., December 10-12, when more than 500 superintendents of various phases of Methodist missionary work are expected to be present.

Official delegates from the two conferences which comprise Methodism in Georgia will include Dr. W. A. Shelton, Emory University, chairman of the North Georgia Board of Missions; the Rev. Wallace Rogers, Atlanta, North Georgia conference missionary secretary; Dr. Ed F. Cook, Macon, chairman of the South Georgia conference board of missions; Dr. W. F. Quillian, of Macon, and the Rev. H. Budd, of Macon, South Georgia conference missionary secretary.

Others from the two conferences who have been invited to attend the missionary meeting at Raleigh are as follows: North Georgia, the Rev. B. H. Smith, Atlanta, conference Sunday school superintendent; the Rev. J. C. Adams, Atlanta, conference extension secretary; Mrs. J. N. McEachern, Atlanta, president conference missionary society, and Harvey W. Conner, Emory University, conference lay leader. South Georgia conference—The Rev. G. E. Clary, Macon, conference Sunday school superintendent; the Rev. D. G. Mann, Macon, conference extension secretary; Mrs. H. W. Pittman, Macon, president conference missionary society, and J. M. Rogers, Savannah, conference lay leader.

Dr. A. M. Pierce, editor of the Wesleyan Christian Advocate, published at Atlanta, official organ of the two Georgia conferences, is also invited to be present.

Dr. W. G. Cram, of Nashville, Tenn., general secretary of the denomination's board of missions, is president of the body, which will hold its sessions in the Edenton Methodist church of which Dr. F. S. Love is pastor.

Joseph Daniels, former secretary of the navy, and Governor O. M. Gardner, of North Carolina, are expected to deliver addresses of welcome at the opening meeting Tuesday night, December 10.

Many missionaries from home and foreign fields are expected to be present on conditions in the church's 11 foreign and 12 home mission lines of endeavor.

AIR MAIL INCREASE

U. S.-Cuba Lines Report 40 Per Cent Increase.

HAVANA, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The Pan-American Airways Company today reported that 29,227 pounds of mail were transported by its planes last month between the United States and Cuba. This represented an increase of 46 per cent over the same period last year.

BANDITS CUT MAN

Negroes Attack Steve Grady En Route Home.

Steve Grady, 30, of 974 Lucille avenue, was attacked by two negro footpads Thursday night, while on his way home, and was severely slashed on the neck by a knife in one of the thug's hands. However, his condition is not serious.

Mr. Grady was en route to his home and at the intersection of Greensboro avenue and Welborn street the two negroes held him up. One had a knife and the other a pistol. The negroes obtained nothing. The affair was reported by Patrolman Joe Wiley and police are seeking the two negroes.

SECRETARY SLAIN TRYING HOLD UP IN BIRMINGHAM

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 5.—(AP)—A. M. Searcy, socially prominent real estate office secretary, was shot to death here tonight in what police termed an attempt to hold up a dice game in progress at a downtown hotel.

James Davis, who admitted being a professional gambler, and who said he fired the shot that killed Searcy, was placed in jail on a general holding charge, pending completion of an inquiry by Coroner J. D. Russell.

Testimony given at a hearing before Russell immediately following the shooting indicated that Searcy, masked and armed with a revolver, entered the room where five or six persons were engaged in a dice game, and after lining them up against a wall, took several hundred dollars which was on a table.

Davis told the coroner that as soon as Searcy turned away from the door he grabbed a pistol from his overcoat pocket and gave chase.

Davis said that he overtook the man as he was lowering a screen window after crawling from the hotel hallway into the fire escape, and that he fired five shots as the bandit tried to escape up to the roof.

Police were summoned immediately and Davis surrendered.

Searcy died en route to a hospital. Davis told officers that Searcy had played in the dice game previous to today.

FAILURE TO TELL OF PROHIBITION BREACH CHARGED TO THREE

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 5.—(United News).—What are believed to be the first arrests made under the ruling that failure to report a dry law violation constitutes a felony were reported today by Prohibition Administrator Samuel O. Wynne.

Those arrested were Lewis Wentzler, former owner of the Lykens Valley Ice & Beverage Company; Samuel Marks, president of the concern; Leon Lebo, a stockholder; Leo Moerschbacher, and Samuel Britton. All except Moerschbacher are residents of Lykens, Pa.

All are under $3,000 bail each for a hearing December 21, charged with conspiracy to violate the prohibition act by shipping beer and with bribing federal officers. Wentzler, Marks and Lebo are charged with having knowledge of various mechanical devices to report them to authorities.

LINDBERGH'S HOP DEPICTED IN MUSIC FOR BERLIN OPERA

BERLIN, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The premiere of a cantata, "Lindbergh's Flight," was applauded heartily at tonight's symphony concert by the orchestra of the State Opera. The piece is by the ultra-modern composer, Kurt Weill.

The cantata is written for soloists, mixed chorus and orchestra. It attempts to give tonal expression to the condition of the weather, to the water, fog and humming motor of the Spirit of St. Louis from the time of Lindbergh's start from New York to his arrival at Le Bourget field, near Paris. The singers are used to furnish the necessary explanatory text. Otto Klemperer conducted the performance.

GALE SURVIVORS BROUGHT TO PORT BY RESCUE SHIPS

BILOXI, Miss., Dec. 5.—(AP)—The survivors of five fishing schooners caught in the northwest gale that lashed the Gulf coast for the past several days were brought in today by coast guard ships and fellow fishing craft.

There was no loss of life, but the little groups of fishermen who had undergone hours and days of suffering from exposure and lack of provisions visibly showed the strain they endured on the rolling sea.

FORDS PREPARE FOR BIG YEAR DURING 1930

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 5.—(AP)—The Dearborn Press, weekly paper published in the Detroit suburb in which Henry Ford lives, announced on "the highest authority" today that Henry and Edsel Ford are preparing for the "biggest business year in their history."

Those workmen in the Ford plants who have been temporarily displaced during the last 10 days or two weeks now are being recalled to work. The Press says, pointing out that this week there are slightly more than 90,000 men on the Ford payroll in this district.

"Recently extensive preparations for larger production created the problem of whether to close down entirely for a brief period or do the work piecemeal, employing men in the departments not at the time being changed," The Press says. "Henry and Edsel Ford decided against the close down and ordered the changes staggered so that as many men as possible could be kept at work."

The statement says the Ford company will give preference to men maintaining homes in preference to "floaters" when hiring new men.

ALABAMA TRIBUNAL RULES POSSESSION OF LIQUOR FELONY

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 5.—(United News).—Purchase of prohibited liquor and acquiring actual possession thereby is an offense under Alabama law and punishable under a state prohibition statute, the Alabama supreme court held today in a ruling in the case of Jim Jindright vs. the state of Alabama.

According to the decision, acceptance and possession of intoxicating liquors, whether by manufacture, gift or purchase and regardless of intended sale or personal use is a felony.

In another decision, the court held that a person riding in an automobile containing five or more gallons of liquor, but having no connection with the liquor, is not guilty of a felony and cannot be punished by the state.

The latter ruling was offered in a liquor case against Paul Jones.

MORROW RETURNS

Envoy to Mexico Leaves for Capital and Parley.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Dwight W. Morrow, United States ambassador, accompanied by Mrs. Morrow and their daughter, Miss Elizabeth, left here tonight for the United States. In about another month Mr. Morrow will sail for London as one of the American delegates to the five-power naval conference.

CHURCH GROUP DENIES DRY LOBBY ACTIVITY

Federal Council Heads Say No Money Spent for Votes.

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Executive leaders of the Federal Council of Churches declared in a statement today their council of Protestant denominations had never maintained a legislative lobby at Washington or elsewhere and disclosed a budget of $11,000 for the council's Washington bureau.

The executive committee was informed by Dr. Charles S. MacFarland, general secretary, that the council of churches was a victim of a "wide-spread propaganda for the purpose of injuring movements for international peace and general social progress."

The committee authorized the following statement:

"The federal council has carefully refrained from maintaining at Washington or elsewhere any lobbyist or legislative representative and from using any form of political or personal pressure or partisan alignment, and has relied wholly on the moral power of its statements to influence public opinion."

"The council, has upon occasions conveyed as information, expressions of what it believed to be public opinion, and at times petitions to the president of the United States, to the heads of department or to congress. We deem it our duty in shaping a sound public opinion to make known such information and judgments, both to the public and to congress."

Mellon Announces New Finance Methods For Short Periods

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Secretary Mellon announced tonight that on next Tuesday the treasury would offer about $100,000,000 of 90-day treasury bills, to be sold on a discount basis to the highest bidders.

This will be the first time that the government has used that form of financing under the authorization of congress last June. Details of the offering are to be made public Tuesday morning.

In a public statement, Mellon also divulged that the treasury was at once offering for subscription through the Federal Reserve banks, at par and accrued interest, an issue of three and one-eighth per cent treasury certificates of indebtedness bearing interest from December 15 and maturing next September 15. This will approximate $325,000,000.

BOMB EXPLOSION INJURES FIFTEEN IN CHICAGO PLANT

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Fifteen

persons were injured, five of them seriously, by a bomb explosion which rocked a four-story brick building on the southwest side tonight. The blast demolished a cleaning and dyeing plant, employees of which have been on strike for several weeks.

Large holes were torn in the side of the building by the bomb which police said was one of the most powerful set off in Chicago in recent years. Fire Chief Michael J. Corrigan estimated the damage at $50,000 and said the whole building may have to be razed.

ROOSEVELT STRESSES TIMBER LAND VALUE

Three Counties Form Organization To Prevent Forest Fires.

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Dec. 5.—(P)—Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, told 500 landowners of Meriwether, Talbot and Harris counties, assembled here today, to form an organization for protection against forest fires, that "forestry pays better dividends and gives better land values on the investment than any other farm crop."

The New York governor said that timber shipped from the Pacific coast by way of the Panama canal brought higher returns and met with less competition than lumber shipped from the south because the Pacific coast timber was first-grade. He also said that Europe is far ahead of the United States in protecting forests and timberland, "but we are waking up now."

The state of Georgia was represented at the organization meeting by members of the state forestry board and by Secretary of State George H. Casswell.

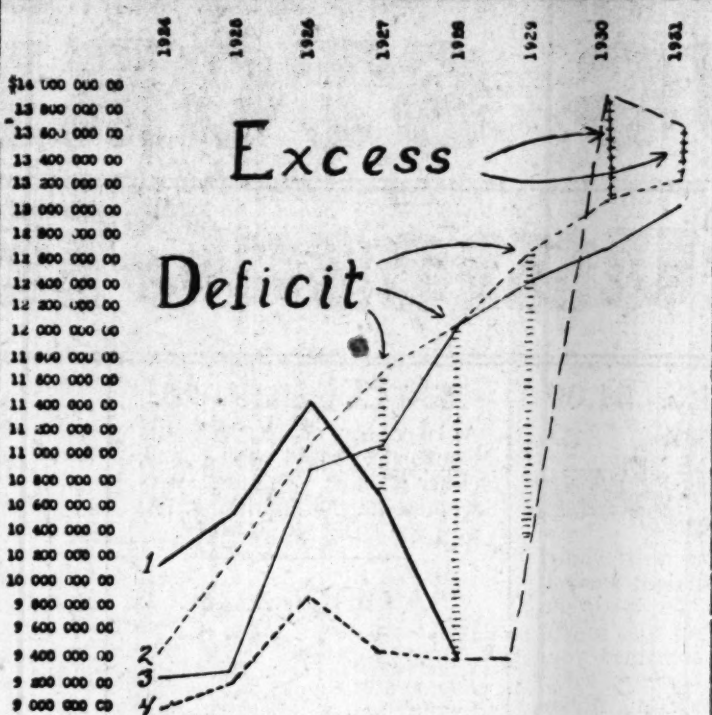

The timber protective organization will include 100,000 acres in the three counties.

When informed during the meeting of the death in New York of Maurice Bloch, leader of the lower house of New York, the governor said that the state of New York had lost "a high-minded, able and useful citizen."

"I am inexpressibly shocked and distressed to hear of the passing of my old friend and associate, Maurice Bloch," the governor said. "It is particularly hard that he should have been taken in the flower of manhood. We shall all of us, regardless of the party, greatly miss him in Albany."

The governor had expressed particular fondness for the minority leader who visited him at his cottage here about a year ago to formulate a legislative program before the meeting of the New York assembly.

Chart Gives Graphic Picture Of 7 Years of State Finances

Graph illustrating the state of Georgia's financial history from December 31, 1924, to December 31, 1931. It is a photographic reproduction of an official graph, retouched to show deficits and estimated returns from newly-adopted taxes. Line "1" indicates the income to the general fund, inclusive of the Western and Atlantic rental and fuel oil taxes. Line "2" indicates combined general and special appropriations. Line "3" indicates general appropriations. Line "4" indicates the income to the general fund, exclusive of the Western and Atlantic rental and the fuel oil taxes. The continuation of Lines "1" and "4" was inserted by The Constitution artist, and shows the probable general fund revenues with the addition of sales and income taxes.

BY HAROLD STEPHENS.

An accurate visual picture of the history of Georgia's present financial difficulties and of the relief expected from the tax measures adopted by the last legislature is presented for the first time in the graph accompanying this article.

It is a photographic reproduction of a copy of a graph prepared for Governor L. G. Hardman by State Auditor Tom Wisdom, upon which a Constitution artist has superimposed lines indicating the deficits of the past two years, the probable deficit of this year, and the probable return of the taxes enacted by the legislature of 1929.

Lines 2 and 3 indicate, respectively, the increases in combined general and special appropriations, and general appropriations for the period beginning at the close of 1924 and ending December 31, 1931. They were inserted in the original graph by Mr. Wisdom and are an official summary of the increases in these two classes of appropriations.

General Fund Income.

Lines 1 and 4 indicate, respectively, the income to the general fund with and without the Western & Atlantic rentals and fuel oil revenues.

It will be seen that at the close of 1928 the two lines converge and become one. Until that point the lines were placed on the graph by Mr. Wisdom and are an accurate account of the state's revenues to the general fund. Beyond that point—from January 1, 1929—the single continuing line was placed on the graph by The Constitution artist, and represents the estimated revenues of this year and the two ensuing years.

An analysis of the graph shows that at the end of 1924 the total revenues to the general fund were safely in excess of the combined general and special appropriations. The margin of excess, as indicated by the distance between lines "1" and "2" at the points directly beneath the date "1924" was about $500,000.

Appropriation Increases.

The next year general and special appropriations increased at a rate slightly greater than revenues. The excess of the year 1925 diminished, by comparison with the previous year, to about $300,000.

Through 1926, as shown by Mr. Wisdom's graph, the increases in appropriations payable from the general fund, and in the general fund were approximately the same, and the state finished the year with about the same excess.

In 1927, while the total of general and special appropriations increased, the revenues into the general fund showed a decided decrease. This was due to the fact that fuel oil tax revenues which had been received into the general fund were allocated to the state highway board.

Appropriations in 1927 increased from $11,000,000 to $11,500,000, in round numbers, while revenues fell from $11,400,000 to $10,600,000. The state, instead of finishing the year with an excess, as in previous years, concluded it with a deficit of substantially $1,000,000, as shown by the row of minus signs drawn between lines "1" and "2" under the date "1927."

Fund Suffers Disaster.

In 1928 the general fund suffered what, from the standpoint of meeting its obligations, was an even greater disaster.

It lost the revenues of the Western and Atlantic railway rental, which amounted to $540,000 annually. The state had become arrears in the payment of its pensions, and borrowed $4,320,000, pledging the Western and Atlantic rentals for an eight-year period, beginning January 1, 1928, in payment of the loan.

The loss of these two sources of revenue, together with certain decreases in the other sources of general funds, as shown by line "4" for 1927 and 1928, reduced the revenues of the general fund, in the course of the two years, by approximately $2,000,000.

Appropriations meanwhile had continued their increase, as shown by the upward inclination of line "2" and at the close of 1928 Georgia found itself faced with another deficit, this time of $2,600,000, in addition to the million dollar deficit of the previous year.

That was the situation when the legislature of 1929 met.

Two Tax Measures.

Principal among the measures adopted were the Bockin income tax law and the gross sales tax. There were others, taxes on chain stores, etc., but it was to these two that the legislature and others looked to furnish the bulk of the necessary revenues.

The line on the graph which is a continuation of lines "1" and "4" indicates the estimated returns from these two tax measures. For the first three-quarters of the present year it runs horizontally—the new taxes did not become effective until the last quarter of the year. It then takes a sharp upward slant, showing, in the illustration, at $14,000,000 at the end of 1930.

The angle of upward inclination and the $14,000,000 point is founded on the consensus of opinion of officials at the capital. R. C. Norman, state tax commissioner, confidently expects a much larger return than the graph indicates. He believes that the two taxes in 1930 will add from $5,000,000 to $8,000,000 to the general revenues. Other thinks this estimate optimistic and that the total revenues will not exceed $14,000,000. Still

MACON-TYBEE WORK AT ONCE REQUESTED

Plea of Midstate Delegation Is Heard by Highway Board.

Paving of the Tybee-Macon highway was urged by a delegation of citizens of the southeastern portion of the state, headed by Harvey Granger, which appeared before the state highway board Thursday.

At the same time Mr. Granger submitted a proposal which would embrace 417.8 miles of road and involve $8,787,000 suggesting that it be made a part of the state's program for 1930.

The projects included 116.8 miles between Tybee and Macon, on route 80; 100 miles between Perry and Brunswick; 65 miles between Columbus and Macon; 52 miles between Midville and Louisville; 70 miles on Route 3 south of Griffin, and 14 miles between Dalton and the Tennessee line.

It was said that the proposal would provide for the large centers of population but would not comply with a ruling of the courts that road funds must be apportioned to the counties on a basis of equality as to congressional districts. The case in which this opinion was given is now in the supreme court, it was brought out.

Mr. Granger said Fulton, Chatham, Richmond, Bibb and Muscogee counties have more than a third of the automobiles in the state and pay 60 per cent of the gasoline tax and motor vehicle tag fees. Proportionately, others are dubious that even that figure will be reached.

Another $1,000,000 in 1929. Regardless of that, it is apparent that Georgia in 1929 will have another deficit of a million or more dollars. It will bring the total deficit for the past three years to $4,500,000 or more.

The promise of relief is held out by the indicated excess in 1930, which will enable the state to begin the payment of its past deficits.

The graph also illustrates the necessity for an extra session of the legislature in the event that the sales and income tax measures are thrown out by the courts. Without these the 1929 deficit would increase from a million to about $2,500,000, and the total deficit to $7,000,000 or more. And with approximately $13,000,000 of appropriations to meet in 1930, the general fund would have revenues of only about $8,500,000.

Under the circumstances, if the tax measures are held unconstitutional, the calling of the legislature into extra session to devise means of averting the disaster is deemed a foregone conclusion at the capital.

J. T. Rose Begins His Ninth Year As U. S. Collector

Josiah T. Rose, collector of internal revenue, was one of the most congratulated men in the postoffice building Thursday.

Thursday, December 5, 1929, marked the eighth anniversary of this popular official's tenure of office as he was sworn in to his present position by Judge Price Gilbert on December 5, 1921, succeeding A. O. Blalock, of Fayetteville.

Eight years of highly successful administration of the affairs of his department might be considered sufficient reason for felicitations but there was additional cause at this point since it marked the second general checkover of accounts by government auditors and the second time they had reported "All's well."

This is a formal procedure which is carried out every four years after which the official concerned, in this case Mr. Rose, posts a new bond and settles down in his office chair once more. For internal revenue collectors are not reappointed, but merely allowed to hold their positions, "or else."

In this case, it seems definitely assured that there will be no "else" and that the well-known office on the second floor of the postoffice building will continue to be directed by Josiah T. Rose.

they do not receive their share of the money in road allotment, he declared. He pointed out that Savannah, the state's largest port, has no paved road connection with the other sections of the coast, and was cut off from inland traffic for a period of 20 days by the recent floods. He urged immediate completion of the paving between Savannah and Swainsboro, declaring the state can save $1,000,000 by continuing on a contract now in progress near the Chatham county line.

Colonel Sam Tate, chairman of the state highway board, told the delegation that the board recognized the state's obligation to the larger counties and would use its best efforts to meet their demands as soon as possible.

Several other delegations appeared before the board. Among them was one representing north Georgia counties, which urged that the board provide a new scenic highway along the western brow of Lookout mountain through Daile, Chattanooga and Walker counties. The proposed road would extend for 51 miles across the northwest corner of Georgia. The delegation was invited to submit its proposal after January 1, as no new projects will be considered until then.

Atlanta D.A.V. Chapter Joins Fight on Street Beggars

Office To Give Information on Solicitors Will Be Opened on Auburn Avenue.

Going on record as favoring any campaign to rid Atlanta streets of beggars and pledging its support to the Community Chest, the Betty Harrison Jones Chapter, No. 1, Disabled American Veterans of the World War Thursday made it known that a special effort on their part will be made to expose the practices of beggars posing as disabled veterans, and to drive them from the streets.

According to a letter to The Constitution from H. T. Barfield, senior vice commander of the chapter, he wished to enlighten the citizens of Atlanta in regard to the "so-called" disabled veterans who beg for alms in this city. He stated that it is true that in the past there has been no place where anyone could gain information concerning the validity of these veterans' claims. In order to do away with this and to carry out their aim in helping the Community Chest, an office, or bureau of information is to be established.

The office will be located at 10 1-2 Auburn avenue, N. E., room 54. Mr.

Barfield requested that all citizens solicited by, or for a disabled veteran, refer the solicitors to this office for investigation, where if found to be a veteran and worthy of aid, steps will be taken to relieve the situation. The telephone number of the office will be Walnut 3190, and officials of the organization asked that businessmen keep the address and number on file, and call when-ever solicited by disabled veterans.

Aid Is Promised.

In his letter Mr. Barfield says: "The great excuse of these professionals is that the Disabled American Veterans and the American Legion would not do anything for them. Close investigation will reveal in most cases that they are not even veterans, and if they are, that they have no reasonable claim against the government. All such cases will be under my personal supervision, and I pledge the people of Atlanta that any worthy case will receive assistance."

In connection with the much discussed subject of begging upon the streets of Atlanta, Walter C. Taylor, clerk of the city council, Thursday issued a statement denying that licenses are, or will be issued for begging upon the streets of Atlanta.

According to his statement, no licenses are issued to transient peddlers who sell small articles on the streets. Furthermore, no free permits are issued to anyone without the approval of the tax committee, the mayor and general council. Mr. Taylor's formal statement was issued Thursday, replying to frequently repeated efforts on the part of the Community Chest to secure councilmanic action to bar all begging on the streets. The council at its last meeting took no action upon the matter.

Mr. Taylor, in his statement, said in part:

"Atlanta is not going to be a refuge for beggars—this is given as a warning to fakery to stay away from Atlanta."

He further said, "there is no permit of any kind for begging on the streets. The state law exempts certain afflicted persons from paying license, but does not give them the right to beg."

He continued that another class that license inspectors are out to curb are those transients who come in at this time of the year with shoddy lines, silks, and other goods. "Atlanta merchants will be protected against this sort of unfair and often dishonest competition," said Mr. Taylor.

American Legion To Honor Cuban Visitors Today

Prominent members of the visiting Cuban delegation to Atlanta and Mayor I. N. Ragsdale and other Atlantans will participate in a varied program at the luncheon meeting of Argonne post, American Legion, it was announced Thursday by T. B. Hermes, commander.

The affair will begin at 12:30 o'clock today at the Henry Grady hotel.

Colonel J. C. Woodward, president of G. M. A., will introduce the Cuban visitors among whom will be included Senor Miguel Mariano Gomez, mayor of Havana, and Colonel Julio Morales Coello, naval aid to President Gerardo Machado, of Cuba.

Miss Louise Ruch and Miss Mary Agnes Crawford, dancers, will give several numbers. Taylor Flannigan will play at the piano and Perry Bechtel will play on his banjo.

Others included among the Cuban delegation who will be guests of the organization are Dr. Carlos Manuel De La Cruz, president of the Cuban national tourists' commission; Dr. Florencio Guerra, consul and official representative of the department of state; Dr. Oscar Rene Morales, encargado del consulado; Naval Lieutenant Arturo Plazaola, aide to secretary of war and navy; Captain Alberto Gimenez, aide to chief of staff Cuban army, and Dr. Rafael Angelo, president of the Press Association of Cuba.

Plan to Abandon Athens Railway Service Charged

Decision on a suit seeking to enjoin formation of the Athens Railway and Transportation Company was taken under advisement late Thursday afternoon by Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy, of Fulton superior court, following an allday hearing on the matter.

The city of Athens asks the court to prevent chartering of the new transportation company, contending that the new firm is being formed to buy the street railway in Athens from the Georgia Power Company in an effort of the power company to abandon the lines.

The defendants, the power company, C. D. Flanigan, et al., contend that it is not their purpose to abandon the street railway, and that they are acting in good faith.

Athens is represented by Attorney Lamar C. Rucker, while Colquitt & Conyers and Erwin, Erwin & Nix represent the defendants. Judge Pomeroy is presiding in the case because Judge Blanton Fortson, of the Athens circuit, is disqualified.

CHILD, 9, INJURED BY BOY, 11, ASKS $25,000 DAMAGES

Wayne Blount, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Blount, of Cherokee place, is pictured as a "vicious fighter" in a $25,000 damage suit filed Thursday in Fulton superior court against Mr. and Mrs. Blount by Horace Dooley, 9, son of Charles F. Dooley, also of Cherokee place.

According to the charges, the Dooley child's petition, he was struck on the head by Blount on September 23, and the blow necessitated removal of a piece of the skull. The victim is under doctor's orders not to play again because of the dangerous and unprotected condition of his brain, the petition alleges. The plaintiff alleges that the Blounts had been warned to correct the fighting habits of their son but had failed to do so. The petition was filed by Attorneys Houston White and E. McKinnney Pearce.

JEWISH LEADER TO ARRIVE TODAY FOR SHORT VISIT

Gedaliah Bublik, president of the Mischai Organization of America and former editor of the Jewish Daily News, of New York, will arrive in Atlanta today on his annual tour of local chapters of the organization. The Mischai represents the traditionalists of the Zionist movement. He will address a mass meeting Sunday night at the Achavath Achim synagogue.

NORTH FULTON COUNTY REAL ESTATE ACTIVE

Mid-Week Report Shows Total Sales Run More Than $200,000.

Indication that real estate activity for the week reported to the Atlanta Real Estate Board will reach a high figure was seen in the mid-week tally, aggregating more than $200,000. Unusual activity in north Fulton county acreage was featured in the mid-week report.

A group of sales in Grogan's district, on and near the river, about 17 miles from Atlanta were reported. These sales aggregated about $170,000 in value. Some of the buyers have plans for building on these acreage tracts next year.

The board's report also included sales of subdivision lots, and a central office building lease.

While a few of the acreage sales reported were made several weeks ago, most of them are recent ones, and none has been reported.

Mrs. Morris Brandon bought 477 1-2 acres in Grogan's district, on Spalding drive. This tract has a frontage of 2 1/2 miles on the river, and is elevated.

W. M. Brownlee bought 100 acres on the river, in Grogan's district, near the Chamblee-Roswell road. Mrs. Barnard Shackelford and Thomas P. Goodwin jointly bought 27 acres on Spalding drive.

Mrs. Gordon Kiser acquired 100 acres on the Lawrenceville road, near Spalding drive and not far from the river, and J. H. Hines bought 31

ATHENS-ATLANTA ROAD CONDITIONS GOOD FOR GAME

Football fans, expecting to make the trip to Athens Saturday by automobile to witness the Georgia-Georgia Tech classic, may expect to find the stretch of road between Atlanta and the Classic City in good condition, it was announced Thursday by the Atlanta Motor Club.

The route suggested is by way of Lawrenceville and Winder. One mile of rough road will be encountered on this route, and crushed stone is being placed there by the highway department.

Persons planning to motor to Athens are advised to exercise extreme caution, due to the fact that route 10, by way of Monroe, is not in good condition.

acres on a private road off Spalding drive.

J. D. Robinson, Jr., acquired 316 acres on the river, near the Roswell and Chamblee-Roswell roads, and Miss Berry bought 13 1-2 acres on Spalding drive. All these sales are in Grogan's district.

T. K. Glenn has bought a small tract adjoining his estate on the old Roswell road.

The management of Parkview Home Sites No. 2 reported that it has sold 26 lots over the week-end. This subdivision was recently opened in West End, on Holderness street, Avon avenue and other adjoining streets.

The owners of the Metropolitan building, at Forsyth and Walton and Broad streets, have leased to the Atlanta Dental Supply Company the entire fifth floor of the building. The term of the lease is for five years.

W. W. Edwards, of Smyrna, has leased for a term the four-story building at 145 Edgewood avenue, where he has established a chicken hatchery.

NEW ORLEANS PARTY WILL ARRIVE TODAY

Visitors, En Route to Athens Game, Will Be Feted by City.

Atlanta Thursday laid preparations to entertain another distinguished group of visitors, this one from Louisiana, who will arrive at the Terminal station at 7 o'clock this morning to the blare of a welcome blown by members of the Atlanta Police band.

Headed by Governor Huey P. Long, of Louisiana; Mayor T. Semmes Walmesley, of New Orleans, and Hugh M. Wilkinson, New Orleans lawyer and former attorney-general of the state, the group will be ushered into Atlanta by Councilman Harry York and Jack White, Atlantans who went to the Queen City the earlier part of the week to escort them back to the Gate City.

In addition to Mr. York and Mr. White, Mayor I. N. Ragsdale has named the following as a special committee to entertain the visitors: Councilman Wiley L. Moore, chairman; Alderman V. Guy Dobbs, Alderman Robert F. Pennington and B. Graham West, city comptroller.

The group is visiting Atlanta at the invitation of city council and a personal invitation from Governor L. G. Hardman, and will be feted guests of Atlanta today. They will be entertained at a dinner at the Ansler hotel beginning at 7 o'clock tonight and will leave via a special train early Saturday morning for the Tech-Georgia football clash.

Council seldom extends an invitation to a group from another city to visit the city, but one of the most cordial ones was dispatched to New Orleans and the state of Louisiana following the annual football classic between Tech and Tulane, when citizens of that city were royal hosts to a group of leading Atlantans.

The Louisiana and Cuban delegations will both witness the Tech-Georgia engagement at Sanford field, Athens, Saturday afternoon.

Among others in the delegation to arrive today will be Mrs. Walmesley, Miss Augusta Walmesley, Senator Joseph Patrick Skelly, Miss Helen Skelly, James Wilkinson, Mrs. Wilkinson, Colonel Robert Ewing, publisher New Orleans Daily States; Leonard K. Nicholson, publisher New Orleans Times-Picayune; James M. Thomson, publisher New Orleans Item-Tribune; Dr. Leon J. Menville, president Louisiana state board of medical examiners; A. M. Goldberg, Rudolph J. Weinmann, president Tulane Alumni Association; A. L. Shushan, president New Orleans levee board; Ben Beekman, John Maxwell, commander Legion City Post 125, American Legion; the Rev. T. D. Sullivan, president Loyola University; Dr. A. B. Dinwiddie, president Tulane University.

MRS. A. HUNTER HAD SUFFERED OVER 20 YEARS

"It's Wonderful To Have Such Splendid Health and Strength Again," She Says After Taking Sargon.

"It's just wonderful to have my health and strength again after suffering for twenty-one years, and I owe it all to Sargon!"

"Almost as far back as I can remember I've had attacks of rheumatism and neuritis. It started in my right knee and gradually extended up to my hips and back, and often the pains were so intense I could scarcely walk. Indigestion gave me lots of trouble, too; food soured and formed gas on my stomach and brought on awful bloating distress that would last for hours. There was almost a constant pain in my right side and I was told that I had gall bladder trouble. My liver was sluggish and my whole system was in a weak, disordered condition. The drastic medicines I took, like calomel, sickened me and didn't give me any real, lasting relief at that."

"I was perfectly amazed at the marvelous results I received from three bottles of Sargon! I have a wonderful appetite now and my stomach never bothers me like it used to. The rheumatic and neuritis pains have entirely disappeared and I haven't had an attack of gall bladder colic since I started the treatment."

"Sargon Soft Mass Pills stimulated my liver and regulated me perfectly. These pills don't nauseate or upset in the least, and yet are thoroughly dependable."

"My whole system is wonderfully strengthened and reconditioned and I'm stronger and better in every way than I've been in twenty years!"

The above is the interesting experience recently related by Mrs. Anna L. Hunter, 108 E. 64th St., Seattle, Wash.

GEORGIAN RECEIVE MAJOR ASSIGNMENTS

State's Congressmen Given Many Posts of Importance.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 5.—Reorganization of democratic committee assignments in the lower house late today resulted in a number of more important posts going to several members of the Georgia delegation.

Representative Robert Ramspeck, of the fifth congressional district, the only new member of the Georgia delegation, was assigned to three committees, civil service, claims, and labor. In a previous conference with Minority Leader Garner, of Texas, he had asked for these three places.

Two members of the state group were given new places on major committees of the house. Representative William C. Wright, of Newnan, has made a member of the important appropriations committee, which has been without Georgia representation since the death of the late Representative Gordon Lee. In order for him to take the assignment it was necessary for him to give up his place on military affairs, which he has occupied for a number of years.

At the same time Representative Charles G. Edwards, of Savannah, was made a member of the important rivers and harbors committee. As in the case of Mr. Wright, in accepting the more important post it was necessary for him to relinquish his old assignments on roads and public buildings and grounds. Rules of the lower chamber require that a representative cannot be a member of more than one major committee.

Representative W. W. Larsen, of Dublin, was confirmed as a member of the agricultural committee, another one of the major assignments. He was first appointed to this last spring when the agricultural committee was organized in preparation for farm relief legislation taken up during the special session.

Likewise Representative Charles R. Crisp, of Americus, was reappointed a member of the ways and means, handling all tariff and tax legislation. Representative Thomas M. Bell, of Rome, was reappointed member of postoffice and post roads, and Representative Carl Vinson, of Milledgeville, to naval affairs, of which he is the ranking minority member. Representative Charles H. Bracki, of Athens, was continued on the important banking and currency body. All four of these committees are among the major bodies of the house, forbidding membership on any other.

Among the additional new assignments going to Georgia members, Representative Malcom C. Tarver, of Dalton, received a place on both the District of Columbia committee and the

Quick Thinking of Girl, 9, Saves Baby Sister's Life

DORIS CAMP AND HER BABY SISTER, BETTY JO.

Doris Camp, 9-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. D. Camp, of 357 Venable street, stepped into the role of a heroine Wednesday night when by her rapid thinking and quick action she saved the life of her 21-2-year-old sister, Betty Jo.

The two girls were at the Camp home, playing with a 4-year-old companion, David Edge, also of Venable street, and little Doris, being the oldest, was for the time being "head of the house." In handling a burning candle, Betty Jo's clothing became ignited and in a moment flames enveloped the child from head to foot.

Instead of becoming hysterical in the emergency, Doris coolly dampened a towel and throwing her sister to the floor smothered the fire. Her prompt action undoubtedly saved the child's life, think physicians at Grady hospital, where Betty Jo was given treatment for burns about the body, left arm and face. She will recover, thanks to her sister's quick wit.

committee on elections number 2. He was also given his old place on education, and revision of the laws.

Representative Samuel Rutherford, of Forsyth, was continued as a member of immigration and naturalization body together with the committee on pensions, election of president, vice president and members of congress, and census, where he moved up from fourth to third in minority rank.

Representative E. E. Cox, of Camilla, was reappointed to the house floor control body, while Representative W. C. Lankford, of Douglas, received his old posts on territories and irrigation and reclamation.

Well past the half-way mark in the drive for 300 new members, the Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce went into the home stretch of the campaign following the regular weekly luncheon at the Chamber of Commerce building Thursday afternoon when Majors Joe W. Ray, Ed Robertson and Dr. Herbert B. Kennedy spurred their respective divisions on to renewed efforts for success.

The campaign comes to a close at 6 o'clock tonight when final reports will be tabulated and the team of individual winners of the various prizes will be selected.

Colvin B. Brown, executive director of the United States Chamber of Commerce, was principal speaker at Thursday's luncheon meeting. He was high in praise of the co-operation between the work of the junior and senior chamber of commerce in Atlanta and said it was an example that other cities might well follow.

Entertainment for the occasion was provided by Miss Ann Goodman, appearing this week at the Capitol theater; Miss Margaret Mooring, of the Margaret Mooring School of Dancing, and Perry Lechtel, well-known banjo artist.

Children from the Semon-White Dancing Studio will be featured in a doll fashion show to be held this afternoon beginning at 3:30 o'clock in the tea room on the fifth floor at Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Company.

Among interesting characterizations that will be shown will be Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus, and this is expected to prove particularly attractive, coming at the season when these distinguished personages are uppermost in every child's thoughts.

The program will include 12 numbers, and the children taking part will be dressed similarly to dolls that will be exhibited in an attractive display which will be arranged on the stage.

Souvenir packages of candy will be given to all the children attending as well as those who will serve as models. The dolls and featured costumes will be furnished by the toy department at Chamberlin's, and the other clothing used will be supplied by the children's department.

The show will be under the direction of Miss Helena Rogers, fashionist for the department store, and Leonard White, representing the dancing studios.

AD CLUB FORMS PERMANENT BODY

"Advertising Follies of 1929" Attracts Large Gathering of Profession.

Officers for a permanent organization of the Advertising Club of Atlanta were announced at a dinner held Thursday night at the Atlanta Athletic Club which was attended by more than one hundred merchants, newspaper men and others interested in the advertising profession.

The officers are E. V. Dunbar, president; Herbert Porter, vice president; E. V. Hungerford, treasurer, and Mrs. Virginia Gonedey, assistant secretary. The club has been meeting regularly for several months under a temporary organization, and the interest that has been manifested in it prompted the leaders to make the organization permanent. "The Advertising Follies of 1929" was presented, picturing satires directed at the retail merchants in their advertising. Those taking part in the program included Joel Chandler Harris, Jr., Frances Hargis, Doris Camp, Howard Haire, Wylie West, Adele Anderson, H. M. VanDeventer, John Outler, Julian de Ovis, and Claire Lang.

The program was staged under the direction of Miss Lenora Anderson, who served as program chairman for November. Programs for this month will be under the direction of Louis Moore, the meetings to be held each Thursday in Dining Room H at the Piedmont hotel. Mr. Moore has also been appointed membership chairman for the club.

Dr. John Murray, former member of the British parliament, and now principal of University college, Exeter, England, lectured Thursday night at Emory on "Personalities in British Politics."

A description of the leading characters of Great Britain's government, including Lloyd George and Ramsay MacDonald, was given. The address was the fourth of the series given this fall under the direction of the Student Lecture Association.

THE CHARMANT BOX

Blue, silver, black and white are subtly blended on the metal Charmant Box to make a design worthy of its unusual contents. For Charmant chocolates are petit pieces of artistry—small replicas of already famous Norris creations, plus many never before introduced to candy lovers—all arranged in a clever design that will instantly appeal to the most meticulous. In one, two and a half and five pound boxes, $2.00 the pound.

Norris . . . candy style that has no peer

Norris designers and Norris candy craftsmen have united to produce in their creations a perfection of design, a definite style, that has no peer. You have only to see them to recognize this subtle charm—the beauty of vivid colors adroitly designed into an ensemble in perfect harmony with the modern mode. That it is recognized the nation over is attested by the fine shops that sell Norris... the Pennsylvania Drug Company and Martin's in New York, Thomas Fluke in Philadelphia, Walgreen in Chicago, John Gilbert, Jr., in Boston. You may secure it, only a few hours from the time it is packed, at over 200 of Atlanta's fine stores.

Secretarial Council Opens 1929 Sessions Here Today

The secretarial council of the National Association of Credit Men will convene at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel for the opening session of a two-day meet in this city, and Dr. Stephen L. Miller, New York city, executive manager of the national association, will preside.

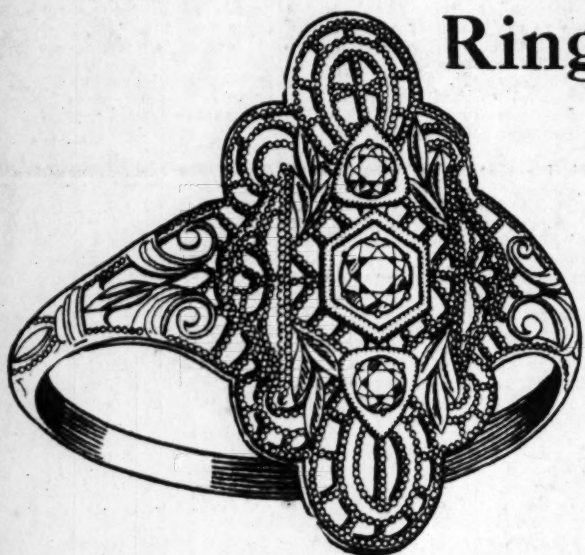

The council is composed of a selected group of secretaries from the different parts of the country who serve as an advisory board in mapping out plans and policies for the organization and its service departments. During the morning session today a discussion will be held upon the topic of national trade groups. This will be led by O. A. Montgomery, of Detroit. There are two other discussions slated; upon interchange bureau operation, led by D. W. Cawley, of Cleveland, and adjustment bureau operation, led by Orville Livingston, of St. Louis.

At luncheon, which is to be held at the Atlanta Athletic Club, the official opening of the Atlanta campaign to raise $25,000 for the $1,750,000 second credit protection fund of the national association, to be used in war against credit fraud, will be inaugurated. At this luncheon Dr. Miller, who is a nationally known authority

Goodyear Blimp Circles Atlanta On Miami Flight

Atlanta aviation enthusiasts got an extra thrill and Atlanta necks an extra stretch Thursday night when the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company's baby blimp, the Defender, circled the city several times as she passed over en route from Gadsden to Miami.

The drone of the blimp's motors and the flash of her form and all light first attracted attention shortly before 8 o'clock. The craft was flying about 1,000 feet above the ground and making a fair rate of speed.

The blimp's chief pilot, Ward T. Van Orman, circled his craft over the downtown section three times before heading for Macon, where it was reported a little later in the hour.

The blimp was expected to reach Miami between 3 and 4 o'clock this morning where a ground crew of 40 men was being held in readiness for its arrival.

The ship left Gadsden shortly before 6 o'clock. It had been tied up at the Goodyear plant there for repairs to motors. The ship flew from Akron to Gadsden Wednesday.

The craft will be kept on the Florida east coast all winter, Van Orman announced before leaving Gadsden.

ENTER THE WORLD COURT.

The promise of President Hoover to submit again to the senate the protocol of the World Court at The Hague at a convenient future date is timely made. He is strongly in favor of the adherence of this nation to that great tribunal before which justifiable issues between nations may be submitted for advisory opinions and arbitrations.

We would have been already represented in the court but for a reservation made by the senate when the matter was voted upon in that body on January 27, 1926.
Five specific reservations were delineated and all accepted by the signatories, in a council at Geneva,
"in principle," but without full acquiescence in the fifth reservation
"that the court shall not... without the consent of the United States, entertain any request for an advisory opinion touching any dispute or question in which the United States has or claims an interest."

That reservation has been the chief reason for the impasse that has since existed between this nation and the nearly 50 nations adhering to the court. Recently, however, an interpretation of the reservation has been agreed upon and it is no longer objected to by the members of the court, so that the way is now clear for the United States to be represented on the bench at The Hague upon their own terms. It is because of that clearance that President Hoover will resubmit the protocol with the expectation that the senate will adopt it, since it bears that body's own appendices.

The purpose of the reservations attached by the senate is to protect the United States from having all its international relations subject to dictation by the court. That is a proper object and there seems a very general judgment that the protocol interpreted by the Root-Hurst prescription adequately conserves that object.

There is a considerable and vocal faction of indigo-blue Americans who insist that the world court is little more than a Handy-Andy for the League of Nations and that adhesion to the court will be in fact subjection to that hated aggregation of nations supposed to be conniving to put the United States into a permanent international pillory.

Considering that the League of Nations was the conception of one of the most seer-like statesmenpresidents the nation has ever produced; that it has been organized and functioning with distinguished success in international diplomacy for more than ten years; and that it fully embodies ideals envisioned by the ablest presidents we have had from Jefferson down to Hoover, it is certainly time for anti-"entanglement" hysteria to have subsided and cool reason to have resumed its sway in responsible American councils.

President Hoover says that our adhesion to the court now will be "no slightest step toward entry into the League of Nations" and that is true. But there is a growing sense among civilized men that the wisdom of Wilson will eventually become the wisdom of the world and the United States will then enter the league and where Uncle Sam sits will be "the head of the table."

Trust that congress doesn't get its matter of business mixed up and make that tax reduction one-half of 1 per cent.

The 1930 Social Register is worrying a lot who didn't make it but the census man will show no partiality next April.

The derby hat finds its best use over the end of a trombone in a jazz band.

The federal government is to decide upon the validity of seizures of automobiles carrying liquor. It has been making money selling automobiles and selling them and recapturing them a few weeks later and selling them, a few lib.

STIMSON STANDS PAT.

The justification which Secretary Stimson puts forth for his note to China and Russia to honor their signatures to the Kellogg war-renunciation pact, is cogent and convincing. Plainly he had no reason to withhold that pacific counsel from the government of the United States simply because it has refrained from re-establishing diplomatic relations with the government now ruling in Russia.

The soviet rulers in Russia claim to be civilized and to be fit for amicable and economic relations with the nations of modern civilization. On that basis self-enunciated they are amenable to the principles of civilized conduct and have assumed the moral obligation to agree with the consensus of world sentiment, specifically on the subject of war.

While the United States is far from asserting any world monitor-ship and certainly will make no gesture of unauthorized "pressure" upon the will of any other people, it still has the right to announce its view of whatever action is imminent or operating anywhere at the instance of any government to involve the world in another uncon-finable conflagration like that of 1914-18.

The repulsive spirit of sovietism is made vividly more conspicuous by the anger it now shows against a perfectly justifiable suggestion that Russia should agree with its adversary upon terms of pacific arbitration, especially as China was equally counseled to that course. In the circumstances silence and aloofness by the United States would have been far less justifiable than the timely action their foreign minister has taken.

LIQUOR CASE CONGESTIONS.

The president, the press generally, and millions of people whose rights and interests are delayed by the increasing congestions in the federal courts, are all demanding that congress shall provide relief.

The needed relief seems possible in only two ways—either more district courts and judges, or the reduction of many present felonies to misdemeanors and a method of their disposition short of the district court procedures. The extraordinary piling up of cases in those courts is largely attributable to prosecutions for offenses against the prohibition laws. With more active enforcement of those laws the number of cases is sure to be more abundantly increased.

Senator Harris has several times proposed to congress a measure that would solve the problem very successfully. By making all the minor liquor offenses to be misdemeanors instead of "crimes," as crimes are treated in the federal constitution, they could, under the decision of the supreme court of the United States, be prosecuted without indicements or presentments by a grand jury, and could be disposed of by authorized court commissioners in each county of a judicial district without a jury trial. As police offenses they could be settled on pleas of guilty, or on proofs, with fines and probation.

That method would relieve the larger courts of many thousands of cases, give speedy trials, save many costs, and make observance of the law a nearer obligation to the people.

Laws like the Jones-Stalker act only serve to outrage the popular sense of justice, congest the courts, delay trials, multiply costs, and cause juries to swerve from true verdicts out of sympathy with the accused standing in the shadow of a penitentiary sentence. Justice should be reasonable, and not ruthless.

The members of the house laughed when the clerk read that it was "ready for business." The joke is on the country at large.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PASSEN

Psychological Moment.
The origin of the expression "psychological moment" having given rise to some controversy is settled by a writer in a London paper, where he says that it first occurs in the situation of Paris in 1871. A German newspaper fell in the hands of the beleaguered. In it was an article which stated that Bismarck was awaiting the "psychological moment" for beginning the bombardment of Paris. Sarey explains this expression by saying that the Germans considered a bombardment of the city as apart from the moral effect that it produced. He declared that it was necessary to choose just the very moment for a bombardment when the popular imagination was ripe for shattering. In a word, the "moment psychologique" would arrive when, after a long siege, the city was on the verge of surrender. Sarey tells us that one can have no idea of how the Parisians laughed about this "moment psychologique." The phrase became a la mode and entered into our familiar talk. We used to say regularly:
"I am hungry; it is the psychological moment to gather around the dinner table." And when at last the first shell fell in the streets of Paris, everyone shrieked with laughter: "Ha! ha! They think the psychological moment has arrived."

Mennonite Migration.

Fifty thousand Mennonites in Russia are on the march, outward bound.
They are nearly all of German origin and hope to reach Canada ultimately.
Though the advance guard of 500 is temporarily stranded in the port of Kiel, Mennonites in Canada are coming forward with guarantees of all that is necessary before tickets can be given and land granted. Canadians are aware of the human material they are getting in these people.
They work like Germans, wait like Russians, are accustomed to the greatest severities of climate and the hardest of labor, whose families rarely fall below the standard in the most exceptional circumstances, and whose truly Biblical fruitfulness is accompanied by an austere code of morals.
In their simplicity, the men are not forbidden to smoke nor the women to wear colors, but they live according to the Scriptures and refuse to be swayed by the whims of the world. Their communities are very law-abiding and peaceful, and according to the German law, they are entitled to the same rights as the citizen.

"Oom Paul's" Wife.

A really great tale of the African veldt and the Boer War is the product of one of the Duitman who with Smit and Dewet and Botha against England, Dewet Kruger. Delightful close-ups, of Paul Kruger and his wife are given. One occasion, the author tells us, she was shown a photograph of a statue which is to be set up to her husband representing him as an elder of the church, dressed in his frock coat and tall hat.
Discussion upon the merits of this statue is going on; everyone is talking, when suddenly, Mrs. Kruger gets up and says: "I don't like it. I don't like it. I don't like it. I don't like it."
The statue is a statue of a man in a

THREE SNATCH THIEF CASES ARE REPORTED

Two white women and a negro woman were victims of snatch thieves Thursday night, according to police reports.

Miss Helen Williams, of 480 Parkway drive, was struck on the head by a negro early Thursday night, who snatched her purse containing $8 and some papers, according to reports of Call Officers Arthur Daily and Carl Duncan.

The robbery occurred on Pine street between Park Way drive and North Boulevard, as Miss Williams and her sister, Grace, were en route to take a street car to attend a theater.

Returning to her home from work, Mrs. Hilla Crawford, of 405 Washington street, had her purse snatched by a negro, who approached her from the rear, near Washington street and Brown place, she reported to Call Officers Olin Williams and M. D. Cartwright. Mrs. Crawford said her purse contained $30 and some papers.

An 11-year-old negro schoolboy, Oliver Wright, of a Roach street address, admitted to police Thursday night that he snatched the purse of Essie Parks, negro woman, of 110 Davis street, as she alighted from a street car at Chappell street and Stonewall. Only a small amount of money was in the purse.

Wright was turned over to police by Andy Davis, negro, of 181 Chestnut street, who saw him as he snatched the purse.

tion for the many courtesies which I have received since my arrival and which, though offered to me, were meant for Cuba and President Machado.

"It is our fervent wish that all Americans visit Cuba and specially those from this hospitable state. You can then personally see how that country, which you helped to free in 1898, has become a prosperous republic that aspires to be among the first of the world through honesty, industry and culture.

"The president, General Machado, is giving special care to public instruction, public works and public health; magnificent highways and roads are being built, public buildings and schools, hospitals and homes are being constructed, learning in all its grades is being intensified, constant attention is given to sanitary matters reaching the highest standards in the country's health, and, in general, marked progress is being shown in all branches of the public administration which has placed our nation upon the highest level.

"Cuba will never forget the generous help of the United States in 1898, as evidenced in 1917 when we immediately followed you into the great war and we wish and hope that, both economically and ideally, our country will always be considered a true little sister of the United States.

"I repeat my heartfelt gratitude and express sincere wishes for the prosperity of the United States and President. His Excellency Heber B. Hoover, the state of Georgia and its governor, the city of Atlanta and its mayor, the Georgia Military Academy and Colonel Woodcock and all of who have co-operated in the success of this good-will visit which strengthens in a positive manner the cordial relations that exist between the United States and Cuba.

Just prior to the Baltimore banquet

Fencing Exhibition Planned for Tonight

Due to the many requests following an exhibition of fencing at the basketball game for the Cuban visitors Wednesday night, members of the fencing team of the Vedado Athletic Club, of the Cuban party, will present a second exhibition tonight at Grant field prior to the beginning of the football game between Cuban athletes and the G. M. A. eleven.

Thursday night, Sam T. Tolon, head of the Havana-Cuban good-will tour committee, received from Ricardo Herrera, secretary of the presidency and a member of the Cuban cabinet, the following cable:

"President Machado highly pleased with the news of the welcome and courtesy shown to the Cubans. I sincerely greet you.

Other speakers at the Baltimore banquet included Mayor I. N. Ragdale, Colonel F. J. Paxson, Colonel Sam W. Small, of The Constitution editorial staff; Judge W. Frank Jenkins, permanent representative of the governor of Georgia; Dr. Luis Machado, one of Cuba's leading lawyers, and Colonel Henderson will ambassadors to Georgia Thursday morning visited the chief points of interest between Stone Mountain and College Park, lunch at the Georgia Military Academy, went to tea at the executive mansion, dined at the Baltimore and danced at the Piedmont Driving Club.

Beginning the day right on the dot, from 8 o'clock until long past midnight, the distinguished visitors were whisked from one place to another by a well-organized reception and entertainment committee. It required none of the two score volunteer interpreters to hear and see that the party was a success.

After a visit to Stone Mountain, to Emory and Agnes Scott, then to the cyclorama at Grant park and the federal prison, the Cubans were hurried to College Park where they were guests of the Georgia Military Academy for luncheon, remaining to witness a review tendered in honor of their visit.

It was at the luncheon, over which Colonel J. C. Woodward presided, that Cuban dignitaries and high army officers exchanged marked feelings of international good will.

Praise From Gomez.

"Our friendship and relations are historical," said Mayor Miguel M. Gomez, who was introduced after Colonel Julius Morales Coello, personal representative of President Machado on the tour, briefly extended the greetings of the Cuban chief executive.

"The Cubans," he said, "recognize that our freedom was won by the giving of American blood. The shedding of this blood, which so strongly joined the two countries, is the best monument we can build to the love of the two nations."

General Harold B. Fiske, commanding the artillery regiment of the Fourth Corps Area, struck the same vein in an extemporaneous response to the mayor's talk.

"Any United States soldier," said General Fiske, "has a peculiar reason to join in the welcome to our distinguished Cuban guests. We remember more than the general public the heroism of the Cubans in trying to get their freedom and our soldiers had the honor of fighting with them for it."

"My assignment to duty in Cuba is one of the happiest recollections of my army life. We appreciated the climate, the beauties of nature and the splendid quality of its people, especially its hospitality to the stranger within the gates."

Other luncheon speakers included

Colonel Eugene Silva, retired army officer, of Havana, and President

Julius F. P. de la Havana Yacht Club, who presented the Georgia Military Academy a handsome silk Cuban flag.

Luncheon guests and joint guests of G. M. A. for the review following luncheon included General Fiske, General E. G. Peyton, commanding the 30th division, U. S. Army, Colonel B. M. Bailey, of the fourth corps area staff, and Colonel D. K. Major, chief of staff of the fourth corps.

Spirit of Rivalry.

There was a spirit of friendly rivalry shown at the review when the 42 picked cadets from the National Military Academy, the "West Point" of the nation, went to their places in the reviewing stand to witness the G. M. A. boys march on the field. The Cuban lads stepped with here as the "man without an enemy."

His chauffeur, Jack Pugh, 24, was held for grand jury investigation. He told officers he knew who shot his employer but would not tell "because it would create a scandal."

Parks, wounded in the side as he drove through town last Saturday, died at 2 p. m. He had been an invalid for many years.

Detectives were working on the few clues the case offered. Parks was shot at the intersection of the busiest streets in town while the streets were lined with shoppers. No one has been found who heard the shot. Pugh, arrested Saturday night, first said he did not know his employer was wounded until he removed his coat after the drive. He later changed the story and said a man jumped on the running board, poked a gun into Parks' side, fired and melted into the crowd.

No one has been found who saw the supposed assailant leap on the car, but many shoppers recall seeing the capitalist drive past the corner.

A little 6-year-old girl told authorities she saw Parks' car stop near the

Chauffeur Knows Assailant But Won't Tell Police.

UNION CITY, Tenn., Dec. 5.—(AP) The strange shooting of Lexie S. Parks, 63-year-old capitalist, became the Parks murder case today with death of the former banker, known here as the "man without an enemy."

His chauffeur, Jack Pugh, 24, was held for grand jury investigation. He told officers he knew who shot his employer but would not tell "because it would create a scandal."

FIRE DESTROYS WHOLESALE HOUSE IN NORTH GEORGIA

ELLIJAY, Ga., Dec. 5.—(Special.) Fire of unknown origin last night destroyed the building of the Team Wholesale Company here, one of the largest wholesale houses in north Georgia. The loss was not estimated.

The company, operated in recent years by C. B. Kelly and W. T. Pickett, was founded by M. I. Teen, who now resides in Marietta, Ga.

Authorities did not know he was wounded until more than an hour after the shot was fired. A cook reported the crime after seeing the wound as Pugh undressed Parks at home.

The wounded man could not talk then but authorities were confident he would explain the shooting once he regained his voice. The mystery became more involved when Parks told detectives Sunday his chauffeur did not shoot him, but bore out Pugh's story of the mysterious assailant.

The chauffeur talked freely today. He said at his hearing, "In a way I am shielding someone. I know who shot him but I will never tell. It would create a scandal."

Two days ago he whispered the name of a man he accused into the ear of an officer, but authorities said his charge was "foolish."

Parks could not have shot himself, officers said, for he could not use his hand him but I will never tell. It would create a scandal."

He retired from the banking business in 1912. His son is cashier of a bank here and he has a married daughter. He also is survived by his widow, who like himself is an invalid.

Grain Co-operative Plans Tentatively O.K.'D by Officers

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Officers of the Farmers' National Grain Corporation today tentatively approved the organization plans of the North-west Grain Co-operative, formed recently by farm co-operative marketing interests in the northern middle west states.

Formal action on the prospective new unit of the $20,000,000 national marketing corporation awaits receipt of its application for stock and certain required data.

Officers of the Farmers' National Grain Corporation pointed out that recognition of the new co-operative, composed of associations in Minnesota, South Dakota, Montana and part of Wisconsin would not bar other co-operatives in the same territory from participating in the national corporation.

FIVE ARE KILLED IN GAS EXPLOSION AT POSTOFFICE

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Dec. 5.—(AP)—An explosion of gas wrecked the postoffice at Munhall, a suburb, today, killing five persons and injuring 25 others, one so seriously he may die.

The gas was believed to have leaked from a corroded main in a three-foot cellar beneath the two-story building and was thought to have been ignited by an open gas stove on the first floor of the structure. William A. Kestler, superintendent of mail for the Homestead postoffice, estimated property damage as the result of the explosion at $100,000.

FLORIDA LEADERS TO MEET GOVERNOR ON FINANCE PLANS

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Governor Doyle E. Carlton announced today that he would call a meeting, probably early next month, of prominent residents of Florida for the purpose of working out a plan of finance and taxation for presentation to the next session of the legislature. The meeting will be called at that time, the chief executive explained, to allow the personnel of the two legislative bodies to go thoroughly into the needs of the state before recommendations to the next session are prepared.

Park Commission Loses Second Suit For Mountain Land

MARYVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 5.—(AP) The second court attempt of the Tennessee Great Smoky Mountain park commission to prove its right to condemn land for the proposed park ended in a non-suit today after the presiding judge had directed a verdict for the defendant, John W. Oliver, of Cades Cove, on one of three counts.

Colonel D. C. Chapman, commission chairman, said another suit would be filed, based solely on the question of the land's worth, if a price agreement was not reached. It was said at the office of R. R. Kramer, attorney for Oliver, that this had not been done.

Text of President Hoover's Address to Business Men

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The text of President Hoover's address before a special meeting today of several hundred businessmen called by the United States Chamber of Commerce follows:

"This body represents the industries of the United States. You have been invited to create a temporary organization for the purpose of systematically spreading into industry as a whole the measures which have been taken by some of our leading industries to counteract the effect of the recent panic in the stock market. There has necessarily been some unemployment, starting with diversion of capital from the channels of business into the speculation, and after the break by some reduction in the demand for luxuries and semi-necessities from those who met with losses. But the large effect was to create undue pessimism, fear, uncertainty and hesitation in business. These emotions, being emotions, if they had been allowed to run their course would, by feeding on themselves, create difficulties. The American mind is prone to revert to previous occasions when we were much less able to organize to meet such situations.

"They are potential difficulties which cannot be cured with words. If we could do so, the mere description of the fundamental stability of our vast organism of production and distribution, touched with the light of the future of the United States, would cure it instantly. The cure for such storms is action; the cure for unemployment is to find jobs.

"We have, fortunately, since our previous crashes, established the federal reserve system. The first step in recovering confidence was made by the powerful effectiveness of that system, and the strong position of the banks, the result of which has been steadily diminishing interest rates, with a smooth and rapid return into the channels of business of the money previously absorbed in the speculative market. This is a reversal of our historic experience and is a magnificent tribute to the system. Capital is becoming more abundant in all parts of the country; the bond market is growing stronger each day, and already public issues held back for months have begun to appear.

"The second action necessary to maintain progress was the standard set by leading employers that so far as they were concerned there would be no movement to reduce wages, and a corresponding assurance from the leaders of labor that not only would they use their utmost influence to allay labor conflict, but would also co-operate with the employers in the present situation. These assurances have been given and thereby we not only assure the consuming power of the country but we remove fear from millions of homes.

"The third line of action has been to undertake through voluntary organization of industry the continuity and expansion of the construction and maintenance work of the country, so as to take up any slack in employment which arises in other directions. The extension and organization of this work are the purpose of this meeting. The greatest tool which our economic system affords for the establishment of stability is the construction and maintenance work, the improvements and betterments, and general clean-up of plants in preparation for cheaper production and the increased demand of the future. It has long been agreed by both business men and economists that this great field of expenditure could, by its acceleration in time of need, be made into a great balance wheel of stability. It is agreed that its temporary speeding up to absorb otherwise idle labor brings great subsequent benefits and no liabilities. A very considerable part of our wage earners are employed directly and indirectly in construction and the preparation and transportation of its materials. In the inevitable periods when the demand for consumable goods increases and labor is fully employed, the construction and maintenance work can slacken and we actually gain again in stability. No one would advocate the production of consumable goods beyond the daily demand; that in itself only stirs up future difficulty.

"I am glad to report that such a program has met with universal approval of all those in responsible positions. Our railways and utilities and many of our larger manufacturers have shown a most distinguished spirit in undertaking to maintain and even to expand their construction and betterment programs. The state, county and municipal governments are responding in the most gratifying way to the requests to co-operate with the federal government in every prudent expansion of public works. Much construction work had been postponed during the past few months by reason of the shortage of mortgage money to the diversion of capital to speculative purposes, which should soon be released.

"It is to make this movement systematic in all branches of the industrial world that we are here—that is the task. I believe that with the great back logs which are already assumed by public service institutions and the governmental works you will be able to build up the construction and maintenance activities for 1930 to a higher level than that of 1920, and that is what we require.

"Another of the great balance wheels of stability is our foreign trade. But in stimulating our exports we should be mainly interested in development work abroad such as roads and utilities, which increase the standards of living of peoples and thus the increased demand for goods from every nation, for we gain in prosperity by a prosperous world, not by displacing others.

"All of these efforts have one end—to assume employment and to remove the fear of unemployment.

"The very fact that you gentlemen come together for these broad purposes represents an advance in the whole conception of the relationship of business to public welfare. You represent the business of the United States, undertaking through your own voluntary action to contribute something very definite to the advancement of stability and progress in our economic life. This is a far cry from the arbitrary and dog-eat-dog attitude of the business world of some 50 or 60 years ago. And this is not dictation or interference by the government with business. It is a request from the government that you co-operate in prudent measures to solve a national problem. A great responsibility and a great opportunity rest upon the business and economic organization of the country. The task is one fitted to its fine initiative and courage.

"Beyond this, a great responsibility for stability and prosperity rests with the whole people. I have no desire to preach. I may, however, mention one good old word—work."

May we serve you?

Hoover's Budget at a Glance Shows 72 Cents of U.S. Dollar For Wars and Preparedness

Condensed Figures Reveal Vast Proportion Used for Past Conflicts and Present Armaments

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—President Hoover today gave the public his federal "budget at a glance" which shows that 72 cents of every dollar of the federal government's budget is devoted to the maintenance of the armed forces and the preparation for future wars.

The statement of figures which accompanies his budget message to congress, approximately 72 cents of every dollar to be spent by the federal government during the next fiscal year must go to pay for past wars and preparedness for any that may occur in the future.

Eight cents of every dollar will be spent to keep the actual machinery of the government functioning; 13 cents will be devoted to the social aids and subsidies, and the remaining 9 cents to maintaining the government's fiscal affairs.

Much for War.

Of the $3,830,445,231 which congress has been asked to appropriate for the fiscal year ending next July 1, the sum of $2,732,213,283 is provided for payment of principal and interest on the public debt, incurred in prosecuting the war; outlays for pensions, hospitalization and other expenses incurred on behalf of veterans of former wars and for national defense, the army, navy, marine corps and national guard.

All of the government's extensive activities, whether it be the public health, Indian affairs, aid to labor and agriculture or the far-flung public buildings program will consume only 9 per cent of the federal outlay. The total recommended for all these activities is only somewhat under that for the present fiscal year, not counting any appropriations that may be made to carry on the work of the federal farm board. The proportion of expenditures, however, is approximately the same for the various groups.

In comparison with the total sum recommended, the comparatively insignificant outlay of $300,507,500 for the executive, legislative and judicial branches, fiscal administration and control of banking, foreign relations, administrations of territories and federal government, civil pensions, to assume the huge postoffice deficit and for kindred activities.

In contrast to the nearly two and three billion dollars for past and possible wars, only approximately $14,500,000 may be spent for education; $31,750,000 for agriculture (excluding the new farm relief fund); $16,500,000 for labor; $15,000,000 for aids to industry and trade and $57,500,000 for building up the merchant marine. The sum of $240,000 for public buildings throughout the country is the largest single item outside of those for outlays pertaining to national defense, the public debt and the veterans' expenses.

nessmen and economists that this great field of expenditure could, by its acceleration in time of need, be made into a great balance wheel of stability. It is agreed that its temporary speeding up to absorb otherwise idle labor brings great subsequent benefits and no liabilities. A very considerable part of our wage earners are employed directly and indirectly in construction and the preparation and transportation of its materials. In the inevitable periods when the demand for consumable goods increases and labor is fully employed, the construction and maintenance work can slacken and we actually gain again in stability. No one would advocate the production of consumable goods beyond the daily demand; that in itself only stirs up future difficulty.

"I am glad to report that such a program has met with universal approval of all those in responsible positions. Our railways and utilities and many of our larger manufacturers have shown a most distinguished spirit in undertaking to maintain and even to expand their construction and betterment programs. The state, county and municipal governments are responding in the most gratifying way to the requests to co-operate with the federal government in every prudent expansion of public works. Much construction work had been postponed during the past few months by reason of the shortage of mortgage money to the diversion of capital to speculative purposes, which should soon be released.

"It is to make this movement systematic in all branches of the industrial world that we are here—that is the task. I believe that with the great back logs which are already assumed by public service institutions and the governmental works you will be able to build up the construction and maintenance activities for 1930 to a higher level than that of 1920, and that is what we require.

"Another of the great balance wheels of stability is our foreign trade. But in stimulating our exports we should be mainly interested in development work abroad such as roads and utilities, which increase the standards of living of peoples and thus the increased demand for goods from every nation, for we gain in prosperity by a prosperous world, not by displacing others.

"All of these efforts have one end—to assume employment and to remove the fear of unemployment.

"The very fact that you gentlemen come together for these broad purposes represents an advance in the whole conception of the relationship of business to public welfare. You represent the business of the United States, undertaking through your own voluntary action to contribute something very definite to the advancement of stability and progress in our economic life. This is a far cry from the arbitrary and dog-eat-dog attitude of the business world of some 50 or 60 years ago. And this is not dictation or interference by the government with business. It is a request from the government that you co-operate in prudent measures to solve a national problem. A great responsibility and a great opportunity rest upon the business and economic organization of the country. The task is one fitted to its fine initiative and courage.

"Beyond this, a great responsibility for stability and prosperity rests with the whole people. I have no desire to preach. I may, however, mention one good old word—work."

May we serve you?

Thin Underweight Men and Women Can Quickly Gain Needed Flesh

One Very Thin Man Gained 28 Pounds in Eight Weeks

Tens of thousands of exceedingly thin, weak, nervous men and women have taken McCoy's Tablets and put on pounds of good firm flesh.

Not only will McCoy's increase weight, but taken regularly will cause frail rundown men and women to grow stronger and more energetic.

If the millions of skinny, scrawny men and women in America will start today and put their faith in McCoy's it is safe to say that at least 90 per cent of them will gain weight, health and attractiveness in a few weeks.

So why not start today? Why not fill out those deep hollows in neck, cheeks and chest? Why go on through life with sunken cheeks and narrow chest when you can take advantage of this straightforward offer.

McCoy takes all the risk—Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking 4 sixty cent boxes of McCoy's Tablets or 2 One Dollar boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—McCoy's Pharmacy or your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price.—(adv.)

MUSCLE SHOALS LEASE BOARD IS PROPOSED

Alabama Representative Would Set Up Commission To Handle Proposal.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—A bill to set up a board empowered to lease for 50 years with presidential approval the two nitrate plants at Muscle Shoals was introduced today by Representative Almon, democrat, Alabama.

The measure is similar to the Norris resolution but contains provisions of the Black bill.

The board would be formed into a corporation to operate the project and would be authorized to lease the nitrate plants and dams for $1 a year each, the lessees not to obtain a price greater for their products than 8 per cent of the cost of production of fertilizer. Power would be sold by the corporate board to the fertilizer manufacturers.

The measure has a recapture clause for national emergencies and would permit the board to cancel the lease in event of the failure by the lessees to fulfill with their contracts.

The government would complete the construction of dam No. 3 in the Tennessee river and the Cove Creek dam under the measure's provisions. It would provide that corporations with $10,000,000 to place the project in operation. The sum of $2,000,000 would be used to complete each dam, No. 3 and the Cove Creek dam.

The power would be distributed to the city and town and industrial enterprises but the measure provides that the corporation shall not operate the two nitrate plants for the "fixation of nitrogen or for the manufacture of fertilizer or its ingredients until an attempt has been made to lease such properties as hereinafter provided subject to the approval of the president."

COLD WIND STOPS ROCKEFELLER GOLF ON FLORIDA LINKS

ORMOND, Fla., Dec. 5.—(AP)—A brisk, chilly wind that swept across the exclusive Ormond course today kept John D. Rockefeller, Sr., from playing his first golf game of the winter season.

Should the weather moderate, however, he probably will bundle up in warm clothing, and a cap with ear flaps tied under his chin, and begin his daily rounds tomorrow.

The aged millionaire, who arrived here from his home in the north yesterday, spent today resting up from his long trip.

Mr. Rockefeller, despite his 90 years, is an ardent golfer and seldom misses a day at the course. He says he gets his greatest delight in the game by beating his old playing partner, Albert Ames, 94-year-old civil war general.

General Ames is expected to arrive here shortly and Mr. Rockefeller is looking forward to many pleasant hours with his friend on the links.

ALIMONY BANDIT GANGSTER TELLS OF SEVEN HOLD-UPS

DENVER, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Austin Richardson, 24, alleged member of a gang known to police as the "alimony bandits," has confessed to "six or seven holdups," authorities stated today.

Richardson, who came here recently from West Palm Beach, Fla., was the only member of the gang captured. Two companions escaped on foot when the car in which they were all riding was stopped by police.

The gang got its name through a statement by a member while robbing a victim that he was robbing in order to pay alimony.

Nervous Headaches Yield to Capudine

Overtaxed nerves cause nearly all headaches as well as other pains, such as pains in the back and sides, women's pains, and neuralgic and rheumatic pains. To relieve headaches and other nerve pains and to soothe the tense nerves nothing gives such quick results and such delightful comfort as Capudine. Being liquid, Capudine acts almost instantly—much quicker than tablets and powders. It contains no opiates and does not upset the stomach. For over 30 years Capudine has proven a joy and comfort to millions who have suffered from headaches, nervousness and other nerve pains. At drug stores; 30c and 60c sizes.—(adv.)

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth. Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

SUPERSEDES WRIT DENIED LAVARRE BY APPEALS COURT

MACON, Ga., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Efforts to arrest the recent order of Federal Judge Bascom S. Deaver in the Harold Hall-William LaVarre litigation, pending the outcome of an appeal, failed today when the fifth circuit United States court of appeals, in New Orleans, refused to grant a writ of supersedeas on application of LaVarre counsel. It was learned here, the application for the writ was filed direct to the higher court, counsel for LaVarre ignoring their right to make application to Judge Deaver. Judge Deaver several weeks ago granted the appeal from his decision, but attorneys at that time did not ask for a writ of supersedeas, arresting the court order.

Judge Deaver, in his order, directed that the stock in four southeastern newspapers, the Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle, the Columbia (S. C.) Record and the Spartanburg (S. C.) Herald and Journal, be turned over to J. T. Webb, Jr., court commissioner, pending final disposition. In the same order a commission of five members headed by Mr. Webb was appointed to make recommendations as to the disposition of the stock.

ELECTED TO COUNCIL, PARKS RUSK CLAIMS

Defeated Candidate Asserts
He Was Only One to File Properly.

Former Councilman Ellis B. Barrett, of the fifth ward, Thursday remained the highest vote-getter in the general election in which there was a contest after consolidation of results in Wednesday's general election.

and at the same time Parks Rusk, who was fifth in the race for councilman from the newly created thirteenth ward, announced he is the only duly elected member of council from that ward.

Mr. Barrett got 1,905 votes against 1,010 for W. C. Jenkins, second highest. In the same race in which two were to be elected, Oliver Dolvin got 707, E. Stevens 518, Rusk 398, J. J. Collier 383 and William E. Sanders 361.

Mr. Rusk issued a statement in which he claimed to be the only qualified candidate for a councilman position and cited as his contention that he was the only one to formally file a notice with Mayor I. N. Ragsdale of his intention to become a candidate 15 days before the election.

No comment at City Hall.

There was no comment on Mr. Rusk's move at the city hall except a contention that all candidates whose names appeared on the official ballot were duly qualified and therefore entitled to make the race.

Consolidations in other wards where there were contests follow:

For alderman thirteenth ward, Alvin Richards 1,335, Robert M. Cobb, Jr., 850, T. C. Bazemore 668.

For board of education, thirteenth ward, Ivan Cochran, 1,470; W. G. Moore, 491; Dr. P. E. Whitehead, 332.

For council, first ward, Philip Breitenbacher, 1,602; Paul Gentry, 1,094.

Vote was light, there being only 2,893 votes cast in the entire election where a contest was being waged.

Rusk's Statement.

Text of Mr. Rusk's statement concerning his status follows:

"Under the Neill election law I am councilman-elect from the new thirteenth ward. The Neill act requires that a candidate for municipal office shall qualify by filing notice with the mayor not less than 15 days prior to the election. When the time limit expired the mayor's secretary advised me that I was the only candidate who had qualified in such manner. The city attorney advised me several days ago that if I was the only man who had filed such notice I was the only man qualified. I acquainted my friends generally with this situation, and quite naturally, knowing I was to be the only man elected, many of them quit working in the interest of my race, feeling there was no contest."

"The fact that Mr. Barrett and Mr. Jenkins failed to qualify for the Wednesday election does not mean that their candidacy is ended. When the new ward comes into being on January 1 there will still be a vacant council seat, which would be filled by general council until the following election, and Messrs. Barrett and Jenkins and any other citizens of the ward desirous of the place may continue their candidacies before their friends in city council."

MRS. OSTERHOUT IS ELECTED LIFE MEMBER OF N.E.A.

Mrs. R. D. Osterhout, of 53 Bates street, S. E., has been made an active member for life in the N. E. A. of the United States, it was announced Thursday by Belmont Farley, assistant director for education interpretation at association headquarters in Washington.

Mrs. Osterhout, principal E. Rivers school, has been connected with Atlanta schools in a prominent way for a number of years and her election for a life membership is of interest to many. The National Education Association is the largest professional organization in the world and nearly one-fourth of all the teachers in the United States are enrolled. Only a small percent of the total membership of 200,000 are life members. The purpose of the organization is to promote the welfare of childhood and the cause of education in America. Life membership, such as Mrs. Osterhout has, means an enrollment for life in these important services.

Colman, Ann Harding Star In Film-Drama, Condemned

Ronald Colman and Ann Harding get together in a scene from "Condemned" which is coming to Keith's Georgia the week of December 16.

Once again an idol of the Klieg lights has surprised himself. This time the lucky gentleman is Ronald Colman, whose latest starring vehicle, "Condemned," shown in preview at Keith's Georgia, is even better than "Bulldog Drummond."

The suave and dashing Mr. Colman, as a thief condemned to the French guillotine, has ample room for the display of his own particular talents. His renowned swagger, smirky, rhythmic gait, smile, and earnest love-making are here in delightful abundance.

Ann Harding, the blonde miss who scored such a hit in "Her Private Affair," takes the role of the warder, and gives a charming and convincing performance as she loses her heart to the handsome convict.

It develops that as a prisoner in a French village she had fallen in love with a statue of John the Baptist, and had married Soldier Vidal because he resembled the image. When the story opens, he has become quite a boor, and the statue is all set for his wife to fall in love with the handsome, diminutive monkey which the convict presents to his lady.

Atlanta Barbers Make Big Hit With London Journalist

BY ALFRED P. PERRY.

I like these Atlanta barbers. They do not feel it their duty to keep up a ceaseless chatter to drown the click of the shears. They will reply with southern courtesy to the queries you may choose to make, and even venture a suggestion of their own. But their conversation stops as soon as you show that you desire it to go further.

Contrariwise, the London barber is almost always the same. "Very wet (or fine) morning, sir." Probably it has been raining (or shining) steadily for the past three days and looks like going for the rest of the week. But if you are sure to the game you assent courteously to this daring observation and get a nip of the scissors for your pains.

Then he tries horseshoeing, of which you know nothing and care less. "I see Twinkleton is odds on for the 3:30, sir." You say "What?" and get your car gashed.

This seems to discourage him and for a few minutes he is silent. Then the sight of blood revives his memory and off he starts again. "Terrible affair, that in Chicago, sir." "Terrible!" you reply, not having the least idea of what he is talking but hoping for the best. "Yes, sir, I had an aunt by marriage who lived in Chicago for many years." This news thrills you. "Yes, sir, she came over here for a time but got kind of homesome with-out them bombs. Wonderful how you gets used to things, isn't it, sir? I remember I had a pet canary once . . . what did you say, sir? Oh, did I nip you? Very sorry, sir! . . ."

One Way to 'Alt' 'Im.

There is only one way to quell a London barber on the war path. The secret may be useful to American visitors, so I offer it free to Atlantans. As soon as you settle down into the chair, open a newspaper and meet all his sallies with a grunt. The paper seems to discourage him; or perhaps it is that he feels no longer compelled by good manners to save you from the perils of introspection.

I suspect that the ancient Greek king who would allow none but his daughters to shave him was trying really to escape the conversation of the court barber rather than the assassin's dagger. True, his order that the young ladies should use a red-hot power instead of a razor to remove his beard seems odd. But to judge from some barbers I have known, he may not have noticed the difference.

This fear of being slaughtered in a shave recalls to mind the only barber who has strutted as a villain on the English stage. He was Sweeney Todd, the Demon Barber of Fleet street. This gentleman really lived more than a century ago in Fleet street, now famous as the heart of the British newspaper world and dear to American visitors as the home of Le Oldie Cheshire Cheese. For many years Todd chattered, snipped and prospered. But gradually ugly tales began to get around—how strangers had gone into his shop for a shave and had never been seen to come out again, and how the barber always kept his window blinds drawn close. At last the officers of the law raided the house, and Todd's dread secret was revealed. In his shop he had a special chair in which he always shaved rich-looking customers who were not known in the neighborhood.

Had Secret Trapdoor.

This chair was clamped to a secret trapdoor in the floor which opened when a hidden bolt was drawn and tipped the customer neatly on his head into the extra-deep pot of hot lather, where Mr. Todd could pick his pockets at leisure. The bodies were a difficulty at first, but Sweeney Todd was a smart chap. He cut them up and sold them cheap to an old hag who kept a pastry cook's next door, where they were converted in due course into the extra-tender pastries for which she became famed throughout the district.

Such a story was too good to be omitted for long by writers of blood-curdling "thrillers" for the stage. Sweeney Todd was summoned to the footlights from the grave and many a London audience has shuddered for- tunately at the fiendish chuckle of the Demon Barber and his sinister "I'll soon polish you off, sir!" to the rich customer in a hurry. I do not know whether Atlanta ever has had a demon barber. But the fact that most of the profession here seem to do their work in luxurious chambers amid a horde of manicurists or else in glass-fronted saloons looking straight onto the sidewalk makes me doubt it.

For it is so difficult to avoid ill-natured gossip if one sits a man's throat while a lot of newboys and peanut vendors are gazing through the window. But anyway, I should rather be polished off by an Atlanta barber than by my London friend; for at least I would not have to listen to his chat about the weather before he dispatched me to a warmer climate!

MRS. HART'S BODY TAKEN TO MEMPHIS FOR LAST SERVICES

Funeral services for Mrs. Arthur Wellington Hart, who died Wednesday at the residence of Mrs. J. H. Mount, 301 Tenth street, will be held Saturday morning in Memphis, Tenn., her former home, with the rector of Calvary Episcopal church officiating. Burial will be in Elmwood cemetery. For many years Mrs. Hart was soprano soloist in the church.

The body will be accompanied to Memphis by her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Haynes McFadden. Mr. McFadden is an economic expert and editor of the Southern Banker.

Mrs. Hart is survived by another daughter, Mrs. R. H. Harwood, of Baltimore, Md.; two sons, H. C. Hart, of Atlanta, and E. C. Bradford, of St. Paul, Minn., and a number of grandchildren.

Piles Disappear

No Cutting or Salves Needed
External treatments seldom banish Piles.

It does not cut or remove the cause. The cause is inside—bad circulation. The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method. Ointments and cutting won't do it.

J. S. Leonhardt, M. D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1,000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take and can always be found at Jacobs' Drug Stores, who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.—(adv.)

FOR THE NEW FOX

Training of 55 ushers and doormen for the new Fox theater is now definitely under way. W. D. McHale, personnel supervisor of all Fox theaters, announced Thursday.

Mr. McHale arrived in Atlanta Tuesday from California, where he has personal supervision of the attendants in the Fox west coast division. Although the Fox in Atlanta is at present included in this group, indications were given Wednesday that Atlanta is to become the hub of a chain of Fox theaters in the southeast, when R. T. Newton, formerly resident manager of the Fox, was notified that his official title had been changed to "district manager."

The service contemplated has in view smooth-running, courteous efficiency from ushers in tuxedo-like uniforms rather than the goose-stepping precision of military-garbed automatons.

The dial system of signaling will be used in the new Fox, thus ending vacant seats to be filled with the minimum confusion. When the magnificent movie palace throws open its doors on Christmas day, theater-goers are insured the finest possible service and the maximum of courteous attendance. And this polished efficiency will be the reflection of three weeks of careful training at the hands of Mr. McHale.

Operetta, Vagabond King,
At Reopening Monday

Adapted from "If I Were King," perhaps one of the greatest stage plays ever produced, Rudolph Friml, composer of "Rose Marie" and other great musical comedy hits, has set upon the stage the enormously successful "Vagabond King," with which the Erlanger theater will reopen on Monday night next for a week's engagement, with business Wednesday and Saturday. Brimful of unforgettable melodies against a background of romance, court intrigue and comic episodes, the famous operetta has broken long-run records in all capitals of the world. The company to be seen here has been acclaimed by critics everywhere as practically flawless. The leading roles, that of Francois Villon, the poet-vagabond-king, is sung and acted by Paul Keast. The prima donna is Vida Hanna, who sings the role of Lady Katherine de Vaucelles, who dared so much for the one she loved and who staged a coup which made even the wily and evil-minded King Louis XI of France capitulate to her strategy and diplomacy. The singing ensemble of "The Vagabond King" contains 50 voices. The settings and costumes were designed by James Reynolds. Seats for the engagement are now on sale at the Erlanger box office and at Phillips & Crew Piano Company.

FORMER GOV., MRS. SLATON TO HAVE NOTABLE GUESTS

Charge D'Affairs At Copenhagen Visits

Mr. and Mrs. North Winship, of Copenhagen, Denmark, will arrive in the city next Tuesday for a short visit to former Governor Marshall Slaton and Mrs. Slaton at Wingfield, their home on Peachtree road. Mr. Winship is the popular charge d'affaires to Denmark and both he and his wife, who is formerly of Philadelphia, have a wide circle of friends in this state who are extending them a warm welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. Winship are now visiting their mother, Mrs. Nat Winship, in Macon, the former home of Mr. Winship. They will motor to Atlanta early Tuesday, and on that evening will be honored at a dinner party by Mr. and Mrs. Slaton, the guests invited to meet the notable visitors to include to close friends of the hosts.

Mr. Winship is a representative of aristocratic and distinguished Georgia families, his father, the late Nat Winship, being a leader in the development of this state. He is related to leading families in the south, his cousins being Emory and Blanton Winship, of Macon.

Mrs. Bartlett Is Honored.

Mrs. O. D. Bartlett, who leaves at an early date for a world-wide tour, was honor guest at the bridge-luncheon given yesterday by Mrs. Robert Mitchell, at her home on Peachtree Circle. The center of the lace-covered table was adorned with a silver basket holding yellow roses, and the place cards were adorned with ships, suggestive of the tour upon which the honor guest will soon sail.

Temple Sisterhood Sponsors Restaurant.

A young woman in the window at 19 North Pryor street will make crisp waffles today and serve with maple syrup and coffee for the sum of 25 cents. At the same restaurant one can obtain a splendidly prepared hot dinner for 50 and 75 cents. This popular new restaurant is being sponsored by the Temple Sisterhood and is conducted entirely by the members of that organization. The net proceeds will go to the building fund of

Mrs. Sisson Makes Request.

Mrs. Charles A. Sisson, chairman of Christmas gifts for the Sheltering Arms Association requests that checks be mailed to her address, 61 Elgin street, N. E.

The new temple to be erected on Peachtree road. The chairman for today is Mrs. Ben Z. Phillips, of 1246 Ponce de Leon avenue and the general chairman is Mrs. Sam Schoen and Mrs. Ernst Horwitz. Besides being open daily from 12 until 2 o'clock, the restaurant will serve Thursday and Sunday night suppers from 6 until 8 o'clock.

Many Cubans Review Exhibits At High Museum

Many Cubans in the city during the Cuban Good Will Tour are visiting the High Museum of Art, 1262 Peachtree street. Two exhibits are now on view. A display of 20 black prints by Charles R. Gardner, of Philadelphia, Pa., outstanding American artist, is proving of interest. These studies, which are in black and white, and from in color, are handled with power and wizardry which makes them of unusual appeal.

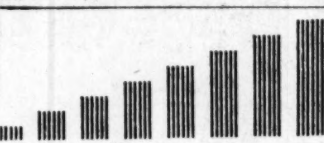

The exhibit of 29 water color paintings by Leon Foster Jones, of New York city, and Port Jefferson, L. I., outstanding American artist, is also on view at the museum. These pictures are of interest in view of the coloring and fine artistic feeling expressed in the three periods of the artist's work which are represented by flower studies; flower studies which incorporate a bit of architecture; and marine scenes. The High Museum of Art, of which L. P. Skidmore is director, is open from 9 to 12 o'clock, and from 1 to 4 o'clock throughout the week, and from 3 to 5 o'clock on Sundays. Benjamin Shute and Robert Rogers, of the Chicago Art Institute, are instructors of the art school. The museum is open to the public.

Atlanta Club To Give Dance.

Members of the Atlanta Club composed of women employees of the city hall, with Mrs. Annie Dickson as president, will sponsor a dance Friday evening, December 13, in the palm room of the Georgian Terrace hotel. Friends of the club are invited to attend and may secure tickets from any members of the club. The committee arranging for the dance includes Miss Lillian Everett, Mrs. Louise Vaughn, Miss Aileen Brown, Mrs. Eliza Rhamstine, and Ann Coggins, Miss Billie Dean and Miss Grace West, and a splendid orchestra will furnish the music.

Dinner Served At St. Philip's.

The Ladies' Aid of St. Philip's cathedral will serve an old-fashioned chicken dinner today at the lunch room, 11 Hunter street, opposite the capitol. The menu includes smothered chicken with dressing, dumplings, giblet gravy, steamed rice, cranberry sauce, black-eyed peas or mashed rutabagas, cold slaw, hot biscuit, hot corn-sticks with butter, big plate dinner 25 cents; fish plate, Spanish mackerel with tomato sauce, mashed potatoes, cold slaw, sliced beets, black-eyed peas or mashed rutabagas, big plate dinner 25 cents; ye old time gingerbread with raisins, chocolate sauce, fruited gelatine with whipped cream or boiled custard 10 cents; sweet milk, buttered, tea or coffee 5 cents. Mrs. Harry O. Greer, chairman, will be assisted by the following committee: Mesdames Forest Godfrey, Fred Williams, Sr., A. B. Nall, F. G. Simpson, Lulu Crittendon, A. Neal, Marcus Field, Fred Williams, Jr., W. A. Lyon, A. H. Steadman, Myrtle Williams, Miss Ringer Hornsby, Miss Cornelia Steadman and Miss Emily Rosignol.

Visiting Cubans Given Reception At Executive Mansion on The Prado

Governor Hardman and Mrs. Hardman entertained yesterday afternoon at tea at the executive mansion on The Prado, in Ansley Park, in honor of the Cuban good-will delegation visiting in Atlanta this week. Mrs. Hardman is honorary chairman of the reception committee, of which Mrs. John M. Slaton is chairman, and members of this committee, the Debutante Club of 1929-30, members of the consular service in Atlanta and the automobile escorts were extended invitation to meet the distinguished visitors. The chief executive of Georgia, Mrs. Hardman and Colonel J. C. Woodward, general chairman of the Cuban good-will tour, and chief of Georgia, received in the living room.

The tea table was covered with an imported lace cloth and adorned by a silver basket filled with yellow and pink roses and pompon chrysanthemums. Encircling this were baskets filled with the same flowers, and on the serving table in the dining room, which carried out the color of yellow and lavender, there was a horn of plenty overflowing with Georgia products. The buffet held a silver bowl filled with Perpet roses and ageratum and in the sun parlor, music room and library were mounds and baskets of pink and white roses and ropes and smilax.

Mrs. Hardman wore black velvet and her shoulder corsage was of orchids and lilies of the valley. Mrs. John Marshall Slaton was gowned in gray flat crepe with close-fitting hat of gray kimmer. Mrs. I. ## Miss Annie Wright Heads Women Voters' Memorial Work

Miss Annie Wright, of Augusta, one of the most active and influential members of the Georgia League of Women Voters, has accepted the chairmanship of the anniversary and memorial plan. This plan is to perpetuate the memory of women leaders of this country who worked for suffrage. A national roll of honor is to be established and a memorial fund is to be raised in their honor. The states will also have rolls of honor. These will include women respected and beloved in their own states but not sufficiently well known to be given national recognition. These state lists will be supplementary to the national roll of honor.

The Georgia League of Women Voters state office has been moved to 204 Winona drive, Decatur, and will be open each morning from 9 until 1 o'clock. The telephone is Dearborn 0839; the address P. O. Drawer R, Decatur, Ga. Thursday, December 5, the Georgia League held its board meeting at the home of Mrs. Wellington Stevenson, president, where it was entertained at luncheon.

Leffingwell School To Give Recitals.

The Leffingwell violin school announces a series of recitals, the first of which will take place Friday evening, December 13, at Ampico Hall, at 8:15 o'clock. This program will be presented by members of the violin class of W. W. Leffingwell, and members of the piano classes of Mrs. Alma Garrett-Ware, and of Mrs. Wm. S. Taylor. The public is invited.

Atlanta Woman's Club To Entertain.

Assisting the hostess and honor guests were Mesdames Mary McCullough, Aurelia Speer, Polly Barnwell, Elkin Goldard, Sybilla Pringle, St. Julian Pringle and Alice Davis and Laura Tufts.

Miss Betty Davison Is Honored At Dinner Party Last Evening

Mr. and Mrs. Beaumont Davison entertained last evening at their home on Argonne drive at a dinner party honoring their daughter, Miss Betty Davison, who is one of the most popular and attractive members of the 1929-1930 Debutante Club. This is one of a series of parties at which Mr. and Mrs. Davison will entertain this winter in compliment to their daughter.

The home was beautifully decorated with holly wreaths, red and green ribbons, and lighted red candles, which were placed at intervals around the drawing rooms. In large urns and baskets were poinsettias and white Madonna lilies, combined with sprays of fern, holly and mistletoe, carrying out the idea of the Christmas spirit entirely. Receiving the guests with Miss Davison and Mr. and Mrs. Davison were Miss Mary Wellborn, of Maxwellboro, Ala., the guest of Miss Davison, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Howard Candler, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Frank Boston, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Beaumont Davison, Jr.

Miss Davison wore a lovely gown of black satin, made with long lines and the new high waistline, and a train of the same material draped to the floor on the side. Her flowers were of orchids and sprays of valley lilies. Mrs. Davison was gowned in a handsome imported wine-colored chiffon, trimmed with floral designs headed on the material. Her corsage was of orchids and valley lilies. The guests included the members of the Debutante Club of this season and a number of young men and a few close friends of the honor guest.

Forrest P.T. A. To Sponsor Comedy.

Forrest Avenue P.T. A. will sponsor the comedy, "The Doe Family," presented by the Business Girls' Circle of Grace church, this evening at 8 o'clock in the auditorium of the school. ## Dr. Roy To Speak To W. S. Alumnae.

Of interest to the hundreds of Washington Seminary Alumnae members in Atlanta, is the announcement made by the president, Miss Ellen Newell, that during the coming year, interesting and worth-while programs have been arranged, and plans are being formulated to secure well-known and prominent lecturers to address these meetings. Heretofore the meetings have been more or less business gatherings, and have not had the incentive to attract the members, so the idea of the having the programs given to the members, will no doubt be the beginning of a much larger active alumnae association.

The meeting of the alumnae, which is to be held next Wednesday afternoon, December 11, at the seminary at 3 o'clock, will have as the principal speaker Dr. Dunbar Roy, well-known Atlanta doctor and lecturer, who will give a resume of his travels in Europe, where he traveled for five months this past summer and fall. Dr. Roy is a most interesting talker as well as writer, and during his travels abroad he wrote accounts of the places where he and Mrs. Roy were visiting, for The Atlanta Constitution.

The Washington Seminary Alumnae is one of the oldest organizations of its kind in Atlanta, and a large attendance will be expected at these gatherings during the winter. Miss Newell, the president, has the following officers to assist her: Miss Edythe Coleman, treasurer, and Miss Runa Erwin, secretary.

BEAUTY ENHANCES INTELLIGENCE OF SENORA GOMEZ

Wife of Havana's Mayor Possesses Splendid Gifts

By Madam Pompon.

SENORA MIGUEL MARIANO GOMEZ, the wife of the mayor of Havana and the first lady of the group of Cuban good-will tourists now in Atlanta, was, prior to her marriage 13 years ago, Senorita Serafina Diago. She is a native of Cuba and acquired her education among the abundant cultural influences of that delightful island. Of all the many beautiful women who, from time to time, have visited Atlanta, certainly none have been more lovely than she. With her beauty she combines many other inspiring qualities. It requires only the briefest interview with her to fall absolutely under the spell (I use the word for what it actually means) of that spirit which must be the peculiar and splendid gift of Spanish women, as I have never encountered it among those of other nations.

It is something difficult to analyze—a combination of grace of mind, courtesy of heart, sweet dignity, perfect self-possession, and the ability to reply with sincerity and keen intelligence to even those light questions which, to so many of us, are only forms of speech, and to which we are accustomed to mere surface sentences in reply.

The effect of all this was to me singularly exhilarating. She has no set phrases, but something far more fascinating. She speaks exquisite English, and her smile is that which is found nowhere in the world but among women of her race and station.

HAVING SAID MUCH, I will try to describe her. Senora Gomez is a vivid Spanish blonde with golden hair, dark eyes, long dark lashes, exquisite features and a lovely throat. She is very young—not over thirty, if so old as that. She is slightly tall, very slender, with the true French figure so admired the world over by artists. She has charming hands and is, in every respect, a perfect and most unusual beauty. It seemed to me, as I was talking to her, that movie stars throughout the world must have been trying, all these years, to make themselves as much like her as possible, and failing deplorably.

"Our life in Cuba is very interesting," she said. "We have many pleasures—balls, receptions, races, the opera. Society is very gay and elegant in Cuba. We enjoy life very much there. But with us home, husband, children are always first. No matter what one's social engagements may be, if a child has even the slightest fever, everything is called off at once. Our children we consider of the greatest importance of all. Mothers in Cuba are always what we call 'devotee'."

"ARE DIVORCES on the increase in Cuba, as they are here?" I asked.

"Yes, they are on the increase. They can always be had. I think a divorce is a good thing; only they must be for a just cause. We do not divorce because we are tired of one another, or like someone else better... oh, no! But if a man is a drunkard, if he is cruel, if he neglects his family, if he insults his wife... yes, of course."

"But if he is unfaithful?" "What do you call unfaithful?" with a quizzical smile. "If a man is devoted to his family, if he considers their interests and does his duty by them, he is faithful."

"But when he has other love affairs..."

"Oh, no, we do not divorce for those. They mean nothing. A man is always a man. They are just follies and pass. Don't misunderstand me: we love our husbands devotedly; we live for them and our children; but we never trouble ourselves about such things, never think of them. We are too proud. We consider them beneath our notice... unless, of course, a man conducts them in such a way that they become insulting to his wife... ah, that is different. We would divorce for that."

Senora Gomez occupies a brilliant position in the life of Cuba. Her beauty, elegance and culture naturally entitle her to all this, as well as her husband's high official position. The published photographs give no idea of her exquisite beauty nor of the charm and vitality of her words and of her manner.

THE SAILOR may be still far away on the sea, but the hunter is certainly coming home from the hills these days. Nimrods of all descriptions are bringing in well-filled bags of game, and in order and are being enjoyed in all sections of the city. Major and Mrs. Roland Gaugler motored to Catherine Island, off the coast of South Carolina, during the week. Shooting was fine, so was the hunting. Having brought down a fine deer, they hastened home again to share the results of the major's good sport and good luck with their Atlanta friends.

A very delightful venison dinner was held at the home of Major and Mrs. Gaugler Wednesday evening, following which the hosts and their guests repaired, for further diversion, to the Biltmore after-dinner dance. Two tables were arranged for the occasion, one in the dining room and the second in the adjoining sun parlor. White narcissus and pink roses were gracefully combined as central decorations. The place cards expressed the narcissus motif and the ices were in the form of large white roses. In addition to Major and Mrs. Gaugler, those present were Colonel and Mrs. H. S. Wagner, Colonel and Mrs. B. M. Bailey, Colonel and Mrs. A. R. Ripley, Colonel Noble Wiley, Major and Mrs. T. R. Macklin, Mrs. Robert Blackman, of Barbourville, Va., Mrs. Gaugler's mother, Mrs. Stacy Ernest Hill and Mr. W. T. Comer.

DR. AND MRS. HOWARD BUCKNELL are spending a week in Atlanta, stopping at the Biltmore. Dr. Bucknell arrived last week, having come through the country by motor.

for. Mrs. Bucknell arrived today. The Bucknells spent the summer at Pine Point camp, Lake Saranac, in the Adirondacks and came here direct from New York, having spent a month at the Gladstone. They leave shortly for Clearwater, Fla.

Schools of Country Will Observe Uncle Remus Day

All of the schools in the United States have been invited to observe Uncle Remus' birthday, December 9, by devoting a part of their English period to the study of our southern folklore writer, Joel Chandler Harris.

The following suggested program has been sent to all of the schools. Biographical Sketch—from the Life and Letters of Joel Chandler Harris, by Julia Collier Harris; reading, an Uncle Remus story from "Uncle Remus, His Songs and Sayings," or "Uncle Remus and His Friends," "Nights With Uncle Remus," told by Uncle Remus; music, Uncle Remus' Revival Hymn, set to music by Mrs. C. W. Hubner; Ethnology of the Folk Tales, from the introduction to the "Uncle Remus" books; reading, from "On the Plantation," reading from the "Chronicles of Aunt Minerva Ann," or "Free Joe," or any of the stories; music, the Uncle Remus music, by Edward McDowell. Mrs. H. G. Hastings, second vice president of the association, and chairman of the birth-day committee, has received a number of letters from schools announcing their intention of having a program, and expressing their pleasure at being able to honor so great a man in this way.

Officers of the Uncle Remus Memorial Association are: Mesdames A. McD. Wilson, life president; Hal Hentz, first vice president; H. G. Hastings, second vice president; W. D. White, third vice president; J. B. Montgomery, recording secretary; Arthur Hazzard, treasurer; T. T. Stevens, assistant treasurer; Spencer Atkinson, corresponding secretary; W. C. ## BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

THE PLOT THICKENS.
BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Ever since the world began, Scamps have loved to plot and plan.—Old Mother Nature.

Reddy Fox and Mrs. Reddy did just as they had planned. They found a place where they could sleep during the day and not be likely to be disturbed. And it wasn't so far from the farm where the turkeys were but that come down from out of the trees. Then the turkeys went up to the farmyard, where they were fed. After this they they could keep an eye on what was going on when they were awake.

"We want to know everything we can about the people at that farm and about what the turkeys do during the day," explained Reddy.

So they remained hidden behind the barn only until daylight. The turkeys did not come down out of the tree until after the farmer had come out of his house. When he came out a dog came out with him and it was a bound, just as Reddy had said.

"It is time for us to be going," whispered Reddy to Mrs. Reddy, and they stole away swiftly, keeping the barn between them and the house until they reached the woods.

"Now we're all right," said Reddy, "if that dog doesn't find our trail."

The dog didn't and so there was nothing to interfere with their plans. They remained hidden at the edge of the woods until they saw the turkeys

From behind the wall they could watch all that went on around that farm.

Mrs. McClung And Mrs. Bonn To Visit Mrs. Julian Field

Among the prominent visitors coming to Atlanta Friday, December 20, to spend the Christmas holidays will be Mrs. Calvin McClung, of Knoxville, Tenn., and Mrs. Samuel G. Bonn, of Palo Alto, Cal., who will visit their sister, Mrs. Julian Field, at her home on Palisades road.

Mrs. McClung was formerly Miss Barbara Adair, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Adair, leading and beloved pioneer residents of Atlanta, who were prominently identified with social and civic circles in the city.

The presence of three attractive visitors will furnish inspiration for a series of parties to be given in their honor, and among those entertaining at small and informal parties for Mrs. McClung and Mrs. Bonn, to which only their intimate friends will be invited, will be Mrs. Field, Mrs. Frank Stewart and Mrs. A. D. Adair.

just wandered around for a while. So Reddy and Mrs. Reddy went back to a snug hiding-place to sleep a while. You see, they had been up all night. After they had had a good nap they crept to another stone wall, along which bushes grew thickly. From behind this wall they could watch all that went on around that farm.

The turkeys were scattered and wandering around in the Old Orchard. Once it looked as if they were going over right near where Reddy and Mrs. Reddy were hiding. It was a very exciting moment. But the big birds didn't come quite near enough and the foxes were too clever to run the risk of frightening them and giving the alarm. The dog was in the house most of the time, much to the disappointment of Reddy and Mrs. Reddy.

"We can't do anything until we get that dog out of the way," said Reddy. "If we should catch one of those turkeys and that dog should find our tracks, that turkey wouldn't do us any good. We must be patient and not spoil everything by doing the wrong thing."

"A turkey is worth a lot of patience," said Mrs. Reddy. "I can be just as patient as you can."

It was late afternoon before their chance came. The turkeys began to move up toward the Old Orchard. At the same time the dog trotted over to the barn and began to nose around.

"Now is my chance," said Mrs. Reddy. "I'll lead that dog away and you get one of those turkeys before they get up in that tree."

Mrs. Reddy slipped away and presently Reddy saw her running around the corner of the barn. It looked as if everything was going to work just as they had hoped it would work. It looked as if their plot was going to succeed.

OWNER OF YACHT CLEARS MYSTERY IN MAN'S DEATH

SAVANNAH, Ga., Dec. 5.—(AP)—The mystery of the yacht Illusion, found near Beaufort, S. C., yesterday with the master dead, dissolved late today when police received a message from L. P. Cartier, member of the New York Curb Exchange, who owns the boat, that Captain William P. Mills was bringing the craft south alone.

Authorities adopted the theory that Captain Mills, whose body was discovered in a small boat in the marshes a short way from the Illusion, became ill and deserted the larger vessel in an attempt to reach land. This solution was strengthened by statements of physicians that death was from natural causes.

The deserted yacht with the small boat nearby was found by the crew of the Isoudega, owned by the United States engineer's office at Savannah. A note signed by Alfred Fraley found in the cabin added to the mystery. But this, too, was solved to day when it was learned Fraley was bringing south the yacht Star Jael for Earl M. Wilson, of New York, who found the Illusion deserted and left a note that the authorities be notified.

In his message from New York today Cartier said Captain Mills was bringing the Illusion south to meet him in Florida.

From Youth to Old Age

DURING the three trying periods of maturity, maternity and middle age, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound proves its worth.

This famous medicine benefits 98 out of every 100 women who report after taking it.

WINNIE DAVIS DORSEY
519 Orange St., Indianapolis, Indiana

"When I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I was run-down and underweight, as girls sometimes are. One of my friends told me about your medicine. I have gained strength and I work every day in a laboratory."—Winnie Davis Dorsey.

10,000 Bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound are sold every day

MRS. VERN L. DENNINGS
510 Johnson St., Saginaw, Michigan

"Although I am only 22 years old, I have four babies to care for. Words cannot explain what your Vegetable Compound has done for me. My mother always kept it in her house for years. She calls it 'the old reliable.' Before my first baby was born she urged me to take it because I was so terribly weak, and I gave it a good trial. After three bottles I could feel a great improvement. At one time I had to lie down four or five times a day. I still take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound whenever I need it for I feel that it gives me strength to be a good mother to my little family. I will gladly answer letters asking about it."—Mrs. Vern L. Dennings.

MRS. WILLIAM PARENT
1415 W. 62nd St., Seattle, Washington

"When my little daughter was born, we were living on a homestead way up in northern Alberta, Canada. I had four other children and I worked so hard that I suffered a nervous breakdown. The doctor's tonic didn't seem to help me and when a friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I began to take that instead. One day I felt good, the next day I might feel bad but I kept on with the Vegetable Compound until I felt well again. It is a wonderful medicine for it surely brought back my strength. Today I can do anything, thanks to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If any woman will write to me I will tell her all I can about this medicine."—Mrs. William Parent.

MRS. DELLA HUTSELL
626 E. 1st St., Casper, Wyoming

"Three years ago I was in bed three months with a nervous breakdown. For years I suffered, having to lie down frequently and often I felt so weak I could hardly stand up. I have four children, the youngest 21, and I board two little school-girls. I try to keep my home as a mother should but I am at the age so many women dread. Since taking six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I feel 100% stronger. I am not so nervous and my appetite is better. My head only bothers me once in a while for which I praise your Vegetable Compound. I am always recommending it to other ladies when we get talking together."—Mrs. Della Hutsell.

THE GUMPS—GOOD NEWS

Housebroken
BY PAUL HERVEY FOXINSTALLMENT XXIX.
ABANDONED.

There was, of course, the one way left, Bruce thought, the way he had previously planned. To make love to Suzanne until for very relief she ran back to her husband. That had struck him as an amusing idea when he had started on this trip. He regarded it now with loathing. But what else was there? He must force her hand, and could think of no other way.

It was almost dark by the time he entered the house. He had never seen Kathleen in such good spirits before. She laughed, talked cheerfully and incessantly, even made jokes. It was true she restricted her conversation to Suzanne, but still Bruce wondered how could she have the heart to be so gay when she saw his wretched face.

He turned in early, a habit that had grown on him since he had come to the island. But when he got up in the morning his resolution to make one last effort to stiffen Suzanne's homeward still burned strongly.

After breakfast Kathleen wandered off by herself. Bruce noticed that she took the long, roundabout trail that led to the north shore.

He waited until she was out of sight, then plunged headlong in the task before him.

Suzanne looked up. Her big, heavily circled eyes, the tired droop to her mouth, should have told him how deeply the strain was wearing on her. "I've got to talk things out with you, Suzanne," he said abruptly.

"About you and me, I mean," she said vaguely.

"About you and me, I mean," he hurried on. "We can't go on just waiting like this forever—until the divorce comes through. It may take months. You and I could go to France, perhaps."

"Please!" she pleaded. "I—I'd rather not talk about these things. The divorce will come through in the end. You told me Tom said he'd take steps immediately."

"But you must realize how I feel!" "O, Bruce!" she said almost sadly, and a little smile did cross her face. "You're not in love with me!"

"Of course I am."

"There's no need of pretending you are. You're tired of seeing me even. That was just a mood. I've no right to keep you here. You see, I do know how you feel."

She had spoken so simply that he had no answer. How was he going to make love to a woman who knew damned well he didn't love her at all? Then he did something hit upon the right words—an inspiration.

"But aren't you in love with me?" he asked.

"In love with you?" she echoed, and her face flushed a little. "You don't seriously think that I—"

He followed up his advantage quickly. "You ran away with me, didn't you?" he demanded gruffly. "What else am I to think? What's wrong with me?"

"Why, I couldn't love a man like you!" she said.

"Don't tell me you still think you care for Tom. Don't compare me to Tom!"

"O, I'm not comparing you to Tom!"

"If there was ever a bore, it's Tom! I wouldn't expect any woman in her right senses—"

"How dare you!" she cried suddenly in a trembling voice. "As if you were fit to be in the same world with him!"

with him! O, your conceit is unbelievable! I disliked you the first moment I saw you. I thought you'd changed, but you're every bit as bad as you were!"

He tried to glare at her. It was working—the miracle was actually working! He saw that, from her small clenched fists, her blazing eyes. Suddenly a sob choked in her voice.

"O, why did I ever love him?" she wailed.

"Why don't you go back to him then?" he said. "He might take you back."

"What?"

"Yes, I mean it! I'll go to him on my knees if necessary. O, you don't know what I've gone through. It's been like madness."

"Suzanne!" he cried in what he hoped was an imploring voice.

"Don't come near me!" she said. "I'm going back on the next launch alone."

He tiptoed out of the house. He could hear Suzanne pulling open bureau drawers, packing in a kind of panic. Unutterable relief stole over him.

He started out briskly on the north shore trail as soon as he was out of sight of the house. But there was no sign of Kathleen in the woods or on the rocky beach. Perhaps she had circled the island. Climbing over rocks and stones, he hurried on. He had been gone almost an hour in his fruitless search when he realized he had covered every shore, and was close to the house again.

He entered it. A curious silence greeted him. He knocked at Suzanne's door. Her room was deserted. Had she gone already? Had Capt. Jones taken her off on his morning trip? And where was Kathleen?

He called her name, and no voice answered. Stepping outside again, he held his breath. He heard the faint, regular beat of Capt. Jones' engine. He ran down the slope and out to the cove.

Far across the waters the small launch was steadily pushing its way toward Tenby. Bruce could make out the figure of the captain bending over in the stern. But his eye did not linger on him. He gazed at the bow of the boat, and saw there not one figure, but two! Kathleen had gone away with Suzanne!

He had been coolly abandoned. He had been marooned, deserted, and ignored!

He conducted himself like a maniac. He showed despairingly at the distant boat, even though he knew his voice wouldn't carry against the wind at that distance.

He shook his fists and swore, and tried to tell himself to keep his head. Capt. Jones would appear tomorrow—he wasn't really marooned. He could go to Stamford, find Kathleen there. But it was impossible to be logical. He was driven by a kind of panic. They would take the 2:15 train. They would be gone. Kathleen would vanish. She would go instantly to China. He would never see her again. He would never have the chance to try to win her.

Lying high up on the rocky ledge there was an old rowboat that had long been exposed to the weather. Bruce was a desperate man. He ran back to the house, found a brand new shirt, rushed back to the dory, tore the shirt in strips, and stuffed up the cracks frantically.

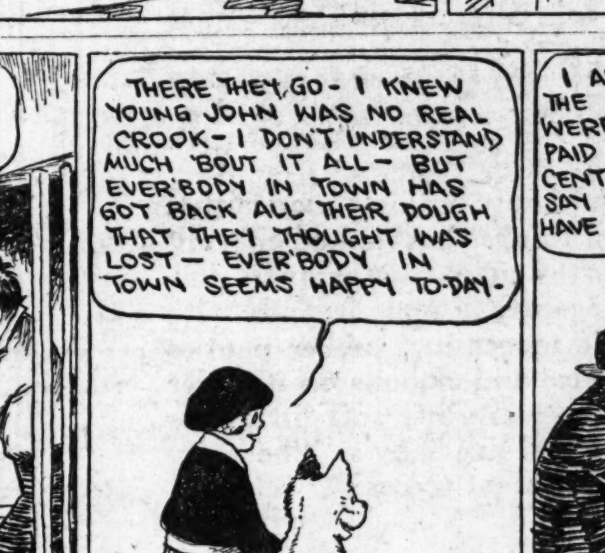

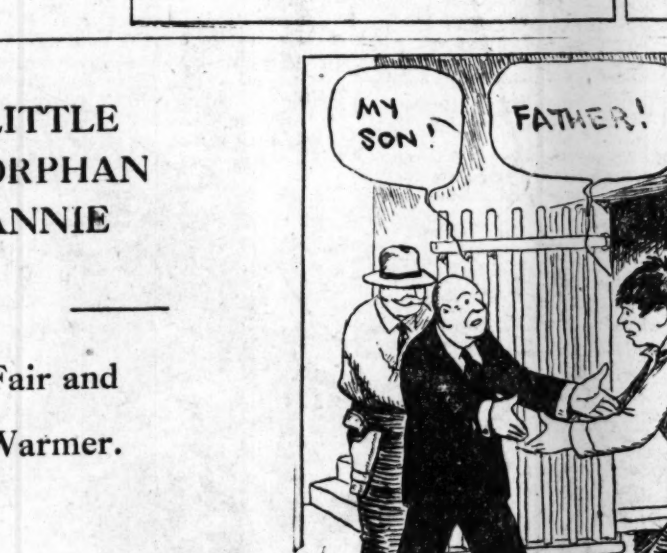

He shoved the boat off the ledge into the water. Its frame had trembled in that brief passage. But it might last—the water was calm enough. He had no care, but he found a small trip of planking on the beach that would do for a paddle.
